The President's Plans.
Tainted Football.
Men and Mice.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

RECENTLY Will Rogers wrote, "There never was a time when so many fools were making money." Today he can tell them there never was a time when so many fools were losing money so rapidly.

ONE solemn New York banker thinks the drop in stocks "will send back to work many people who have been sitting around brokerage offices, on the trail of easy money."

TIME wasted watching tickers on blackboards will doubtless be spent more usefully hereafter.

But usurious money lenders, who have been charging stock gamblers eight to 20 per cent interest, are not the men to rebuke the gamblers.

YOU will hear, perhaps today, "Big bankers have stepped in and stopped the decline."

That happens after little people have been shaken out, and stocks have dropped to a fine investment basis.

Millions today sorrowfully realize that it does not pay to gamble.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S plan for a great system of inland waterways realizes, in prospects, the hope of those that welcomed an able engineer to the White House.

Total expenditures planned will amount to $525,000,000, and every dollar spent will pay for itself ten times over.

THE President observes that the annual increase in expenditure will amount only to the cost of one-half of one battleship.

The President might have added that in modern war the whole of one battleship would be worth less than one-half of 10 cents, since battleships are now merely targets for submarines and airplanes, worth nothing, except to battleship builders.

THE Carnegie Foundation says college football is "tainted with money." Free teaching and cash bonuses are given to young men that can kick hard, run fast and tackle savagely.

It would be more pleasing if colleges sought great teachers as eagerly as they seek out quarterbacks.

BUT no great harm is done. The games and great crowds arouse young men's interest in college life and give college education to young men from rolling mills and rear ends of ice wagons that might otherwise remain uneducated.

THE Swiss Parliament, elected by a moral and serious nation, proposing a law to punish blasphemy, suggests six months in prison for those that "orally or in writing insult God."

Blasphemy should be punished because it sets a bad example and shows want of respect for the feelings of others.

BUT is it possible for any two-legged human microbe on this planet "to insult God?"

If the mice proposed to punish any mouse insulting Edison, you would say, "Mice, don't worry, you CAN'T insult Edison."

How much less can any man insult the Creator of the universe?

THE Tribuna of Rome announces an interesting ceremony.

Italy's King and Queen, in full state, accompanied by Crown Prince Humbert and other princes, will visit Pope Pius in the Vatican, the first visit of Italian royalty to the Pope since 1870, and the days of Garibaldi.

After an intimate meeting between the Pope and the royal family, the royal party will enter St. Peter's to render homage at the Tomb of St. Peter.

The proposed picturesque confirmation of renewed friendliness between the Italian monarchy and the Pope, arranged by Mussolini, is of great historical interest.

POINCARE and Clemenceau, great Frenchmen, and old—Clemenceau is 88—amaze their doctors by quick recovery from serious illness.

"Within an inch of death" last Sunday, Clemenceau is now getting up at 7 in the morning to work on his important book and discuss politics with friends.

THE puzzling fact for prohibition Americans is that these Frenchmen, all their lives, have drunk light French red wine, diluted with water, and never drink ice-water. French doctors even tell you that red wine, containing iron, tannin and vitamines in abundance, makes good blood, which gives health and long life.

HALDANE, eminent British biologist, says the Negro race in Africa will gradually die out because Negroes move to big cities. Had they remained in the country, says Haldane, they might gradually have equaled the whites in number.

But city life kills them.

THAT statement appears to be confirmed by statistics in New York City.

The death rate in the Negro section is 40 per cent higher than throughout the city as a whole.

There are 300,000 Negroes in New York City, and the health problem is a serious one.

FALL GUILTY OF BRIBERY CHARGE

Doheny, Oil Baron, May Be Prosecuted as Accessory In Elk Hills Oil Scandal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. — (AP.) — Albert B. Fall was found guilty today of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny for the lease of the Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve.

The jury recommended to the court that the former interior secretary be shown mercy.

MAY TRY DOHENY

Owen J. Roberts, special government counsel in the oil scandal cases, announced today that the government would move to bring Doheny to trial on a charge of giving a bribe of $100,000 to Fall, soon after the first of the year.

Eight men and four women composed the jury which convicted the 68-year-old man, now broken in health, of guilt in this connection while serving as secretary of interior in the Harding cabinet.

COUNSEL BITTER

Frank J. Hogan, chief of the defense, said Fall was 'robbed of his right for trial by justice."

"He was robbed of his constitutional rights by the judge's charge," the lawyer said.

Doheny burst out:

"It's that d—— court," he shouted as he shook his fist.

Roberts said that because his associate counsel, Atlee Pomerene, would go to Los Angeles November 18 to prosecute civil suits to recover for the government "relief releases" granted to Doheny in December, 1921, and February, 1922, it would be impossible to set the trial of Doheny for next month and that he did not wish to try the case in the short court month of December.

"I am personally very sorry for Secretary Fall. The duty that I

LLOYD RESIGNS STATE POST

Walter J. Lloyd, of Pittsburgh, has resigned as director of the state bureau of employment, Peter Glick, secretary of the Department of Labor and Industry, announced today from Harrisburg.

Lloyd's resignation from the $6,000-a-year job, a surprise, indirectly brings a promotion to another Pittsburgher, William S. Crozier.

Glick announced that Silas S. Riddle, of Bloomsburg, director of rehabilitation, has been appointed to Lloyd's position and that Crozier has been named to Riddle's job.

Lloyd has held the position for approximately two years.

Crozier, born in Pittsburgh 52 years ago, organized the Duquesne Packing Company, of which he was general manager for 15 years. He lives at 3911 Dewey avenue.

Glick announced the changes become effective November 15.

Bettis Air Circus Called Off Tonight

The air circus scheduled for tonight over Bettis Field has been postponed.

"Weather permitting," R. B. Trego, assistant manager of the field, said, "the night air show will begin Monday night at 8 o'clock."

The illuminated aviation display was slated as the climax of Light's Golden Jubilee.

River Pilgrimage Gives Democrats Rally Slogan

Without making any direct charges that Pittsburgh was not properly represented at the Ohio River canalization celebration at Cincinnati, Mrs. Carroll Miller last night made the river pilgrimage by city and county officials the subject of a speech in the Democratic headquarters.

"You will remember that the Spanish-American War was won with the rallying cry, 'Remember the Maine!'" she said. "It seems to me that this election can be won with the slogan, 'Remember the Queen City!'"

Mrs. Miller promised in Mayoralty Candidate Thomas Dunn "a man who knows just what to do at public functions when he represents the proud city of Pittsburgh."

VOTE ON METRO PLAN ASKED

The County Commissioners were formally requested by the Metropolitan Plan Commission today to re-submit to the voters of Allegheny County at the election of November, 1930, the question of adopting the metropolitan charter providing for a Greater Pittsburgh co-terminous with the county.

Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, of the board of commissioners, said he would lay the matter before the board at the earliest opportunity.

The letter from the Metropolitan Plan Commission was signed by Joseph T. Miller, chairman.

PENNINGTON RIPS GIBSON DECISION

Dry Chief Says Political Ring Harassing Him Here; Pyle Calls Graham Unfit

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The prohibition situation in Pittsburgh was aired today before a Senate sub-committee which is hearing the protest of Attorney John S. Pyle, of Pittsburgh, against appointment of Louis E. Graham as United States attorney for Western Pennsylvania.

These were the highlights of the hearing:

1—Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington charged that Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, of Pittsburgh, had humiliated him and his assistants. He told of having asked Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran to carry this complaint before President Hoover.

2—Pennington further charged that Attorney Pyle was "the tool of a well-organized political faction which is trying to harass my efforts to enforce prohibition."

3—Pyle accused Graham of being at least partly responsible for illegal liquor raids on homes in Western Pennsylvania and asked the judiciary sub-committee to reject his nomination.

4—Pyle demanded that the committee call Judge Gibson to give him the opportunity

BURNED IN BED, WOMAN DIES

Miss Margaret Vance, 50, of 361 Lehigh avenue, died today from burns in West Penn Hospital, despite the heroic efforts of her friend, Mrs. Minnie Connelly, 56, to save her.

Miss Vance, in ill health, was sleeping in front of an open gas stove in her bedroom when the flames reached out and ignited her night clothes.

"Fire!" Miss Vance screamed, running to the bedroom of Mrs. Connelly, with whom she lived.

Mrs. Connelly grabbed a rug and extinguished the flames by wrapping it around Miss Vance.

The flames, however, had already severely burned her and she died soon after being taken to the hospital.

MORGAN HEADS GROUP, SUPPORTING MARKET; 'BUSINESS SOUND'

A banking pool headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. was formed to render any assistance necessary to the maintenance of an orderly market. Other members of the pool were the National City Bank, Chase National, First National, Guaranty Trust and Bankers Trust.

This afternoon the market was holding steady with the initial gains fairly well sustained. The list had opened with advances of one to five points. Liquidation of overhanging weak accounts was carried out without the stress noted in yesterday's terrific decline.

Official Washington regarded the stock market situation as not reflecting actual business conditions. President Hoover was so assured by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Gov. Roy A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board. These officials regarded the stock market plunge as a technical adjustment and expressed surprise that it had not occurred sooner.

Charles M. Schwab, head of Bethlehem Steel, declared in an address at the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute that never in his long association with the steel industry had he known it to enjoy a greater stability or a more promising outlook.

Treasury Head and President Confer On Situation

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—President Hoover was given a complete picture of the New York stock market debacle at the cabinet meeting today from Secretary Mellon and Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

Both of these business experts have watched the market closely and communicated to the President the viewpoints of their departments and the Federal Reserve Board, of which Mellon is ex-officio chairman.

BUSINESS SOUND

It was understood he was assured that the crash, although unprecedented since 1914, did not indicate any unsoundness in business or industry, but rather a technical re adjustment resulting from prices out of proportion to earnings.

Prior to the cabinet meeting Mellon was in communication with Federal Reserve Board members to receive the latest reports on the market and to discuss what could be done about it.

The verdict among expert advisors was "little or nothing" could be done although high officials re-

Powerful Financiers Throw Support to Stock Market

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Formation of a powerful banking pool, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., to support the stock market had a stabilizing effect on the New York Stock Exchange today and prices moved back and forth in orderly fashion. Also members of the pool are National City Bank, the Chase National, the First National, the Guaranty Trust and the Bankers Trust.

Trading continued heavy, with prices holding within a comparatively narrow range. Representatives of the pool said it was not the intention of the bankers to bring about an advance in the market. Nor did they desire to make money for themselves or their institutions. The object was to prevent an unwarranted collapse of prices of recognized standard American securities.

SET PRECEDENT

This was the first time in the history of Wall Street that leading banks pledged their institutions to buy stocks in the market. On previous occasions, when the situation seemed to warrant it, organized banking support was in the nature of supplying funds for the money

SCHWAB AND FARRELL OPTIMISTIC ON STEEL BUSINESS

ALL LEADERS SEE TRADE BOOMING

Jones & Laughlin, Republic, Youngstown Tube Chiefs Join Bright Predictions

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Leaders of the country's steel industry, here today for the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, were unanimous in stating that business was good.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and president of the institute, pointed out that the industry was closing its best year. He estimated total production at more than 57,000,000 tons.

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, said he thought business was in a healthy condition when the steel industry could run at 75 per cent to 80 per cent of capacity at this time of the year.

"BUSY AS CAN BE"

"There is a good deal of pessimism around in some industries," he asserted, "but I can't see where it affects the steel business. With one or two exceptions we are as busy as we can expect to be."

Mr. Farrell pointed out that some lines of the industry were "better than ever."

"I don't think there is a fabricating shop in the country which has not booked business for from four to five months ahead," he continued. "The shipbuilding business is better than it has been in 15 years."

KING SEES GOOD DEMAND

Willis L. King, vice president of Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, said:

"The steel industry has had a very prosperous year with every prospect of a good demand for next year. Operations of Jones and Laughlin are better than 85 per cent of capacity and I believe it will be about the low point for the quarter."

"Business is good," reported James A. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company. "Shipments this month are larger than last month. Demand has been holding up better than I expected. Prices are not quite so strong; they have been tapering off in two or three items, but not seriously."

BRIGHT FUTURE AHEAD

John A. Topping, chairman of Republic Iron and Steel, believed business was "exceedingly good considering the fact that we have had several years of excessive demand.

"I feel," he added, "that the present recession is a seasonal one, although somewhat belated. I see no reason why we should not look forward in the future to a normal demand."

L. E. Block, president of Inland Steel, said that orders were increasing.

STABLE PROFITS URGED

Stabilization of profits was upheld by Mr. Schwab in his address before the institute.

He declared it as ethical and necessary for the steel industry to think in terms of stabilized profits as it does for stability in other respects. "It is high time," he said. "we scrapped the idea that the steel business must be either a prince or a pauper."

He estimated production for 1929 would exceed 57,000,000 tons, 10 per cent greater than in 1928, the best previous year, but said even more important than this was the degree of stability attained.

SOUND CONDITION

"This fundamentally sound condition," he said, "is largely responsible for the uniform prosperity which has been shared by all branches and all companies in the industry. It is significant that the industry's favorable showing has not been due to high prices."

He attributed the improved earnings to three factors: Greater demand for steel, enlarged output, and lower costs.

While at present, he said, there is a slight let-up in demand he declared it would be unfortunate to let any slight fluctuations in demand disturb the healthy balance that has been established. He pointed out that a falling off in demand would be bound to result in an increase in costs in which event a stablized price structure would be needed more than ever.

THE MORNING AFTER :-: By Quin Hall

HARASSED, SAYS PENNINGTON

of replying to Pennington's charges.

5—Graham denied Pyle's charges that he had sponsored illegal liquor warrants.

Pennington left with the committee the letter he wrote to Commissioner Doran, federal prohibition commissioner, protesting against Judge Gibson's action in restoring to the Barr Manufacturing Company, of Tyrone, Pa., a permit to use alcohol in its perfume business.

EXCERPTS FROM LETTERS

Here are paragraphs from the letter:

"I am not only making a vigorous protest against this opinion of Judge Gibson's and the language used, but as an act of justice, I most earnestly and insistently urge that the matter be brought to the attention of the Attorney General and, through him, to the President of the United States, as an unwarranted and cowardly attack on federal officers in the performance of their duties."

"Judge Gibson," Pennington continued, "used his judicial position to humiliate the administrator and his assistants by injecting extraneous personalities having no bearing on the merits of the case."

Pennington told the senators that before Judge Gibson restored the permit it had been revoked by the Prohibition Department with Attorney Graham sitting as hearer in the case.

TELLS OF DISCUSSION

Pennington named Attorney C. D. Moss, of Pittsburgh, formerly engaged on his legal staff, as having discussed confidential facts of the case with L. S. Barr, of the manufacturing company, at a private room in the William Penn Hotel.

In the Gibson opinion to which Pennington takes exception, the jurist swept aside, as not pertinent to the case, ugly descriptions of Pennington and his agents which had been attributed to Barr.

Pyle's charges were overshadowed by Pennington's testimony.

"Graham," Pyle said, "has a disregard of constitutional guarantees that makes him unfit for district attorney."

Since 1926 searches and seizures have been executed on illegal warrants, Pyle charged.

"Graham is responsible because he was counsel for Pennington. He may not have actually directed such illegal searches, but he must certainly have had knowledge of them. These practices are going on today."

"Graham is too dry," Pyle continued as Graham, listening, smiled. "As United States Attorney he would not be disposed to prosecute anything but prohibition cases."

When the committee resumed the hearing after lunch Senator Overman warned Pennington that "too much extraneous testimony was being injected into the proceedings."

PYLE WOULD REPLY

Pyle immediately demanded the right to answer Pennington's charges that involved him in an alleged conspiracy to wreck prohibition enforcement.

Pyle's denouncement of the charges included a demand that Judge Gibson be called.

"Pennington," Pyle retaliated, "has besmirched the character of a United States district judge."

Graham's first move as he took the stand was to read a number of orders prepared by him as counsel for Pennington to show that he had not recommended search and seizure without proper warrants.

PYLE ASSAILED

Pennington's testimony included attack of Pyle's record.

"Pyle is nothing more than attorney for a long series of bootleg cases," the prohibition administrator declared. He named one—"the Feltlet Bottle Company, of Pittsburgh, which the court held was a bootleg supply house."

Graham, whose home is in Beaver Falls, sat with Pennington as Pyle recited his testimony to Senator Overman, of North Carolina.

These illegal warrants were obtained without the evidence of sale demanded by the Prohibition Act, Pyle explained, and merely on "information received."

"So many of these cases were eventually thrown out of court that the Federal district attorney (John D. Meyer) had to issue an order that they be stopped," Pyle continued.

Despite the order, the raids continued through the subterfuge of having prohibition agents accompany state officers, who are able to obtain warrants with less difficulty, Pyle testified.

Drank Poison Six Months Ago, Dies In Hospital

Steve Giko, 45, of house No. 145, Mollenauer, died this morning in the St. Joseph's Hospital, as a result of accidentally drinking poison more than six months ago.

Giko, a coal miner, employed by the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company at Mollenauer, left Mine No. 3 on April 14 tired, thirsty and in search of a drink of water. He spied a bucket which apparently contained water, hastily dipped out a cup full, drank it, and then discovered that the paid held a poison solution. He was given immediate first aid at the time, and rushed to the hospital, where he hovered between life and death until today.

BUSINESS SAFE, HOOVER TOLD

garded this as a slightly pessimistic attitude.

Brokers' loans have declined about $250,000,000 since the market blew up. While that is a mere drop in the bucket compared to the more than $6,500,000,000 in loans from the New York member banks, officials pointed out that it indicates a diversion of bank credit from the speculative market, making available greater sums to agriculture and industry.

"EASY MONEY" LIKELY

The situation, should the present tendency continue or should an upward reaction be slow, will be met with "easy money" and reduced rediscount rates at the Federal Reserve banks. Whether this will develop soon enough to benefit trade during the Christmas buying season, officials declined to predict.

At the Treasury it was stated flatly that the present market tendency did mean easier money, but it was thought that possibly that would not come for several months.

Secretary Mellon and Governor Roy A. Young, of the Federal Reserve Board, take the attitude that the plunge of stock prices does not indicate an unsound position of commerce and industry. It was simply an economic adjustment and most officials were frankly surprised that it didn't come sooner.

RESERVE WARNING

Ever since last February the Federal Reserve Board has been maneuvering to divert bank credit from speculative channels—that is a diplomatic and polite way of saying "to curb the market." Secretary Mellon called attention to the situation in his last annual report attributing the rapid rise in stocks to the belief on the part of the public that they never would come down, and to activities of powerful groups of speculators.

The Treasury, on a number of occasions, has called attention to the well-known law of gravity, that what goes up comes down. Twice the Reserve Board issued official and formal warnings that speculation was "out of hand," implying that prices were inflated and beyond reason compared to stock earnings.

DRAMATIC FURORE

The federal advisory council, made up of representatives of the reserve banks, sought more drastic action on the part of the board in the way of 6 per cent rates.

The final move was a hurried call of the governors of the reserve banks, which resulted in an increase of the New York rate to 6 per cent, although the other banks have remained at 5 per cent.

The dramatic furore and excitement on the New York exchange yesterday was contagious. Even officials at the Treasury Department were not entirely calm. When a hurried call for a late meeting of the reserve board was issued there was an air of drama in what usually are prosaic and extremely dull circles. Officials and clerks hastened this way and that, experts rushed in with latest reports and there was frequent communication with the New York Reserve Bank officials by members of the board. The atmosphere was tense when the meeting broke up with the terse statement that "words won't do any good now."

market and not for the purchase of stocks.

Today's market was notable for its extremely heavy volume rather than for any wild and wide fluctuations in stock prices.

After the stimulus of "support orders" had passed, the market settled back to routine affair, with the trend moderately downward. General Electric, after opening at 310, reacted to 300. Westinghouse sold off from 188 to 177; U. S. Steel from 207 to below 204. An equal number of the active shares, including American and Foreign Power, Bethlehem Steel and Columbia Gas, showed advances of a point or two from Thursday's close.

RESOURCES UNUSUAL

It is understood that only a small portion of the large resources made available by the six leading banking institutions in the reported "pool" were used yesterday afternoon to buy certain stocks for which there appeared to be, at the moment, no bids. A very considerable amount is still held in reserve.

The bankers involved indicate that they are not "back of" the market but "under" it. One of the members of the "pool" said that if a drive is made against the market it would be met with powerful resistance.

These prominent bankers have no desire to advance the market or to make money for their institutions by their operations. Their chief purpose is to stabilize the market and bring order out of chaos. Consensus among bankers is that the situation is entirely localized and due only to conditions brought about by excessive speculation.

PROFIT-TAKING

Commission houses reported that there was considerable profit-taking by traders who jumped into the market when it turned sharply upward in yesterday's session. Traders who were able to buy around yesterday's bottom levels had profits of $10 a share and more in many stocks.

Furthermore, many holders of stocks who failed to sell during the frightening rush of liquidation yesterday and late the previous day, had suffered from severe nervous strain and welcomed the higher levels of this morning to get rid of their stocks, despite reassuring statements from leading bankers and business executives.

Heavy buying orders continued to pour into the market, nevertheless, one commission house reporting that the great bulk of its business during the morning was in the form of huge buying orders for half a dozen of its wealthiest customers.

SIGHTSEEING JAM

The thousands of sightseers who again descended upon the financial district today caused troublesome traffic problems. At Broad and Wall streets a half dozen moving picture camera men gathered to take pictures of the crowds. The crowds gathered to watch the movie men. Traffic through these narrow, high-walled thoroughfares, always slow, soon wedged itself into an immovable mass. Extra police were hastily summoned to disperse the gaping throng and prevent new comers from stopping in front of J. P. Morgan & Co. and the subtreasury building.

Customers' rooms in all leading brokerage houses were crowded this morning before the market opened. Exhausted employes were besieged by persons seeking information about their accounts, if they still had them, and about the general outlook for stock movements during the day.

The faces of customers, however, showed little of that grimness associated with sudden losses. One broker offered an easy explanation of this fact by pointing out that most of those who were watching the boards this morning had lost nothing. They had been out of the market for several months, he said, and were now back with funds ready to pick up a few bargains.

Stock Panic Reflected In Trading Aboard Ship

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The sea-going brokerage office on the liner Berengaria which arrived today, reported it had reflected the collapse of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday.

On Wednesday the 1,414 passengers on the ship were somewhat dazed by the hectic stock recessions, but the jolt of yesterday created intense excitement and trading became sharp.

The brokerage office in the first cabin was crowded Wednesday afternoon, when gloomy connections were being picked up by radio, but on Thursday the deck space on a side of the ship was used by passengers unable to get into the office.

Trading Wednesday was slight but when the reaction set in yesterday transactions increased and it was stated that sales numbered 15,000. All were buying rather than selling after favorite stocks had touched bottom and were on the rebound.

$16,000 BRINGS ALIMONY TRUCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Wife No. 3 betook herself out of the picture today for a consideration of $16,000 and left Gordon C. Thorne with only one wife and one ex-wife to support.

The scion of the founder of Montgomery Ward and Company sighed as he contemplated a winter without an alimony bill to settle. Last Monday he obtained a Supreme Court hearing of his petition to reduce the $750 monthly alimony he has paid since 1921 to his first wife, Mrs. Virginia Milner Thorne, of New York. She claimed $2,250 back alimony. The hearings will not be called until spring.

Thorne now lives with his fourth wife, Mary Bolin Thorne, the 25-year-old nurse he married last spring.

Mrs. Ann Clore Thorne Hutchins dropped her demands for $4,000 back alimony today on consideration of a check for $16,000. Thorne's third wife married a Chicago broker after her divorce.

FALL GUILTY OF TAKING BRIBE

have had in the case has been an unpleasant one. But I have done only what I felt was the duty of a sworn official. I am satisfied that the verdict was right and was in accordance with the evidence."

FACES THREE YEARS

The offense on which Fall was convicted today provides a maximum penalty of a fine for three times the amount of the bribe and imprisonment for not more than three years.

The former cabinet officer and Mrs. Fall, accompanied by his doctor and nurse, drove to their downtown hotel a few minutes after the verdict. Fall walked into the hotel lobby, apparently little affected, but Mrs. Fall appeared considerably shaken.

Mark D. Thompson, Fall's personal attorney, collapsed in court a few minutes after the verdict was rendered. He has suffered from heart trouble for some time.

Weeping, he donned his coat and slumped to the floor.

WEEP TOGETHER

Fall's wife, weeping, pushed her way through the crowd to her husband's side. She sat in the big easy chair beside him and they threw their arms around each other and sobbed on each other's shoulders.

The verdict was handed down nearly eight years after Fall received the money from Doheny, a friend of prospecting days when they and the West were young.

The case was the first criminal action won by the government in those growing out of the celebrated Senate oil investigations. The government has recovered the leases, but Fall, once branded by the Supreme Court as a "faithless public servant," is the first person connected with the leases to be convicted.

IN INVALID CHAIR

During the trial Fall has appeared in court most of the time in a wheel chair and on one occasion a recess had to be taken because of his condition.

The four women and eight men on the jury stood as they announced their verdicts individually.

One by one they were polled and each replied:

"Guilty, with mercy of the court."

As the jury, which had been out almost 24 hours, walked to its place there was not another sound in the court room.

"Ladies and gentlemen," asked the court, "have you reached a verdict?"

"Yes," was the reply.

"What is your verdict?" asked the court.

"Guilty," replied Foreman Thomas E. Norris.

As the verdict was rendered Fall slumped back in his big leather chair.

Fall's daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Jouett Elliott leaned forward in their seats and wept.

MRS. DOHENY CALM

Mrs. Doheny sat with dry eyes. She slowly fanned herself.

Her husband sat next to Fall with little apparent emotion. He clapped his hand over his ear as the court reviewed the case.

The courtroom was crowded to its capacity.

Defense counsel served notice immediately of a motion for new trial.

It was the third criminal charge Fall has faced as a result of his oil leasing policies. One charge, that of conspiring with Harry F. Sinclair, now in jail on conviction of contempt of the court and the Senate, still awaits trial.

The Sinclair-Fall charge was that of conspiracy to defraud the government of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve. It was brought to trial in 1927, but resulted in a mistrial when Burns detectives hired by Sinclair were found shadowing the jury.

SINCLAIR CLEARED

Subsequently Sinclair stood trial alone and was acquitted and because of this it had been expected the charge against Fall would be dismissed.

The other charge against Fall was that of conspiring with Doheny to defraud in the Elk Hills lease. Both were acquitted.

The foreman of the jury said that four ballots had been taken last night.

"It first showed seven for acquittal, three for conviction and two undecided and not voting," he said.

"When the fourth ballot was taken at 1 a. m. it showed seven for conviction and five for acquittal."

"On the first ballot this morning the vote was 11 for conviction and 1 for acquittal.

"The one remaining vote for acquittal came over for conviction today."

On the first ballot yesterday, it was said, two of the women jurors were for acquittal and two did not vote, while on the fourth ballot last night, two of the women jurors voted for conviction and two to free Fall.

Thompson recovered and was led from the courtroom by two character witnesses for Fall.

Prince, Fiancee Feted; Danger to Life Ignored

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—While police kept all known anti-Fascists under the strictest surveillance, Crown Prince Humbert, heir to the Italian throne and fiance of Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, continued on a pre-arranged program of activities today, totally ignoring his narrow escape from death yesterday.

Although Fernando di Rosa, the would-be assassin of the Prince, avowed that he had undertaken to shoot the royal visitor on his own responsibility, the authorities have instituted a widespread investigation to find out whether any confederates had plotted the shooting with him.

He is being held in custody under close guard pending trial for the attempted shooting. An exiled native of Milan, Italy, Di Rosa had been studying law in Paris until a few days ago when he crossed into Belgium for the express purpose of killing the Prince, according to his own admission.

There was much speculation as to whether the Belgian government would permit his extradition to Italy if such a request were made by the latter government.

Prince Humbert today was to act as host at the Italian embassy at a luncheon to which the entire Belgian royal family, Premier Henri Jaspar and Foreign Minister Paul Hymans have been invited.

In the afternoon, the Prince, accompanied by his fiance, were to be officially received by the municipality of Brussels.

SEVEN BODIES OF SUNKEN FERRY'S 52-MAN CREW FOUND

SLIGHT HOPE HELD FOR OTHERS

Worst Storm in 30 Years Hits Great Lakes Region; Five Ships Still Aground

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Coast guard crews of four Lake Michigan cities were to combine forces today in a search for bodies of the 52-man crew of the car ferry Milwaukee, believed to have foundered and sunk in the lake region's worst storm in 30 years.

Seven bodies, some of them encased in life preservers bearing the lost ship's name, have been picked up thus far by ships off Kenosha, Wis.

Officials of the Grand Trunk Railway, owners of the Milwaukee, have given up hope that the ship is afloat and coast guard crews are certain the entire crew was lost with the ship.

DEBRIS SIGHTED

The motor ship Steel Chemist picked up the first two bodies between Kenosha and Racine, Wis., 10 miles off shore. When the boat docked here with the bodies its crew reported sighting pieces of floating debris, a floating mattress and part of a shattered pilot house.

Thomas Roberts, a fireman on the ferry, was listed as a resident of New Castle, Pa., but investigation there failed to disclose anyone who knew him.

LOSS IN MILLIONS

Damage amounting to millions of dollars has been reported from shore line cities on both sides of the lake. Waves have destroyed houses, torn shore drives and smashed breakwaters in Chicago, Milwaukee and smaller cities.

Thirteen men were taken from the wooden freighter N. J. Nessen off Leamington, Ontario, before it was battered to pieces.

Rescuers saved 23 persons from the steamship Maple Court, which grounded on Magnetic Reef, in upper Lake Huron.

Coast guardsmen at Kenosha found two other bodies in practically the same "lane" as the first ones were found.

The crew of the U. S. engineering tug Elder reported sighting a screen door, part of a galley, a chair and a saxophone case, all believed to be from the Milwaukee.

A watch found on one of the bodies had stopped at 8:35. The ill-fated ship left Milwaukee Tuesday afternoon about 3 o'clock for Grand Haven, Mich., carrying 27 loaded freight cars.

It is believed that lurching of the storm-tossed ship wrenched the cars loose from the rails in the hold of the ferry, causing it to tilt and founder. The stern of the boat from the main deck upward was open to allow the ready switching of cars onto its four main deck tracks.

Thirty-two men of the crew remained aboard the William B. Pilkey, an ore carrier aground near Detour, Mich., as rescue ships stood by to give assistance.

The sand sucker C. W. Cadwell is fast aground five miles from the Nessen, but is reported to be in no danger of breaking up.

FREIGHTER SEEN TO SINK

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—A large freighter was seen to go down four miles off shore in Lake Erie, according to E. Foster, of Port Royal, who said today he looked through field glasses and saw the vessel sink gradually in a cloud of steam.

Foster said he thought the boilers of the freighter blew up.

STRANDED ON ISLAND

SAULTE STE MARIE, Mich., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Deserted by its captain and crew, the freighter Chicago, of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation fleet, was aground last night, according to radio advices received here from the Canadian freighter Goderich.

The radiogram indicated the ship was stranded in Lake Superior on Michipocoten Island, 80 miles northwest of White Fish Point.

The Goderich and the tug Whalen were standing by, waiting for the storm to abate that they might remove the crew from the nearly uninhabited island.

BATTERED, MAKES PORT

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—With bow almost awash, the steel railings around the decks hanging in festoons, and the crew's quarters smashed, the steamer James E. Davidson trailed into port here from Duluth after weathering for 36 hours the Great Lakes storm.

Near Keeweenaw Point the storm hit her full force. When the anchors were dropped, both chains snapped like threads. The forward hatch was stove in, and the hold filled with water.

PAGEANT OFF, GIRLS GLUM

One hundred and fifty pretty girls laid aside so many striking costumes today, mourning the pranks of a weather demon who presented rain and chills when he should have given Indian summer zephyrs.

They are the students of Pennsylvania College for Women, whose part in Light's Golden Jubilee pageant was the Episode of Light—the last on the program.

Costumed and trained for weeks by Miss Ida Kerst, Miss Mary Jewel, Karl Heinrich, Bess Shrader and others, they were prepared Wednesday night to mount the stage at Forbes Field and play their parts when officials said:

"Play's off. Called on account of rain."

Disappointed somewhat, they returned to the college gymnasium. For an hour the applause of the tens of thousands of spectators had been deadened by the inclement weather. But in the silent "gym," with an audience of two—a news reporter and photographer—they enacted the scenes. The applause wasn't deafening, but the spirit of appreciation was sincere.

Last night's pageant was canceled also.

If these negotiations are successful, as it is expected they will be, the agreement will be embodied in treaty form and formally ratified by both governments.

The negotiations involve the payment by Germany of some $194,000,000 outstanding on the army of occupation costs, and some $251,000,000 in mixed claims for damages to American nationals and property before and after America entered the war.

CHURCH BELFRY GANG CHIEF ESCAPES

Flees Into Downtown Crowd In Break From Morganza Officer on Way to Court

Gerald Raymond, 17, leader of the "church belfry gang," staged his third escape from the clutches of the law in crowded downtown streets today.

Raymond and another lad were being taken to court as witnesses, Officer Walter Perkins, of the Pennsylvania Training School, at Morganza, informed the Missing Persons Bureau.

At First avenue and Smithfield street Raymond darted away from him and soon was lost in the throng of pedestrians. Police took up the hunt for the youth, who wore a gray uniform of the school.

He had escaped from the St. Charles Reform School, Kings County, Ill., and from the juvenile court detention rooms here, according to Morals Court records.

Raymond and three other boys were arrested last month. The steeple of the Homewood Baptist Church, Homewood avenue and Bennett street, was revealed as the rendezvous of their robber gang.

CITY OFFICIALS FACE CHARGES

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 25.—Harry G. Brown, Republican candidate for mayor, and Charles M. Stone, both members of City Council, are defendants in charges of irregularities in the purchases of supplies through an information sworn to by Paul Duggan, also of Connellsville.

The information charges that Brown, as superintendent of parks and public property, placed orders for materials from the Consolidated Coal and Supply Company, in which Stone, superintendent of accounts and finance, is a partner. It is charged the pair conspired to violate a law which prohibits councilmen from profiting through city purchases.

Duggan's information is a sequel to the refusal of District Attorney J. B. Adams to prosecute Mayor J. L. Evans on charges of being interested, as a garage owner, in the sale of automobiles to the city. Without passing judgment on the merits of the case, the district attorney held it would be impossible to bring the case before the court before the Mayor's term had expired.

Slayer Retracts Accomplice Charge

Hillman, Cranston chain store manager, in 1926, Arthur Lepper, alias Arthur Evans, who is serving a life sentence for the slaying, denied he made the statement involving others.

Interviewed at the prison by members of the attorney general's department, Lepper, they said, made accusations against a man now serving a two-year term there for a minor offense. When he later faced this man, the attorney general said, Lepper retracted all previous accusations.

WRECK TRY NOT HOOVER PLOT

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—What appears to have been a petty plot to defraud a railroad company of a few hundred dollars about the time that President Hoover's special train was to pass over the Baltimore and Ohio tracks near here, caused a sweeping investigation which convinced officers today that no effort had been made to wreck the train.

Shortly before the chief executive and his party were leaving Louisville, Ky., across the river from here, after the President had spoken there Wednesday night, a heavy sedan was found abandoned on a grade crossing on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad over which the Hoover train was routed.

Secret service men and railroad detectives arrested two Negroes. Local officers said the pair confessed to placing the car on the tracks in hope it would be wrecked and that they would be able to collect damages from the railroad company.

The Negroes, both of whom are held in jail here are Ed W. Young, 43, alleged owner of the car, and Charles W. Bullock, 19, an ex-convict, who was quoted by investigators as saying he was to receive $25 for his part in the affair. Young was said to have paid $560 on the car, with $225 still due.

PANTAGES JURY SHOWS STRAIN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The case of Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman accused of an offense against Eunice Pringle, young dancer, probably will go to the jury late today.

Superior Judge Charles Fricke said he expected the closing arguments, interrupted by the sudden illness of a woman juror yesterday, to be completed this afternoon, followed by his instructions to the jury.

Mrs. Lotta Steiner became ill as defense counsel was summing up the testimony. It was believed the strain of the long trial caused her illness, as in the case of Juror Harvey N. Connett, who previously was excused from the box.

Should Mrs. Steiner be unable to return to the jury her place will be taken by an alternate, Charles Thomas.

The trial of Pantages began October 1. He is accused of having attacked Miss Pringle in his private office, where she said she went to book a vaudeville act. The 54-year-old theatrical magnate denied the charge and countered that Miss Pringle had sought to blackmail him.

In his closing address to the jury Assistant Prosecutor Robert P. Stewart demanded a verdict carrying a sentence to state's prison. Under the law the jury is required to set the sentence in its verdict. It may be one year in the county jail or from one to 50 years in prison.

LOBBY QUIZ TO REPORT BINGHAM

Hiring Eyanson as Secretary May Bring Senate Censure; Steel Official Summoned

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—A special report, citing the manner in which Senator Hiram Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut, employed Charles L. Eyanson, a manufacturers' "lobbyist," as his private secretary during the tariff hearings was prepared today by the Senate's lobby investigating committee for early submission to the Senate.

The report will carry no particular recommendation of censure for Bingham, but may be made the basis for the introduction of a separate resolution of condemnation.

The committee likewise has decided to call upon the Department of Commerce for a list of its "dollar-a-year" men, who are deemed to be holding government offices in violation of law. J. E. Wuichet, secretary of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, revealed he was one of the department's "dollar-a-year" men while drawing $3,000 from his private employer.

STEEL OFFICIALS CALLED

"We believe this is an apparent violation of law," said Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.), of Montana. "We shall ask the department why it is ignoring the law."

C. A. Buck, a vice president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, was called today by the committee for questioning about his activities in connection with the placing of manganese on the free list in the pending tariff bill.

Buck will be examined when the committee resumes its hearings next week. Senator Walsh indicated today a determination to go thoroughly into the manganese lobby.

Senate Finance Committee Republicans put manganese, a product used in the manufacture of steel, on the free list after first having raised the tariff. The lobby committee is prepared to examine the contracts between the steel corporations and Soviet Russia manganese producers.

The lobby investigators meanwhile studied their testimony of the last few days, which revealed many interesting phases of lobbying. The testimony of Joseph R. Grundy, the "granddaddy of all lobbyists," was found particularly interesting.

The committee also displayed interest in Grundy's statement that a "hundred Eyansons would be a national asset." Grundy explained that such "bright young men" were necessary to take the place of veteran lobbyists, who might die before the next tariff bill is considered. He even inferred he was willing to conduct a school for young lobbyists so the future need would be fulfilled.

MASTER FILMS SAFE IN FIRE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Losses incidental to destruction of the laboratory here of the Consolidated Film Industries were tentatively fixed today at less than $2,000,000 as a result of discovery that several of the valuable screen productions stored in the building were not damaged.

Company officials said the exact loss could not be determined until an accounting had been made. One man was killed, but 50 other employes fled to safety before the fire ruined the structure yesterday.

Fears that the six vaults in the building might have been penetrated by heat sufficiently to damage master films known to have been within were allayed, at least partially, by the opening of one of the rooms last night. Films were found in perfect condition. The opening had been delayed until the sun set because experts said gasses might have been formed inside during the fire that would be ignited by the heat of the sunlight. The remaining vaults were to be opened today.

A million feet of film, most of which was believed to have been positive, was burned, company executives estimated. Positives can be reproduced from the original, or master, film.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum Productions estimated their film loss at $500,000, exclusive of possible destruction of master films in the unopened vaults. Another estimated loss of $60,000 was given by producers of "Hell's Angels," 30,000 feet of this master film apparently having been damaged or destroyed.

Grocer Fined For Selling Malt Syrup

CAIRO, Ills., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A. H. Bernhardt, Cairo grocer, was fined $150 for possession and sale of malt in United States District Court here when Judge Fred L. Wham ruled the selling of malt syrup with the knowledge it was to be used in the making of home brewed beer constitutes a violation of the national prohibition act.

Bernhardt pleaded guilty, but his attorney, Asa Wilbourn, urged leniency on the ground that nearly all grocers sell malt syrup in the belief it is not illegal to make beer for home consumption.

Margaret Anglin Gets $613 In Claim for Week's Pay

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Margaret Anglin, actress, was awarded $613.52 of her claim for $1,113.52 against Sherman Brown, Milwaukee theatrical manager, in an arbitration over Miss Anglin's contract to play a week during September as guest star of Brown's stock company in the Wisconsin city.

The arbitration, conducted by the American Arbitration Association, was decided by a two out of three vote. The claim covered the contracted salary and return fare to New York. Miss Anglin was allowed half the salary and the full fare.

"The evidence indicated that the difficulties that arose were due to the difference between Miss Anglin and the stage director; in our opinion both parties contributed to the result," read the award signed by the two arbitrators.

Actual expenses of the arbitration were split between the parties.

Each side had contended the other breached the contract, Brown stating that Miss Anglin had failed to present herself for rehearsal the night before her scheduled opening, with Miss Anglin testifying that she had volunteered to rehearse at any time or place that Albert Mack, Brown's director, was not present.

Harry Sommers, arbitrator designated by Brown, dissented from the opinion of H. Hobart Potter, appointed by the Arbitration Association, and Ludwig Vroom, appointed by Actors' Equity. Sommers contended that in her refusal to attend the rehearsal the actress had breached her contract.

Perfect Butter . . . Down

For the Rest of This Week

lb. 49c

The quality is right, the weather is right, the price is right, so why wouldn't this be a good time to buy several pounds . . . say enough for two weeks? Carefully wrapped in its vegetable parchment wrapper, Perfect Butter retains its sweet, fresh flavor a surprising length of time.

Your Favorite Cut of . . .

Beef Roast

lb. 33c

Round Sirloin Tenderloin

We cut hind quarters of beef into roasts . . . expensive cuts that are usually sold as steaks. You can imagine how delicious a tenderloin roast is. Or the sirloin. Or the round. Serve a steak-roast this Sunday.

Lean Fresh Hams . . . . . lb. 23c

Pedigreed Ducks For Sunday's Dinner!

Long Island Duck

lb. 38c

In 1872 a Yankee clipper swooped into the Boston Harbor. There the prize of its cargo, a pair of slant-eyed, shuffling Oriental ducks, was unloaded. Inter-bred with their less sophisticated cousins, the ordinary Long Island ducks, these fowl became the founders of a famous dish whose succulent flavor and "different" goodness receives honors at the most patrician tables. Average 5 to 6 lbs.

Your Week's Salad Supply . . .

Iceberg Lettuce

2 heads 19c

Large heads of tightly cupped leaves. By variations in the dressing, one can serve lettuce every day without danger of monotony.

Try This On Your Appetite!

Pumpkin Pie

A pumpkin pie when it looks nice,
Would make one long to have a slice,
But if the taste should prove so, too,
I fear one slice would scarcely do.

We guarantee these pies to taste as good as they look . . . so be prepared with that extra slice!

Coffee Supreme

3 lbs. $1.33

Thousands enjoy this delicious coffee in our restaurant every day. Why not enjoy it at home? Decide today to serve good coffee. It's easy with Supreme.

McCann's
Plays a Leading Role in Light's Golden Jubilee Pageant at Forbes Field

A QUARTER to twelve Wednesday noon. Ting-a-ling! Ting-a-ling! . . . a telephone rings at McCann's. Over the wire a voice implores: "We must have 750 box lunches and gallons of hot coffee at Forbes Field at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Can we depend on you?" Promptly we answer, "You can." Our efficiency crew put their heads together. Soon sandwiches are being made and individually wrapped . . . 1500 of them . . . and at 4 o'clock the lunches are ready to go . . . sandwiches, cake, fruit . . . each in its own box with paper plate and napkin. The scene now shifts to Forbes Field. Seven hundred and fifty participants in the pageant are lined up. Lunches distributed. Steaming coffee served. Everyone happy and well fed. And thus did McCann's play a leading role in Light's Golden Jubilee.

VALENTINE

Green Beans

½ peck 39c

You'll know they are fresh because they "snap" when you break them. Serve green beens as Sunday's fresh vegetable.

Shellwhite Eggs

The eggs with a superiority complex. And no wonder. They're the "cream" of April's egg production, placed in scientific refrigeration until now. Serve them any way you choose . . . they're best by every test.

Fresh Country Eggs, dz. 60c

NEW YORK

Sharp Cheese

lb. 47c

Aged enough . . . but not too old. Sharp enough . . . but not too sharp. In other words, just right. You'll want some with your pumpkin pie.

BONELESS

Fresh Herring

Alias Baby Whitefish

lb. 29c

Small whitefish boned and ready for the broiler. A mild, delicious flavor that is particularly appealing to fish gourmets.

Carnation Milk

12 cans $1

The best "milkman" you can have . . . as convenient as if you had a "Bossy" in your own back yard! And what a price!

dozen 48c

Many a fried oyster dinner has been shelved because of the irksome preparation involved. Buy them ready for serving at McCann's. All you need to do is re-heat and enjoy.

HURT BY CAR, $40,000 ASKED

Injured in a triple collision, Harry A. Livesay, 1229 Montrey street, has brought suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company and Thomas A. Morgan for $40,000 for personal injuries. Livesay says that July 9 last he was standing in front of his home when a street car of the defendant company collided with the Morgan car and shoved the latter into the plaintiff's car, standing in front of his own home, knocking him down and fracturing his pelvis. He also suffered a fracture of the right hip, he alleges. Through his counsel, H. Fred Mercer, it is alleged the defendants were negligent.

Son Gives Life To Save Father In Mine

BRIDGEPORT, O., Oct. 25.—Michael Zornety, 20, gave his life to save that of his father, William Zornety, 50. Father and son worked side by side as coal miners in the Blaine mine of the Lorain Coal and Dock Company.

A fall of stone crushed the father to the floor of the mine. The son, hearing the crash, rushed to his aid and extracted him from the pile of debris. Just as he pulled him out, a second fall of stone killed the son. The father was taken to the Martins Ferry Hospital and it is believed that he will recover.

Man Unloading Car Killed Under Beam

ASHTABULA, O., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Ray Kiley, 21, Cleveland, was killed here when a large beam fell on him while he and another workman were unloading a car of lumber.

WILL REPAVE FAULTY STREET

The street paving controversy in West View apparently was closed last night at a special meeting of the borough council.

The Ross Construction Company, contractors, agreed to replace all faulty work in Bronx and Frankford avenues and on Center avenue, between Park and Frankford avenues, and to give a maintenance guarantee of from three to five years.

H. P. McKown, borough engineer, was authorized to take additional test cores in Center avenue, if deemed necessary.

McKown reported that the places in Center avenue from which alleged inferior concrete was taken by a committee of citizens, previously had been condemned by him and that he had pointed these out to the committee. Some of the paving had been torn up, he said.

A representative of the company that supplied the gravel said the same kind was being used on the Ohio River boulevard, state highway construction and other major improvements in this district.

Sheriff Indicted In Freeing Man For Funeral

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—W. H. McGinnis, Raleigh County prosecuting attorney, said on indictment charging M. J. Meadows, sheriff, with "unlawfully allowing a prisoner to escape" was returned by a grand jury here. The indictment was based upon Meadows' action in permitting Lee Barr, trusty, to leave jail to attend the funeral of one of his twin babies. He returned after the funeral, Sheriff Meadows said.

DOCTORS' HOME GUARD LEAVE

Police guard over the home of Dr. F. X. Straessley, and his brother, Dr. C. M. Straessley, of 612 Pressley street, was withdrawn last night by Inspector Charles Faulkner when police concluded that a man who had threatened them early Wednesday was a dope addict.

The guard was placed at the physicians' home after they complained about a man who had asked one of them to attend a companion who had been shot. The stranger was advised to go to a hospital.

The man's visit was followed by a telephone call to the home from the stranger who threatened to kill them for being responsible for the death of his mother, according to police, who advanced the theory that the man had planned to rob them.

Eveready Radio

. . THE PRECISION INSTRUMENT

DO YOU KNOW about the new Eveready Radio? Here is an instrument which puts you in the hall when the President delivers an address . . . which brings a football game with its excitement, sound and verve into your living-room . . . which takes you to the polished square of dance floor with its lights, smart people and gay conversation. Truly, its reception is remarkable.

This fine instrument is precision-built. It is built to last. The large scientific organization which, through research, discovered its principles, tests and retests its newest discoveries to be sure they are right before they are incorporated in this instrument. The attitude is "Not how many, but how well." In short, here is a radio receiver which does not confuse with mystifying technical terms, puzzling accoutrements, obscure mechanical devices. The people who are interested in this instrument take excellence for granted.

When you learn all these things about the new Eveready Radio, you will probably want it . . . want it because of its wonderful reception . . . want it because of its beautiful cabinetwork . . . want it, most emphatically, because it was designed for those who naturally select the better things of life!

They were brought from the Union City hatcheries, in Erie County.

Yesterday the men emptied about 8,000 sunfish into the waters of Brush Creek, near Warrendale. Those who took part in the planting were Eugene G. Madden, president; Charles A. The OLD and the NEW

First see the Lamps in the Antique Exhibit in our Fifth Avenue Window . . . see the crude, almost savage simplicity of the early implements with which our fathers kept the nightly vigil, did their courting and played the equivalent of bridge.

THEN — come into our new Arcade Entrance and let your eyes feast upon lighting linear, liquid and loquacious — light that begins (in store architecture) where Edison began fifty years ago when he said goodbye to whale oil and taper, and lighted the Incandescent Lamp.

CONVICT ARABS IN MASSACRE

JERUSALEM, Oct. 25.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—A sentence of two years imprisonment and the payment of a fine of $250 plus the costs of the trial was pronounced on Sheik Taleb Markah on trial in the Jerusalem district court as one of the instigators of the Jebron disorders in which 66 Jews were killed and scores injured.

The trial was considered a key case in the trials growing out of the recent outbreak.

The second pronouncement of death sentence of Arabs found guilty of murder during the Palestine outbreak, was made in the Haifa court by Chief Justice Sir Michael MacDonnell, sitting with Judge Litt. He assessed the extreme penalty on Ahmed Schariffa and Ahmed Selim Zanib, for the death of Hannah Kohen, wife of Raphael Kohen, during the outbreak at Safed on August 28. Two other Arabs found guilty of complicity in the murder were sentenced to 10 years each.

Twelve Arabs of Safed were sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor and two, because of their youth, to five years' imprisonment for setting fire to the house of Solomon Goldzweig on the day of the riots. Goldzweig's wife was asphyxiated in the house.

SEVEN HELD IN KIDNAPING

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A three weeks' search for 5-year-old Jackie Thompson was at an end last night with five men and two women in jail as suspects in connection with the kidnaping of the child, September 20. Jackie was returned to his home by police apparently none the worse for his experience.

The arrests were made Wednesday night by police who raided a small house 20 minutes after Henry S. Thompsin, the child's father, had paid two men $25,000 ransom in marked money.

The suspects are James Fernando, 29, in whose home the child was found; his wife, Anna, 23; Emil Saove, 28, found in the Fernando home; Anthony Daguanno, 28, and his wife, Mary 19; Tony Abbruzzi, 32, and Joseph DeGeorge, 42. The women were arrested when they appeared at headquarters to inquire about Fernando and Saove. Daguanno, Abbruzzi and DeGeorge were arrested yesterday when they appeared at the Fernando home.

Jackie was found playing in the house when the police arrived. Fernando, entering soon thereafter, was arrested. Police said they found $5,000 of the ransom money in his possession.

The payment of the ransom followed nearly three weeks of negotiations between the kidnapers and Thompson, police said.

Congregationalists, Christians to Unite

PIQUA, O., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Approval of the plan advanced by the National Council of Congregational Churches for a merger with the general convention of the Christian Church was recommended to the Christian denomination today by its president, Frank G. Coffin, of Columbus, and other members of a commission which studied the proposal. This plan calls for the uniting of the two denominations under the title of the General Council of the Congregational and Christian Churches and contemplates a complete union as soon as the necessary legal steps can be taken.

ONCE BARRED, TOLLER HERE

Touring this country after first being barred because of this Bavarian Revolution activities, Ernest Toller, famous German dramatist, was a Pittsburgh visitor today.

The playwright who faced a firing squad that refused to discharge the death volley, spoke on his plays before students in the Carnegie Tech drama school. He is visiting friends here before continuing on his tour.

Toller, author of "Masse Mensch" and other plays that created sensations in Germany and were produced in this country by the Theater Guild of New York, overcame government objections to his entry on strength of his eminence. During the Bavarian uprising in 1918, Toller was sentenced to death. When the firing squad halted the execution, the sentence was changed to life imprisonment. While in prison, Toller wrote several of his famous plays and the prominence they gained earned the author's freedom.

FILM ACTRESS DENIES 'DEAL'

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Dorothy Mackaill, screen actress and principal government witness in the trial of fraud charges against Miss J. Marjorie Berger, Hollywood income tax counsellor, denied that she had conspired to blame Miss Berger for her alleged false return in 1924. Miss Berger was accused of falsifying the actress' income tax statement by making illegal deductions of more than $20,000. Miss Mackaill was absolved of any criminal intent in presenting the return, the government alleging she was guided solely by Miss Berger.

"Isn't it a fact," the defense asked the witness, "that you told Miss Berger in a telephone conversation in August, 1928, that the government was investigating your income tax, that you were likely to be stung for $25,000 and that you were going to blame it all on her?"

"I never said any such thing," Miss MacKaill replied heatedly. "It's a lie—say, is this my trial or Miss Berger's?"

The court reprimanded her for asking a question from the witness stand. It was the second time she has been rebuked for her replies. The first day of the trial the court censured her severely for using profanity.

The actress testified over defense objections on redirect examination that she gave Miss Berger a check for $5,000 in 1927, payable to "cash" on the understanding that the check would be surrendered immediately by the defendant and the money returned at the same time. Miss Mackaill said she never understood the reason for the transaction.

The defense gained a point, however, when it succeeded in introducing Miss Mackaill's 1925 income tax return and proved that a figure of $3,562, paid to the actress' mother, Mrs. Florence Wise, as her personal representative, was not a part of the 1926 return as the government had contended.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 25.—Work has started on the last railroad bridge on the extension of the Chartiers Southern line from Mather to Waynesburg. The span is located at the Waynesburg Fair Grounds, two miles east of town, and will eliminate a dangerous grade crossing on the state highway at that point.

Salmon Trapped In Dam at Charleroi

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 25. — Trapped when it came through the wickets at Lock No. 4 here, a red salmon was caught by Charles J. McCann yesterday afternoon. The salmon, one of the first caught in the Monongahela River for many years, weighed 11 pounds and measured 34 inches. McCann believed it came from the Cheat River in the recent high stage.

MILK DUMPED BY STRIKERS

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—With peace discussions promised in the near future by civic leaders, sympathizers of striking Kansas City milk producers continued their milk-dumping warfare, undaunted by the arrest of three of their number.

A band of 20 men in motor cars built a barricade across a highway near Belton, Mo., halted a truck and dumped 150 gallons of milk consigned to a pasteurization plant.

The three farmers arrested pleaded not guilty to charges of assault to do bodily harm and were released on bond of $1,500 each. All three men live near Lone Jack, Mo.

The attitude of persons in the rural sections largely is favorable to the strikers, who originally demanded an increase of six cents a gallon in the wholesale price for the product. Because of this situation deputy sheriffs are experiencing difficulty in preventing sabotage, which virtually has been a daily occurrence.

No additional action was taken by Conrad H. Mann, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who had announced he soon would be prepared to call a conference of producers and the management of pasteurization plants. Only the pasteurization supply of Greater Kansas City is concerned with the strike, raw milk producers having taken no part in the controversy.

Plant officials reiterated that plenty of milk was available. Supplies are being brought to Kansas City from more distant points in tank cars.

No More Hemorrhoids

All Pile Agony Ended Without Cutting or Salves.

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting, he discovered the cause of piles and then went further and compounded a harmless tablet that would remove the cause.

Every pile sufferer should benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, May-Liggett and Mayflower Drug Stores and all druggists sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every pile sufferer should try Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID without delay.

The jury deliberated only an hour and 45 minutes before returning with a verdict of guilty on 16 counts contained in the indictment.

HOOVER LAUDS G. O. P. CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—President Hoover asserted in a telegram sent to Jeremiah Milbank, of New York City, that in retiring from all private business Claudius H. Huston is placing the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee "upon the plane which it deserves."

The telegram was for reading at the dinner given at the University Club in New York in honor of Mr. Huston by Mr. Milbank, who is a personal friend of the President, and also Eastern treasurer of the Republican national organization. It said:

"I would be glad if you would extend my greetings to Mr. Huston and your guests this evening. The chairmanship of our Republican National Committee is a public service, for it is only through organization of political parties that the will of our people can be expressed at the polls.

"And in retiring from all private business to undertake this work Mr. Huston is not only making a great sacrifice, but he is placing that position upon the plane which it deserves. I know you all join with me in congratulating the party on his selection."

W. Va. Grange Fights Change in Taxation

WILLIAMSTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Resolutions opposing the proposed reclassification of property for taxation purposes were adopted by the State Grange here. The resolution declared the amendment advocated by T. C. Townsend, state tax commissioner, was "for moneyed men who will never allow their money interests to be taxed more than 50 cents on the one hundred dollars" and charged it would not be a benefit to the farmers.

"Too large a portion of our tax burden," the resolution said, "rests on real estate and personal property of the farmer and the home owner. There is a wide difference between the assessment of real estate owned by farmers and home owners and the real estate ownd by others."

AROSE FROM BED AFTER WEEK'S TREATMENT

Another Flu Victim Gets Quick Results With World's Tonic

"Last Fall I was sick about three weeks with the flu. I got over it promptly to all outward appearances, but I knew I was not right. For one thing, my stomach was very uncertain. My bowels would not move without taking different kinds of physics every night. Sometimes after a meal my stomach would be so disturbed that I felt I could not retain what I had eaten, and at other times it went sour and caused me to belch a great deal, and often would become nauseated. I took a few remedies for this, but somehow they did me no good, and the condition grew worse. Six weeks after the flu I was not able to eat any solid food, and I was about half starved. I could not gain the weight I had before the flu, and I was very much weaker than I should have been," was the story related by R. C. Fauls, a well known railroad man of Monongahela, Pa.

"At the same time the catarrh left by the flu kept hanging on. My head was full most of the time, and I had ringing noises in my ears that worried me a lot. Following these I began to be seriously annoyed by persistent constipation. I thought maybe this caused the other troubles to hang on, and I took strong medicines to help clean me out. But these left me very weak. I was unable to gain strength, and I finally took to my bed again.

"Knowing from what I had read that World's Tonic is a new medicine brought from various parts of the world, and that no pills or cathartics are required with it, I determined to try to get back some of my lost strength with its aid. The results were most remarkable. Inside of a week I was so much better that I could get about. In three weeks every bit of the trouble with my stomach and all the catarrhal signs had gone. Then I began to put on weight and gain strength. My weight increased from 142 to 168 in about six weeks, and my strength kept pace with my weight, so that I am now enjoying the best of health, which must be credited to the wonderful qualities of World's Tonic." This good medicine can be obtained at Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's, and Mayflower, and of any other first class drug store. (B-15.)

NAVAL OFFICER SURRENDERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Charles Musil, a lieutenant in the Naval Supply Corps at Charleston, S. C., who disappeared from that city recently, allegedly with more than $50,000 in government funds, is under arrest at the Brooklyn Navy Yard awaiting action by the Navy Department.

Officers of the receiving ship at the Navy yard, where Musil was being held, said the lieutenant had surrendered voluntarily, but had made no statement when he was placed under arrest. No intimation has come from Washington, they said, concerning the action to be taken by the Navy Department.

When he disappeared, Musil was attached to a ship at Charleston. He was charged with having taken the payroll for the destroyer division base at Charleston. The search for him that ended when he gave himself up extended as far south as Florida, where he had been reported after his disappearance.

Man Tries Suicide By Hammering Head

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Dominik Bruno, 38, of Erie, attempted to kill himself last night, according to police reports, by hitting his head with a hammer. Bruno, who is blind, was not seriously hurt.

Bridge Replaces Oldest Ferry In Country

BRISTOL, R. I., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The oldest ferry service in the United States was replaced by the new Mount Hope toll bridge, connecting historic Newport and Portsmouth for the first time with the mainland.

Vice President Curtis pressed a button in Washington to signalize by telegraph wire the official opening of the great span, the seventh longest suspension bride in the world.

A message from President Hoover congratulating the people of the state was read, state and city officials spoke.

The ferry service was inaugurated in 1680.

Chicago Baritone Opens Art Season

Richard Bonelli, baritone of the Chicago Grand Opera Company will sing tonight in Carnegie Music Hall, in the first program to be offered by the Art Society of Pittsburgh in its fifty-seventh season here. INTEREST IN ART SHOW GROWS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Interest in the magnificent collection of Flemish art masterpieces to be exhibited Saturday in the Kleinberger galleries gives promise of a capacity attendance.

The exhibition is for the benefit of the Free Milk Fund for Babies, Inc., of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is president. The galleries will open Saturday for private view, and beginning Monday will be open to the public.

Thus art comes to the aid of one of the city's greatest charities. The free milk fund for babies annually cares for thousands of the city's needy, ailing and cardiac children.

Loaned for this display of Flemish masters are gems from hitherto inaccessible collections. More than 100 magnificent pictures of one of the most significant schools in the world of art will be shown. Visitors will be afforded the most comprehensive survey of early Flemish art ever offered in this country.

Panels that have been made subjects of long critical studies; famed portraits from the Rockefeller, Friedsam, Bache, Schiff, Rice and other collections, and many beautiful devotional subjects are included in the exhibit.

From the collection of Julius H. Haass, of Detroit, comes a portrait of Anne D'Artois, "wife and mother of kings."

White Tongue
it tells a vivid story of your condition

REMEMBER how your mother used to look at your tongue when you got up peevish and sick?

"White-tongue" was the signal she expected to see. Nature places the white coat on your tongue as a warning when food wastes, delayed too long in the bowels, begin turning poisonous.

If you would avoid the headaches and other ills and discomforts caused by the poisons of constipation, heed the "white-tongue" message promptly.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

LAWYERS ELECT OFFICERS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(INS.)—The annual convention of the American Bar Association was nearing its close today. Many delegates are leaving for their homes.

Election of officers was the outstanding item on today's program. Henry Upson Sims, of Birmingham, Ala., was elected president.

Mr. Sims succeeds Gurney E. Newlin, of Los Angeles.

John H. Voorhees, of Sioux Falls, S. D., was elected treasurer, and William P. McCracken, Jr., of Chicago, secretary.

Samuel Williston, for 40 years professor of law of Harvard University, was awarded the American Bar Association medal for conspicuous service rendered in jurisprudence for the year.

The medal was awarded this year for the first time. It will be awarded yearly hereafter.

The delegates will conclude the convention tonight with a banquet.

The convention adopted resolutions, long advocated by the American Medical Association and the American Psychiatric Association, urging psychiatric examination of all criminals.

The resolutions included the following recommendations:

That there be available to every Juvenile and Criminal Court a psychiatrist.

That no criminal be sentenced for any felony in any case where the judge has any discretion as to the sentence until a psychiatric report is made.

That a psychiatric report be made on every prisoner before release.

9 MEN FREE IN STRIKE KILLING

GASTONIA, N. C., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The nine men arrested in connection with the killing of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, and the seven men arrested after the kidnaping of three National Textile Workers' Union organizers were freed today by a Gaston County grand jury.

No true bills were found against any of the 16 after bills of indictment had been asked yesterday by Solicitor John G. Carpenter.

The killing of Mrs. Wiggins occurred near Bessemer City on September 14, when an alleged anti-Communist mob turned back a truck load of Bessemer City cotton mill strikers en route to a meeting in Gastonia, followed them and later fired into the group, one of the bullets striking her and killing her.

Two sessions of a coroner's jury were held after which the nine men were ordered held. The jurors did not place the blame for firing the fatal shot on any of them, however.

The kidnaping and subsequent flogging of one of the three men captured, took place September 9. A mob entered a Gastonia boarding house, seized Ben Wells, who was later beaten and C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylors, taking them to Cabarrus County, almost 50 miles distant. Four of the nine men were tried in a Cabarrus County court last week, but were acquitted.

Girl Hit by Train, Leap Saves Sister

FREEPORT, Pa., Oct. 25.—Struck by the pilot of a westbound passenger train, Effie Hildebrand, 25, was hurled 15 feet here early today. Her sister, Dorothy, 20, leaped aside in the nick of time. The injured girl was removed to the Allegheny Valley Hospital, Tarentum, where her condition was said to be serious. The two were walking to work at Schenley, on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, according to local police.

'Tay Pay' O'Connor Quits as Publisher

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(INS.)—Controversialists read with regret today that "Tay Pay" O'Connor, the "father" of the British House of Commons, has decided to suspend publication of his weekly magazine "T. P.'s Weekly," in which for years he had discussed social, political and governmental subjects in his characteristic virile manner. "Tay Pay," who is 82, decided the strain of editing a weekly publication was too much for him.

ARRESTS SOAR IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. — More than 12,000 arrests for drunkenness have been made here since January 1, 1929, records kept by the police court revealed.

Arrests for intoxication have been climbing by leaps and bounds in recent years.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1925, there were 10,869 arrests. The following year the total was 12,091.

Close to 14,000 arrests were made during the 12 months ended last June 30. With more than two months of the present calendar year to go, it was believed a new record will be established.

Traffic Tied Up By Spilled Milk

BARNESVILLE, O., Oct. 25.—Traffic is running smoothly today after a tieup occasioned by milk. A truck carrying condensed milk from a local condenser to a Wheeling dairy plant skidded and upset. The cargo, valued at $300, was spilled from the big containers over the street. No trouble was anticipated until other cars tried to pass the spot. They skidded.

The street cleaning department was called into action. Hose were put into service, but water had no effect on the viscous substance, the cold spray solidifying the butterfat.

By dint of scrubbing, the material was removed from the pavement. The detour to avoid the milky way was then abandoned.

BATTLE ON DYE TARIFF LOOMS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Senate tariff consideration today embraced another controversial rate schedule in the duty to be imposed upon imported dyes.

The issue of American valuation had a part in the contest with opponents of the rates proposed aligned generally against this basis for determination of imposts on dye-stuffs.

Debate extended to the dye-stuffs levies after the farmer had received overwhelming support in a conflict with industry over the rate to be fixed upon casein.

This commodity, a product of skimmed milk used extensively as a finish for glossy book paper, was given a tariff of 5½ cents in contrast to the 2½-cent per pound levy of existing law recommended in the House measure. The Senate Finance Committee had proposed a rate of 3½ cents.

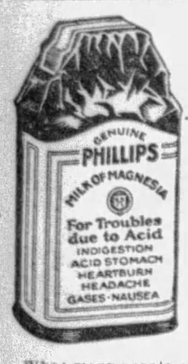
Twenty-seven Democrats and 25 Republicans joined in defeating 17 Republicans and two Democrats to write the higher rate into the bill.

Five other chemical schedule rates were approved before the close of the day. This action would reduce four tariffs and place crude chicle, now dutiable at 10 cents a pound, on the free list.

The refined chicle tariff, under the rates agreed to, would be reduced to 5 cents a pound from 15 cents; chloroform duties from 6 to 4 cents a pound; carbon tetrachloride from 2½ cents to 1 cent a pound, and the rate on tetrachloroethane and trichlorothylene from 35 per cent to 25 per cent. The last two changes were recommended by the Senate Finance Committee.

Yorkville, O., Man Ill in Pittsburgh

YORKVILLE, O., Oct. 25.—J. Earl Kline, president of the board of education, is in a critical condition in Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh.



When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

WEIRTON STEEL MEN PROMOTED

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 25. — The triple merger of Weirton Steel, Great Lakes Steel and Hanna interests has brought about executive changes in the Weirton Steel Company. The election of John C. Williams to the presidency of the company was announced by E. T. Weir, chairman of the board and chief executive of the new National Steel.

Williams was formerly first vice president and general manager of the Weirton Steel Company. He has been associated with the Weir interests since 1905 when the Phillips Sheet and Tinplate Company was organized at Clarksburg, W. Va. The Steubenville and Weirton, W. Va., mills were later developments.

Other changes include the election of two new vice presidents by Weirton Steel. They are Fred A. Hanlin, Steubenville, and W. F. Morris, Jr., Pittsburgh.

C. H. Hunt was elected assistant to the president and W. A. Murphy named secretary to succeed Hanlin.

Hanlin has been identified with Weir interests for 25 years. He is a native of Pittsburgh. Morris was formerly connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad. He has been traffic manager of the Weirton Steel Company since 1920. Hunt was formerly of Ravenna, O. He has been chief engineer at Weirton for seven years. Murphy, formerly of Barnesville, O., has been assistant purchasing agent of the Weirton Steel Company for seven yars.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 25.—(A.P.)—The Chilean submarine O'Brien, now on a trial cruise, arrived in Dublin from Ostend. NEW KONJOLA PUT MAN, 72, BACK AT WORK

New Medicine Praised by Pittsburgh Man Who Was Relieved of Complication of Ailments.

Age is no barrier to the powers of Konjola, the new and different medicine for stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness. Again and again men and women in their seventies and eighties have told how how this new medicine relieved their stubborn ailments and brought new health and vitality.

And, yet, Konjola is a medicine for the entire family; a medicine that may be given to the youngest child. It contains no alcohol, nerve-deadening drugs, nor heart-depressing chemicals. Meet the Konjola Men—one is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and the other at Dow's Durg Store, Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh, and get full information about this modern medicine and its amazing record of results in Pittsburgh and vicinity. Read what Mr. John Sullivan, aged, 74, living at No. 12 Morse Way, this city, recently told the Konjola Man about his experience with this medicine. Note his enthusiasm, and, if you suffer as he did, profit by his experience. He said:

"I want the whole community to know what this wonderful medicine, Konjola, has done for me. I am 74 years old, and a paper hanger. About two years ago I began to suffer from stomach, liver and kidney troubles. I was forced to give up my work, as being unable to eat well or get a good night's sleep, my strength practically left me. Because of the condition of my liver I was subject to dizzy spells and could not stay on a ladder. My appetite was very poor and nothing I ate seemed to agree with me. My kidney trouble was so bad that at times I would have to get up from seven to ten times in a night, and my back hurt so that I could not stoop or go up steps. I tried many medicines, but they all failed me.

"I had almost lost hope that I would ever improve in health when I read a statement in a local newspaper describing a condition similar to mine which was relieved by Konjola. Although I was skeptical about medicines, I finally decided to try this compound, and I certainly am glad that I did so. I have now taken seven bottles and have returned to my work with as much strength and energy as I had before I became ill. All this good health that I now enjoy is due to this wonderful medicine, Konjola."

After all, what is wiser than to profit by the experiences of others? Why not let such an experience as that of Mr. Sullivan point the way for you to new and glorious health?

There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and one at Dow's Durg Store, Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh, where daily they are meeting the public, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is sold also at all Dow Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

GILBERT MAY TRY DIRECTING; IT ALL DEPENDS ON HOW HIS TALK TAKES

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 25.

TONIGHT sees Norma Talmadge depart New Yorkwards. Purpose: Vacation. Norma's worked rather steady on "Tin Pan Alley." Making nigh onto two versions of a flick is wearisome trouping. Gilbert Roland also treks to Manhattan. Early next month sees Constance Talmadge and her husband, T. Netcher, follow suit. Both sections of the family return West for Christmas. If the weather continues so warm, it is to be expected that Santa Claus will arrive in Hollywood in a bathing suit. And the irony of such guise is he would be shunned as a sandwich man for beach realtors...

Norma Talmadge

The curious reception accorded John Gilbert's initial outloud, "His Glorious Night," has led to considerable amateurish prophesying in this screen spot.

Gilbert's voice has a tone-color that might be defined as baritone-tenor. The "mike" is not particularly generous in recording it. It is obvious, from audience reaction, that his voice comes as a surprise. Hence, the curious reception accorded Jack's initial outloud.

Will this first talky serve to familiarize movie-goers with a vocal Gilbert? And will this familiarization lead to popularity or marked indifference? In the event of the former, all will be oke. In the event of the latter—well, that is where the prophesying enters. For a star's career depends upon the public's plaudits in terms of box office. Indifference is the crepe tom-tom.

All Depends on Talk, John Finds

Of course, "His Glorious Night" presents Gilbert in a tough part. Mythical kingdoms have been suc-

WITH GUILD

Alfred Lunt will appear in the Nixon next week in the Theater Guild production, "Caprice."

Bill Would Require Air Death Reports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A bill designed to meet objections of Secretary Lamont of the Department of Commerce to the law requiring reports on airplane accidents was introduced by Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut.

The bill would require investigations of all accidents in which lives are lost and would make testimony from witnesses compulsory. It would relieve the department of legal responsibility for any of its findings.

LILY DAMITA FOR ALVIN STAGE

Monday night and continuing throughout the week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday, the attraction in the Alvin will be the new musical comedy, "Carry On," in which Jack Donahue, dancing comedian, is starred. He has for his leading lady the French motion picture star, Lily Damito, who is making her stage debut in this production.

The incidental music played at intervals by Alfred Lunt in the Theater Guild play, "Caprice," to be seen in the Nixon next week, is a special waltz of the same title as the play. It was composed by Philip Moeller, who also adapted and directed the production.

Next week's offering of the George Sharp Players, "The Command to Love," will find Harlan Tucker in the leading male role. He, a Broadway actor, is a newcomer with the Sharp organization.

Moral Instruction Urged in Schools

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—J. F. Wright, of Detroit, was the principal speaker here at an informal pre-convention meeting of the West Virginia Parent-Teacher Association. Wright stressed the need for special instruction in the schools on moral questions. The seventh annual convention formally opened this morning, when delegates were welcomed to Bluefield by Mayor C. E. Lilley.

Ladies Aid Circle Guests at Bellevue

Mrs. L. H. Leighton, 818 Taylor avenue, Avalon, entertains the members of Circle No. 5, Ladies' Aid Society, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church this afternoon in her home. Miss Nettie Dobler will be associate hostess.

cessful as silent pictures. Put the extravagant love scenes and situations in words—and they aren't even tepid drama. The stage knows that. That's why operettas and musical comedies get the mythical kingdom goo.

Gilbert has never abandoned the yen to direct pictures. Years ago, he refused a splendid directorial offer to travel west and pursue romance which he captured for a brief time when he married Leatrice Joy. This bureau wouldn't be 'atall surprised to see Jack reach for a megaphone instead of a role in the not very distant future. And this may transpire right on his present lot, M. G. M. Lionel Barrymore got his directorial chance there. And made good. Except he did direct "His Glorious Night."

Lew Cody strolled into Sammy Lee's rehearsal hall at M. G. M., just as the chorus girls were dismissed. Wistfully, he watched them trip their sundry ways, and wistfully he sighed: "Cody—still the old menace!"

Mackey Visions Chester Linked With Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The merging of Philadelphia and Chester into one great city, fulfilling the dreams of William Penn, was visioned by Mayor Harry A. Mackey.

The mayor spoke at a luncheon at the Penn Athletic Club celebrating the two hundred and eighty-fifth anniversary of William Penn's birthday.

"The day may not be far distant," Mayor Mackey said, "when there will be a physical union between Philadelphia and Chester. Chester is now part of Philadelphia's metropolitan area."

'TIGER' DOUBTS WARS ENDED

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Years of study and observation have disillusioned Georges Clemenceau on the chances for a lasting peace.

The "Tiger" of France disclaims skepticism in a two-volume philosophical work which he calls "In the Evening of My Thought."

But on the eve of another armistice anniversary and in the wake of a British Prime Minister's peace mission to Washington, he fails to see that "any appreciable degree of security" has been produced by "the peace of the strongest, with its treaties—scraps of paper." He says:

"The institution of a peace parliament no whit changes the unavowed cupidities, the combinations of opposed interests, or the hypocritical discussions with which we seek to disguise them. However the seat of the force may shift, the peace based on superior military strength will still long be imposed on the world, and its frightfulness will be justified on empirical grounds."

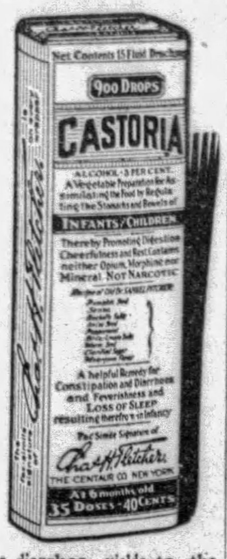
The upsets of Children



All children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem twice as serious in the dead of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else. Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give a few drops to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown! Every drugstore has Castoria; the genuine has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Woman Acquitted As Jailbreak Aid

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A jury last night acquitted Mrs. Margaret "Billy" Page, charged with smuggling firearms to prisoners in the state penitentiary at Lansing which were used in an escape plot last summer. The jurors deliberated six hours.

The charge on which Mrs. Page was acquitted was similar to the one upon which Mrs. Pauline Webb was convicted last week. Mrs. Webb has not been sentenced but her conviction carries a penalty of from one to 10 years imprisonment. Two prisoners were killed in the break at Lansing.

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE international art exhibit at Carnegie Institute this year presents a little problem to A. C. Lehman, a Pittsburgh art patron, who offered to buy for his private collection the first award up to the price of $10,000.

The prize-winning painting measures, roughly, 6 feet by 12 and to get the painting into Mr. Lehman's home in the Schenley Apartments is something that will interest moving men. Mr. Lehman is one of several Pittsburghers interested in collecting.

Havey Boyle.

Other Pittsburghers with art collections of some pretensions are A. W. Mellon, Edgar Kaufmann, Walter May, George Taber, Judge H. Walton Mitchell, Peter Glich, Frank Nicola and Dr. B. D. Sahlatwalla. The Byers and the Jones families also have collections of distinction.

We can hear someone saying: "There you go again—putting all your friends' names in the column."

ORIGINALS of great artists are to be found in Pittsburgh homes; other Pittsburghers have copies of famous works, which to the true collector, of course, carry no appeal.

What always intrigues us about art is that men of great wealth spend millions to collect the works of artists who had, in some cases, a difficult time rubbing one dollar against another, so hard up were they.

LIKE the motorman who spent a holiday riding a street car a hat-check girl in a local night club visited, after she was through working, another night club. The hat-check girl in the place visited suspected the visitor might be angling for a job. One word led to another and there was a hair-pulling. It was an even match until a man stepped in and put over a kayo on the visiting hat-check girl. The visiting hat-check girl made a report of the encounter to "her man" and he, a few nights later, visited the joint in question and ran pool on the 15 attendants in the place.

The tumult and shouting caused by the Carnegie Foundation report on the collegiate football situation recalls the old one about the difference between the professional and the amateur athlete. The difference, runs the old wise crack, is that a professional will take a check.

MAYOR GIVES NO HINT ON TREASURER

Funeral Services Held for Borland, With Burial in Homewood Cemetery Today

Mayor Charles H. Kline Monday will submit for Council's confirmation the name of a successor to City Treasurer Wallace Borland, who died last Tuesday, according to announcement from the Mayor's office. There has been no hint as to who the official would be.

Prompt appointment of a city treasurer is imperative, as the school board cannot discharge its financial routine without a treasurer, who under the law must be the city treasurer.

SERVICES HELD

The city's financial affairs can be administered for some time on warrants signed by the Mayor and city controller.

City and county officials and men and women prominent in civic affairs attended the Borland funeral services in the Moreland Funeral Home, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, last night. Services were in charge of the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Homewood Cemetery today.

The widow, two sons and stepson today were joined in mourning for the city treasurer who was found dead in his berth on the steamer Queen City at Cincinnati during the Ohio River canalization celebration Tuesday.

OFFICE CLOSED

Honorary pallbearers included County Commissioner E. V. Babcock, Mayor Charles H. Kline and personal friends.

Out of respect to the former treasurer, the city treasurer's office, on the first floor of the City-County Building, was to remain closed today until 1 p. m.

VOLPES GUILTY IN BEATING

John and Louis Volpe, of Bridge street, Wilmerding, Turtle Creek Valley political leaders, were convicted of assault and battery in Criminal Court today on testimony of Leonard C. Anderson, Wilmerding reporter.

Anderson told the jury that they beat him while he was collecting election returns in the Wilmerding school, September 18. Both men denied striking Anderson.

Sentence was suspended pending application for a new trial by Attorney Edward G. Coll, who represented the Volpes. Under the law in simple assault cases, the defense is allowed only two witnesses. Coll said he had six eyewitnesses to present.

AUTO RESEARCH THRIVES HERE

Transportation facilities, electrical and steel industries place Pittsburgh on a priceless basis for building up the world's best section of the National Society of Automotive Engineers, J. A. C. He is chairman of the greeting committee of the society.

The meeting was in charge of a committee consisting of J. M. Orr, of the Philadelphia Company; B. H. Eaton, of the Bell Telephone Company; C. R. Noll, of the Gulf Refining Company; C. F. Kells, of the West Penn Power Company, and N. G. Bjorck, of the Lang Motor Truck Company, and chairman of the Pittsburgh section.

SEEK SUSPECTS IN THEFT RING

Additional arrests were expected by detectives today in their investigation of an alleged automobile theft ring which was uncovered with the arrest several days ago of two men.

Mrs. Charles E. Wessel, Jr., 34, of 228 South Millvale avenue, wife of one of the suspects, was arrested yesterday on a suspicious person charge, according to Detective Lieut. Edward O'Rourke. Clarence Fugh, 35, a tire dealer, of 1005 Main street, Sharpsburg, accused of purchasing stolen tires, was arrested on a similar charge yesterday, according to O'Rourke.

The arrests resulted from information said to have been furnished by Wessel and William Ackerman, 33, of 5165 Gem way, to whom the thefts of automobiles and accessories are laid.

ALL CLASSES RALLY FOR TAX CUT

Other Counties Enlisted in Effort to Reduce Levy on Workers' Earned Incomes

Business and professional men, various trade groups, civic organizations and the public generally in the western counties of Pennsylvania are rallying to the support of the campaign for the revision downward of the tax on earned incomes.

The movement inaugurated by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers for a reduction of the levy on the incomes of those who work for a living has met with instant response from the people of the neighboring counties as well as from the more remote tri-state districts. While an intensive canvass in obtaining signatures to petitions to be presented to Congress urging a lower tax on earned incomes has been carried on principally in the more populous centers, the residents of the outlying counties have been none the less earnest in seeking relief from the tax on their workers.

Beginning today petitions have been placed in circulation in Western Pennsylvania counties outside of Allegheny.

The campaign now carried on is supplemental to the canvass made several months ago through business houses and industrial plants in adjoining counties. In obtaining signatures to the present petitions, all citizens will be asked to indicate their views in appealing to Congress to act in reducing the tax on earned incomes.

It is pointed out that the people in the country districts are opposed to the tax on the ground that it is uneconomic and has a depressing effect on all classes of business.

Seventy teams comprising more than 200 workers today began the annual current expense drive of the North Boroughs branch, Y. M. C. A. The budget calls for $29,000, of which $18,000 is to be raised by public subscription.

FIND 2 GUILTY IN SHOPLIFTING

Guilty of three charges of shoplifting was the verdict returned before Judge Frank P. Patterson in Criminal Court against two stylishly dressed young women, Edith Cook, a Portland (Ore.) divorcee, and Miss Marie Edwards, her companion. They were found not guilty on a fourth charge. Sentence was deferred pending motion for a new trial.

Testimony brought out by Assistant District Attorney John H. Haggerty showed that the young women arrived in Pittsburgh Thursday, September 18, and took a room at a hotel. On Saturday, three days later, they were arrested with $1,500 of alleged stolen dresses and other merchandise. Four stores filed informations against the fast-working girls.

Store detectives said the young women, wearing long coats, would ask to see dresses. One would drop a garment to the floor and the other would stoop and cover it with her coat.

Visits Wife's Grave, Aged Man Forgets Name

An aged man who wandered into the Oakland Police Station and told the desk sergeant he spent the day at his wife's grave in Highwood Cemetery, North Side, and "didn't know his name," today was identified.

He remembered that he was Samuel Gibson, 75, of Second street, Donora. He spent last night at the police station while officers got in touch with relatives. They were to take him home today.

Gibson, according to his story, had hitch-hiked a ride from Donora to decorate his wife's grave with flowers. He sat through the rain at her grave and when darkness descended wandered through the city until he ended up in Oakland Police Station.

"Don't tell my daughters I'm here, because I'll get home all right. I can 'bum' a ride back to Donora. I just had to visit my wife's grave and that is why I came to Pittsburgh. When it got dark I forgot who I was and where I was," Gibson said.

Twenty persons escaped and scores of others were driven to the street early today when fire swept through three buildings at 116, 118 and 120 Crawford street, and for a time threatened to spread through the entire block.

Firemen from nine companies, under Deputy Chief F. G. Jones, were summoned on three alarms and fought for almost an hour before the flames were brought under control. Loss was estimated at $35,000.

The buildings extend through to Fullerton street, where they were numbered as 143, 145 and 147.

The fire was discovered at 1:30 a. m. by Policeman Fred Lewis, of Center Avenue Station. He sounded an alarm and ran to the rooming house of Harry McKinney, on the second floors of 118 and 120 Crawford street, and routed the 20 Negro men and women guests. Will Rogers

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.

I have been in Washington on Inauguration Day, Claremore on Fourth of July, Dearborn on Edison's Day, but to have been in New York on "Wailing Day," when Wall Street took that tailspin, you had to stand in line to get a window to jump out of, and speculators were selling space for bodies in the East River.

If England is supposed by international treaty to protect the Wailing Wall, they will have to come here to do it. The wall runs from the Battery to the Bronx. You know there is nothing that hollers as quick and as loud as a gambler. They even blame it on Hoover's fedora hat.

Now they know what the farmer has been up against for eight years.

Yours, WILL.

COAL AND IRON POLICE EXONERATED IN FATAL RIOT

CORONER FREES PAIR IN DEATH OF MINER

Southview Killing Results When Angry Mob Resists Arrest of Drunken Driver

CANONSBURG, Pa., Oct. 25.—Sergeant M. N. Akers and Private Thomas Donaldson, members of the Coal and Iron Police of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, at Southview, were exonerated at an inquest here into the killing of William (Straw Hat) Young, 40, Negro miner.

Testimony before Coroner William Baker indicated the man was shot to death while the officers were quelling a riot which followed the arrest of Herbert Children, 27, Negro, also a miner, for driving an auto while drunk.

POLICEMAN THREATENED

Donaldson, who was a commonwealth witness against the three former coal and iron police charged with the murder of John Borkowski, Tyre miner, said he tried to arrest Children at Southview, and that he was threatened by other Negro miners.

He called Sergt. Akers, who has replaced Lieut. Walter Lyster, one of the defendants in the Barkowski case, and with the arrival of Akers, the mob became uncontrolable and rushed them, forcing them to draw their guns.

DYING IN STREET

When the crowd fled with the first pistol shots, Young was found dying in the street. Herbert Rotan, Negro, and Howard Smith, Negro, miners employed at the Southview Montour Mine No. 1, of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, are being held for inciting a riot. Children is being held for violating the auto laws.

PEEKING AT THE STARS

Wind Velocity Will Mark Sway of Pitt Tower

Wind velocity instruments borrowed from the United States weather bureau will be used within the next few weeks in measuring the sway of the Cathedral of Learning, it was stated yesterday at the University of Pittsburgh.

The instruments will be placed at the top of the steel structure and a transit will be trained to determine its movement.

The measuring of the sway will be done under the direction of Prof. J. Hammond Smith, of the Civil Engineering department.

The measurements will be duplicated after the stone and brick work of the cathedral have been placed.

SCIENTIST SAYS LIFE EXISTS ON STARS

Reasonable to Suppose Other Planetary Systems Exist, With Conditions Like Ours

Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard University, famous astronomer, who lectured in Pittsburgh last night before the Academy of Science and Art, suggested in an interview that life may exist on thousands of the heavenly bodies.

"There must be thousands of other stars," he said, "in the known stellar universe—which certainly contains more than a million million stars—that have planetary systems; and some of these no doubt have temperatures and chemical conditions suitable for that type of organic chemistry that we call life."

INSIGNIFICANT MAN

Dr. Shapley was asked if the immensity of the universe, in which the earth has been likened to an infinitesimal speck floating in a huge dust cloud, was not calculated to depress mankind by emphasizing man's insignificance.

"Not at all," he answered. "Physically, the earth and mankind are infinitesimally small, but who can fail to be impressed by the grandeur of man's mental powers which enable him to comprehend the universe and understand its nature?"

Some suggestion of the immensity of the universe was conveyed by a rough calculation made by Dr. Shapley during a visit to the Allegheny Observatory. As he examined the 30-inch photographic refracting telescope he was asked how many light years distant were the remotest stars that could be photographed with the instrument. He obtained some data from Dr. Frank C. Jordan, assistant director of the observatory, jotted figures on a slip of paper, and answered, "About two hundred thousand."

Dr. Shapely also visited the old Brashear laboratories, now conducted by J. W. Fecker, to see a telescope that is being made there for the Harvard Observatory at Bloemfontein, South Africa. It is a 60-inch reflecting telescope, and when completed will be the largest in the southern hemisphere and the third largest in the world.

Dr. Shapley was asked to say something in regard to the value of astronomical study.

STUDY OF STARS

"The stars," he answered, "are now recognized as great laboratories in which the elements can be studied at higher temperatures and under greater pressures than it is possible to produce on earth. Astronomy is to a large extent research in pure science. But is it not significant that Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Company, is on the visiting committee of our observatory, and that the Rockefellers have contributed largely towards the cost of our new telescope? President Hoover, the engineer, emphasized in his Dearborn speech the value of pure science. Many practical applications come from research in pure science." was said he was threatened with pneumonia.

When firemen arrived the three buildings were a mass of flames, and two additional alarms were sounded in quick succession.

SYNAGOGUE THREATENED

As the fire spread, fears were felt that it would reach Tipereth Israel Synagogue, several doors away.

The buildings were owned by W. H. Thackeray, McKinney, owner of the rooming house, operates a store at 118 Crawford street. The remainder of the building facing that street was vacant.

A restaurant owned by Bey Shim occupied the first floor of 143 Fullerton street, and the barber shop of Robert Champion the first floor of 145. The next business room, as well as the upper floors, was unoccupied.

Deputy Chief Jones, who responded on the second alarm, characterized the place as a fire trap. He said that doors connecting the upper floors were boarded up, which cut off means of escape.

BOY, 10, VICTIM OF FLAMES, BURIED

Child Burned With Brother At Oil Rig; Schoolmates Pay Tribute to Bravery

Bunny Johns, 10, is at rest today. His epitaph, "brave in the face of death," was read over his still form in the Mt. Nebo Presbyterian Church yesterday while his schoolmates, boys and girls of tender age, looked on with bowed heads.

Bunny, a sturdy son of the soil, was at play Sunday with his brother Billy, 14, on the Zeller farm, near Greenfield. The boys had seen their father testing gas and oil wells and decided to test one of the old rigs themselves.

The oil ignited and caused an explosion in a drum, setting fire to the rig and showering the two lads with flames. Bunny's clothes were set afire, but, undaunted, he ran to the nearby creek and plunged in. As he ran, pieces of burning clothing dropped off and set fire to the dried leaves along the way.

Billy also was burned, but not as badly.

Bunny, still conscious, although suffering from burns over his entire body, walked one-half mile to his home, while Billy ran for the doctor. He was removed to the Bellevue Suburban Hospital, where he died a few hours later.

The lad's schoolmates, mourning for their chum, turned out en masse yesterday and acted as flower bearers, standing with bowed heads as six of Bunny's stalwart cousins bore the casket to its last resting place.

Funeral services were held from the home of Bunny's uncle, William Lenzner, Ben Avon, and he was buried in the Mt. Nebo Cemetery following short services in the church.

Christian Union To Open Convention

A session for boys and girls of the intermediate department at 3 p. m. today was to open the fortieth annual fall convention of the Allegheny Presbytery Young People's Christian Union in the Eleventh United Presbyterian Church, North Side. A prayer meeting conference at 7:30 p. m. will be led by Walter Pardee, and a social conference by Julia Hudepole. The Rev. Robert F. Galbreath, of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church, will be the principal speaker.

SIX HELD AS M'KEESPORT LIQUOR CLEANUP CONTINUES

NEW RUM RING PROSECUTION EXPECTED

Large Quantities of Whisky, Stills Reported Seized; Father of Nine Arrested

Threat of another McKeesport liquor conspiracy prosecution was seen in the second "mopping-up" expedition by federal prohibition agents in that district in 24 hours.

Following 10 raids Wednesday night, the dry agents swept through McKeesport and Versailles township, again last night, arresting six men and seizing a large quantity of liquor and two large stills.

LARGE STILL SEIZED

At the home of John Pipich, Lincoln avenue, Versailles township, the dry raiders reported confiscating one of the largest moonshine plants in months.

Pipich, 59, father of nine children, was committed to jail. The agents seized a 350-gallon still, another of 400-gallon capacity, 105 gallons of moonshine and 10,000 gallons of mash, they reoprted. Pipich informed the agents, they said, that he had been operating the plant six months.

The agents reported other raids, seizures and arrests, all in McKeesport, as follows:

HOUSES, STORES RAIDED

Dwelling, 1317 Fifth avenue, one pint moonshine, Pete Zanich; store, 114 Second street, one pint moonshine, 34 pints home brew, John Kerston; store, 213 Market street, 11 half-barrels beer, Mike Kerston; two-story brick building, 3401 Walnut street, 407 pints and 276 quarts home brew, 50 gallons beer mash, Harry Coccia; store, 1033 Rose street, two gallons moonshine, Adam Chotiner.

ART 'KICK' TOLD BY ST. GAUDENS

Artists today are painting the things about them, but they are experimentalists and get effects that may even be shocking, Homer St. Gaudens said in a lecture in Carnegie Music Hall last night. The director of the fine arts department of Carnegie Institute was the first of several speakers who are discussing the Carnegie international exhibit.

"Where the artist used to paint a picture that told a story," St. Gaudens said, "now he paints a picture that gives an abstract feeling. Where the artist once indulged in sentimentalism, now he indulges in cynicism; where once the artist wandered far afield to give his thoughts room for fancy, now he seeks his interest in the life around him."

Explaining the difference in technical developments and color attitudes of the past and today, he added:

"Where once the artist sought to design a space on the wall that we could regard with contemplative tranquility, now he seeks to give us an emotional kick, a shock which, lamentable as the thought may be to him, he is able to deliver only once, to deliver to an alert public already trained to cope with taxis and Pullman couplings.

"Whether we like the brilliant eccentricities of this painter, or whether we wish to drift into the sensuous peace of that painter, art furnishes us with so much recreation. This recreation, then, is our great contrast, our great need in this matter-of-fact, material age. But in deriving recreation from art, let us never forget that art has no material boundaries. Let us avoid the error of trying to define art by saying that only one thing or the other thing can be accomplished. For that, if you please, is all in our mind's eye."

Vogue in Caskets Changes To More Cheerful Tone

The modernistic trend in caskets with an interior in the tinted shades of the rainbow and an exterior finished in similar style has appeared. The somber black of yesterday must now be made to order.

Three hundred funeral directors from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Maryland and Ohio are here today for an exhibit of latest funeral creations. Silver and gold are the predominant shades in caskets. The darkest color now offered is gunmetal with bronze trimmings and white or flesh color lining. Gold linings are among the offerings. In wooden coffins, there is choice of walnut, mahogany and oak. Tearose, a new shade of lavender, and peach bloom, a very light pink, predominate in cloth-covered coffins.

The most unusual exhibit is a casket with a tea-rose exterior. The fabric design is a flowered pattern much like the tapestry living room suite. The rainbow interior carries that color scheme even to the pillow and foot rest.

The display is open to the public at the National Casket Company, Seventh street and Duquesne way, where the morticians are guests.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Exchange's Sale to Be Nov. 27

YOU know the old saying that birds of a feather flock together. Social events of the same type have the gregarious instinct, I do believe, for if there's one wedding, there's a series of them; if there's one debut, there are several score of them; and if there's one benefit, there are at least half a dozen.

This is the time of benefits, haven't you noticed? And such attractive events, too. Folks today believe in making charity pleasant.

ONE benefit that many folks always looked forward to is the annual sale of Christmas novelties and Thanksgiving goodies by the board of directors of the Woman's Industrial Exchange. This year the sale will be in the Urban room of the William Penn Hotel on November 27.

Of course you know that the Woman's Exchange is organized by society women to sell the work of deserving women.

Mrs. William Christopher Robinson is president of the board of directors; Mrs. George McKee, Miss Sarah Bissell, Mrs. W. B. Trainer, Mrs. C. C. Sandels, Mrs. George Claypool, and Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, vice presidents; Mrs. William C. Moreland, treasurer; Mrs. George D. Macbeth, assistant treasurer; Mrs. Walter Heron, recording secretary, assisted by Mrs. Samuel A. McClung; Mrs. Albert Wells, corresponding secretary, assisted by Mrs. Dorwin J. Donnelly.

Among the chairmen in charge of the different groups of articles for sale are Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Mrs. Harry Darlington, Mrs. Carroll Davis, Mrs. William L. Jones, Mrs. John Penney, and Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl.

IN "Wisteria," the Sewickley Heights home of Mrs. Edward O'Neil, Susan Potter O'Neil, daughter of the Chauncey O'Neils, made her debut at a tea given yesterday afternoon by her two grandmothers, Mrs. Edward O'Neil and Mrs. George Latimer Potter, of Baltimore.

Susan wore an afternoon gown of eggshell satin, fashioned with long side-drapes with a longer hemline at the back of the skirt, revealing a Nile green lining. She carried shell pink roses, and a number of her gift bouquets during the afternoon.

Her grandmother, Mrs. O'Neil, was in black chiffon velvet, and Mrs. Potter in black chiffon velvet, too. Embroidered chartreuse green was worn by Mrs. Harris Rudisill Potter, aunt of the bud; rose and gold metallic cloth with black transparent velvet by Mrs. George Kinner Reed, of New York; and sapphire blue net by Mrs. Frederick Stout.

Receiving with the bud were Mrs. Van Lear Perry Shriver, Jr., and a group of sister debutantes, Marie Louise Bickford, Caroline Crittenden, Katherine Collin, Rebecca Doyle, Rosamond Fitch, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, Emily Frew, Frances Forsyth, Dorothy Jarvis, Peggy Milligan, Frances Reed, Mary Franklin Robinson, Sylvia Robertson, Anne Rose, Margaret Rose and Margaret Thompson.

AND before the debutante tea, buds attended a buffet luncheon Mrs. William McBride gave in her Sewickley home for Dorothy Jarvis, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Jarvis. Bronze chrysanthemums and dahlias and cibotium ferns decorated the home.

MISS MARY LOUISE M'CASKEY, of Tennyson avenue, became the bride of James J. Flannery II, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Flannery, Jr., of Tennyson avenue, in St. Paul's Cathedral Wednesday at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Vincent Burke officiated. The cathedral was beautifully decorated with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white uncut velvet and carried lilies. Miss Jane McCaskey, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore rose tulle with a jacket of orange velvet and the bridesmaids, Miss Ursula Hart, Miss Helen Flannery, Miss Mildred McAteer and Miss Louise Brown, wore brown velvet frocks with brown velvet jackets. They all carried muffs of tulle covered with pompon chrysanthemums with long velvet bows matching the gowns. William Friday Flannery served as best man. The ushers were W. Rhodes McCaskey, I. Willit McCaskey, brothers of the bride; Tom Murray and Joseph Flannery.

A breakfast in the Pittsburgh Country Club followed the ceremony, with the decorations featuring autumn colored chrysanthemums. The same flowers were used in the bride's home, where a reception was held in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Flannery III left for a wedding trip to New York and Cuba. Upon their return they will live in Pittsburgh.

Club Hears Leadership Address

"IF democracy is to succeed, we must consciously train leaders and give them reverent and loyal following when they appear," Dr. Edward Howard Griggs told the Phoebe Brashear Club last night in North Side Carnegie Music Hall.

Enlarging upon his subject, "The Significance and Cultivation of Leadership," Dr. Griggs said: "Democracy, more than any other form of society, needs leadership, but under democracy there are special difficulties in developing it. We pull to pieces the character and personality of men at the front and it takes a certain coarseness of fiber to pay the price one must pay for leadership in democracy. Too often, thus, men who can succeed in other fields scorn politics and leave it to those who make it a selfish business. Under democracy the people will get the worst government they are willing to tolerate and the best government they are willing to work for. Every citizen must fulfill some measure of leadership if democracy is to go forward."

Questioning whether colleges are furnishing leadership, Dr. Griggs observed, "It is significant of what has happened to our higher education that the one meeting place of the whole student body in a common interest is in the seats about the athletic field. One continues to believe in college athletics; only better all-round physical education would be achieved if the numbers were reversed of those playing the game and those exercising only their lungs and throats from the bleachers."

Dr. Griggs criticized what he termed "the exaggerated emphasis of credits, graduation and degrees focusing attention on the badge and ignoring the character and work it ought to signify," saying "All power is obligation and service. As you know, you owe. That principle accepted will give us leadership that will save democracy."

THE season's first quarterly all-day meeting will be held by the Congress of Clubs on Wednesday. The morning session, beginning at 10:30 o'clock, will be given over to the departments, each one of whose chairman will forecast her season's plans.

After luncheon Mrs. Stephen Q. Hayes, chairman of international relations, will introduce the speaker, Dr. John W. Coleman, of Geneva College, and Mrs. G. B. Cooley, who will present a program of 'cello numbers to Mrs. Warren Hartz's accompaniments.

The music department of the congress is planning something unusual in the way of a musicale tea for November 15, when Elsie Breese Mitchell, department chairman, will present Frank Kennedy, pianist, and Robert Owery, baritone. The affair will be a benefit for the department's scholarship fund.

As a student in the seminar course of the School of International Studies, she had unusual opportunities to hear men and women of many nations who are engaged in international work, chiefly in the League of Nations and the International Labor Office. WHITE GEORGETTE EXTENSIVELY USED TO EXPRESS LOVELY EVENING FROCKS

—Sketched in Paris—

Fur Trimmed Suit Newest Afternoon Creation

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The fur continues to fly in the workrooms of the various designers here. Just call the roll of all furs old and new, from silver fox to rabbit, and you will find that all are on dress parade.

The fur trimmed afternoon suit has emerged as one of the most successful of the new fashions, and it certainly is a pleasing alternative to the dress and wrap that has held sway for afternoon wear for some time. There is one good thing about the complete revolution in style and the silhouette, it has made ever so many women style conscious—women who used to take whatever the makers of the mode decreed was fashionable, without ever a thought as to its why or wherefore. But this season the change is so pronounced that even the most indifferent has been forced to become aware of it and in consequence give her clothes more consideration.

WHITE georgette is extensively used by many couturiers to give expression to some of the season's loveliest evening frocks. There is such a "well-bred" air about it, if one is permitted to use this adjective in connection with matters sartorial. Although, on second reflection, we are inclined to believe that there are some dresses that in their subtle distinction and quiet perfection really do merit the aforementioned adjective.

SUCH a dress is the evening gown here illustrated. It comes from the ateliers of Brandt, and is of softest thick white georgette. It is extremely graceful with its "V" shaped decolletage and a double godet cape to enhance its line. The two trailing points of the skirt flounces repeat this line. There is a narrow belt over the waistline, which is at its natural moorings, and the bodice is slightly bloused. The skirt fits very snugly over the hips.

FROM Lanvin comes the lovely shirred evening mode of shirred black georgette with green satin shoulder straps and belt. At each side of the long skirt are even longer and circular godets edged with thick black fox. A two-thirds coat of green satin with matching fur is worn with this frock.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury exonerated M. R. "Dinger" Daugherty, legless and one-armed aviator, of New Martinsville, in the death of Ramon Lopez, 19, fatally injured when struck by Daugherty's automobile here. Daugherty, who said he had been driving for eight years without an accident, testified that the lights of approaching automobiles blinded him and caused the mishap. Lopez came here from Clarksburg three years ago and the body will be taken there for burial Saturday.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 25.—The seventeenth annual Venango County Farm and Fruit Show, in progress in Oil City's Armory, will close tonight. Prizes will be awarded Saturday, and a sale of all products not claimed climax the exhibition.

ATHLETIC PARK FUNDS DIVIDED

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 25.—In the suit of the Rochester Township School District against Rochester Borough School District for a division of receipts from the Rochester High School athletic field events, Judge William A. McConnell held that aech should share in proportion to the sum invested.

Rochester Township will receive $3.23 of the receipt, estimated at $16,153.37.

Under the court's decision, however, the township may, by injunction, restrain the borough from holding athletic events at the field or disbarring township children from play.

Rochester faces the necessity of giving the township a more liberal division of the receipts and representation on a governing committee, or providing a new athletic field.

AN eggplant casserole will make a tempting surprise for your family dinner Sunday. I've always been especially grateful to the eggplant because it makes the winter months so pleasant.

Just try this recipe:

One eggplant, 1 green pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 large tomatoes, sliced; 4 tablespoons bacon fat, 4 tablespoons chopped onions, 1 cup water, 2-3 cup crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter, melted.

PEEL and slice the eggplant. Remove the seeds and pulp from the green pepper and cut the pepper in shreds.

Place the fat in a frying pan and add and brown the eggplant and green peppers. Slice the tomatoes and arrange in alternate layers with the eggplant and green peppers. Add the seasonings and onions.

Mix the crumbs and butter and sprinkle over the top. Bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

SAUSAGES WITH CREAMED POTATOESPrick 1 pound of sausages and brown in a skillet. Remove sausages to a serving dish and pour off all the fat from the pan. Cook 1-4 cup of celery in 2 tablespoons of sausage grease; add ½ cup of catsup and a dash of pepper. Pour over sausages, surround with creamed potatoes and garnish with parsley.

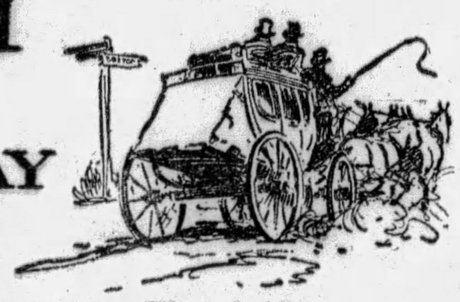
In 1929 Motor Busses make the trip from New York to Philadelphia in three hours.
In 1779 Stage Coaches broke speed records in making the journey in three days.



YESTERDAY—Uncertainty. When folks started out on a journey they didn't know if or when they would arrive. Weather, poor roads, or breakdowns might be their lot, with the chances heavily against them.

Uncertainty prevailed throughout the country, in the home, in the kitchen. How could a housewife make good bread—yeast borrowed from a "starter" at a neighbor's, crude cooking utensils, poorly regulated wood burning stove ovens; coarse flour of uncertain quality?

Today such uncertainties have ceased to exist. The modern bakery is run with laboratory precision that produces most highly nourishing bread—perfectly.

portunities for variety and saving. In casserole dishes one may utilize the less expensive meats and vegetables, for the long cooking improves their flavor and makes them tender.

Special care should be taken to season casserole dishes properly—a dash of Worcestershire sauce, a bit of prepared mustard or a few tablespoons of chili sauce or tomato soup add much to the appetizing flavor of a slowly cooled oven meal.

The following casserole one-dish dinners have been selected because they are attractive and appetizing as well as economical.

HAMBURG CASSEROLE — One pound hamburg steak, 4 medium-sized potatoes, 2 inions, 1 cup tomato soup, salt and pepper.

Cut potatoes in ½-inch cubes and spread in baking dish. Cover with one-half the hamburg steak. Add half the tomato soup. Add a sliced onion. Season with salt and pepper. Repeat, using the three ingredients, and bake for 1½ hours in a moderate oven. More tomato soup may be added during baking if needed.

STUFFED PEPPERS—Six sweet peppers, ½ pound ground round steak or 1½ cups left-over cooked meats, 2 cups rice, 1 cup tomato soup, 1½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon paprika.

Wash the peppers. Cut off the tops and remove the seeds. Parboil for 5 minutes. Mix the rest of the ingredients and fill the peppers. Place in a glass casserole and put in the oven. Put ½ cup of water in the bottom of the casserole. Let the peppers bake for 1 hour uncovered in a moderate oven. Each pepper makes one serving.

BEEF BALLS EN CASSEROLE—One pound steak chopped, ½ cup bread or cracker crumbs, 1 egg well beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon onion juice. Mix ingredients thoroughly. Form into balls and place in casserole in hot oven. When the meat is brown add 6 medium potatoes, 8 onions, 1 green pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ cups tomato soup. Cover the casserole and bake in a moderate oven for 1½ hours.

APPLE COBBLER—For the dough, mix together 1-3 cup sugar, 1-3 teaspoon salt and 1 cup flour sifted with 2 teaspoons baking powder. Work in 1 tablespoon butter. Add 1 beaten egg to 1-3 cup milk and mix with the other ingredients until a soft dough is formed.

Peel and slice 4 to 6 apples. Mix a beaten egg with ½ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon; add the sliced apples and place in a buttered baking dish. Dot with pieces of butter. Cover with the dough, prick the top in several places and bake about 25 minutes in a hot oven until brown.

BAKED EGGS AND SPINACH—You may use individual baking dishes or one large baking dish. For the latter place 1 cup cooked spinach in the bottom of the dish. Crack 6 eggs carefully, so they will not break, and place on top of the spinach. (For individual servings place 1 egg in the center of each baking dish). Cover the eggs with ½ cup cream sauce, add salt and pepper to taste and sprinkle with ¼ cup of grated cheese. Place in a hot oven for 5 minutes, until the cheese is brown. Serve at once.

PRUNE BREAD—One cup prunes, 1 cup white flour, 1½ cups graham flour, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted shortening. Wash and soak prunes overnight. Take out stones and chop. Be sure they are drained of all water. Mix flour, sugar, salt and baking powder. Add milk and beat well. Add fruit and shortening. Put into a greased breadpan and let it stand 20 to 25 minutes in a warm place. Bake 1 hour in a moderate oven.

* * *

OYSTER STEW—Scald 2 cups of milk with 1 onion slice, when scalded remove onion, add 1 pint oysters that have been first cooked in butter until the edges curl. Season with salt, pepper and paprika and serve with oyster crackers.

Bread Is Worthy of Place As Nation's Standard Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

Commercial product, excellent in quality, has taken this really difficult-to-make food from the list of home kitchen products, says Dr. Copeland.

SINCE the discovery of fire, cooking has progressed with the years. It has attained to the dignity of a fine art. No wonder fire has been hailed as "the greatest of discoveries," as testified to on the facade of the Union Station in Washington by this inscription: "Fire, greatest of discoveries, enabling men to live in various climates, use more foods, and compel the forces of nature to do his work."

The savage is satisfied with roots and herbs, with berries and natural fruits. Civilized man has marched far beyond such simplicity. He demands complex and finely made dishes.

Just as I reached this point in my writing, I asked a charming lady, "What is the most complicated and difficult product to make in the kitchen?"

BREAD HARD TO MAKE

Without a moment's hestitation, she replied: "Bread!"

Bread requires proper mixture, accurate temperature over night and hard kneading for 20 minutes or more. Then it must stand for the right length of time and after that be baked 40 minutes in a slow oven. Each and every one of these steps must be correctly taken. The ingredients must be well chosen. Experience, above all else, is required to turn out an excellent product.

There is no wonder that the complications and uncertainties of bread making have driven it from the kitchen. The commercial bakers have gone far in replacing this domestic art. Their products are so excellent, so "home-like," that there is little incentive for home baking.

I am glad the kitchen demands upon women's time, strength and good nature, have lessened with the years. The commercial genius of the age has entered this field and, in doing so, has lightened the burdens of the housewife without impairing the quality of the food.

MOST SUBSTANTIAL FOOD

The standard loaf of bread as purchased at the store is a far finer product than it was a generation ago. Not only is it better baked, but its ingredients are richer and better. Bread continues to be our most substantial food. It deserves its high place.

If Delicate Colors Fade in Washing Machine

Simple Way to Stop Fade and "Soap Eat" Even When Ordinary Laundry Soap Is Used

Soap eat of fragile things and fading of delicate colors in either washing machine or tub can easily be corrected now, even when ordinary laundry soaps or powders are used.

Under the new method described here, even faintest pastel colors in fine lingerie or delicately tinted hosiery hold fast, according to recent tests, for as many as 50 washings, without noticeable fade or wear.

The method is very simple: To each tubful of water (or washer filled to the water line) you merely add 2 tablespoons of a preparation called CLIMALENE and use just ONE-FOURTH the quantity of soap you ordinarily use. Then proceed with washing as usual. (For light washing in small wash basins, a teaspoonful of CLIMALENE is enough.)

This preparation is used by experts to stop fade and soap eat. It acts by converting hard, or semi-hard water to rain water softness and to dissolve grease and dirt. White clothes, washed this way, never grow yellow—but wash pure white. Delicate colors hold fast. You can easily get it at any grocery store. Two sizes, 10c and 25c. Just ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

MARIANNE "L" GLADYS JOHNSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

In the little French village of Saint Vallier the call to arms summons all to the great war. The village schoolmaster, Andre, leaves his school and sees Marianne running toward him. They have grown to love each other and now under the stress of war the man avows his love. He folds her in his arms and kisses her, saying "I will come back—you're locked in my heart Marianne." After her aunt dies Marianne shelters four little waifs. One day she hears American soldiers marching into the courtyard. Later she misses her pet pig and finds it in the barn where the Americans are quartered. She retrieves her pet from Stag, one of the doughboys, just as Lieut. Frayne appears and demands to know if the men have been annoying her. Marianne, instead of accusing Stag, the American who had stolen the pig, tells the officer he helped her recover it. Frayne praises Stag. Later the doughboys are invited to a feast by Marianne. Stag kisses Marianne and dashes out, leaving her in tears. He comes back and begs her pardon. Just then Frayne appears and Stag goes out enraged. Stag steals a pig Marianne has roasted and gives it to Yom and Soapy. Stag learns that it had been prepared or Gen. Miller. Frayne arrests Stag. Marianne's eyes fill with tears at the thought of him imprisoned. She resolves to get him out of his predicament. Dressed as a French officer, Marianne succeeds in getting to Gen. Miller's headquarters. She discloses her identity and after a talk with the general he orders Stag's release. Stag thanks Marianne and then asks her to marry him. She tells him about Andre.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI.

SOMETHING pitiful in Marianne's feeble efforts to pull away from him. It made Stag think of the flutterings of birds he had caught when he was a boy.

She had no strength, for she was fighting not him alone, but her own heart. Instinctively he knew this and he thrilled with tender triumph.

He laughed softly, holding her close, pressing his face to her hair, until she ceased to struggle, but clung to him, crying quietly.

"You see, honey—" his voice was a murmur against her half-averted face. "You don't really want to go away. Because you love me. Don't you? Say it, Marianne."

But she would not lift her head. She only clung, hiding her face against his breast.

A little stab of fear went through the young fellow. Suppose the victory were not yet won! What if he could not force her will . . .

"Marianne—" He held her slightly away. "Tell me, honest, do you love this other fellow?"

He cupped his hands and forced her small wet face up until the sun lay warm upon it. "Look at me, Marianne. Open your eyes."

Her wet lashes lifted, but at the sight of his face, sharp with feeling, so close to her own, she shut them tight again.

"Oh . . . what shall I do?"

Suspicion shot through his mind. "Do!" He dropped his hands heavily to his side and his voice was hurt and angry. "I guess you don't have to do anything. I guess I'm just a poor damn fool . . . Kidding myself into thinkin' you cared—"

Her heart went out to him in a little warm rush. "Ah, no, chere! You must not think that I—that I do not care! But oh, can't you understan' . . ." her voice broke, "there is Andre! Listen—let me tell you. . . . Andre went away, that day they declared war. I am just 16 then. That is not ver' old, chere, and love—that is something I do not know ver' much about. And when I see Andre about to go way—when his brown eyes look at me, so sad—something go over me like a dream. Ah—" she broke off piteously, "I cannot make it tell right!"

How to get into words the excitement of Papa Gerard's drum throbbing through the blood. The breathless thrill of that moment under the willows when Andre had kissed her. . . .

She looked up into Stag's watchful gray eyes and gave a little gulp.

"I do not know then that love was like—like this—" Her hands crushed hard on her heart. "I think I love Andre. Never before has any man kissed me. I think surely that is love—you see."

"Go on," said the young fellow with stiff lips.

"So Andre marched away. Twice he came back—for short visits. He came out here. He see my aunt and ask that he should marry me the war is over. We are engage'. And I think THAT is love!"

She was struggling with tears again.

"Four years he is out there—that brave Andre. Four years in in the zone of advance—"

Stag sucked in his breath as memory flashed. "Four years out there . . . dodgin' whizz-bangs . . . Gee . . . The poor devil!"

He was not touching Marianne now. He had moved a step away and his arms hung inertly at his side.

"Everything was ver' sad in those years. My aunt—she die. I am so lonely . . . I take my bebes then to live here with me. I write to Andre all the time. Oh, you see—he think I love him. I think so, too. And now—how can I tell him different!"

"Where is he now?" Stag asked curtly.

"He is took prisoner to L'Allemand."

Stag slicked his dry lips. "That means—" his voice was husky—"that he'll be comin' home soon. An' me—trying to sneak up on his girl . . ." He turned away, then blurted angrily, "Why didn't you tell me all this before? Why didn't you let me know about him?"

She made a little helpless gesture. "I did not know that—that you care for me. And—I did not know that I care so. Only now—when you kiss me—"

He devoured her with his eyes at that.

"Maybe, if you stay—" she was pitifully brave, stumbling over the words, "and when Andre comes back—maybe he is not caring for me like before. I was just a child. Maybe in all these times Andre have changed too. Maybe he not ask that I keep that promise . . ."

He interrupted her roughly. "Let's not lie to ourselves. Any man that cares for you is caring still. Only I care most, Marianne!"

"No . . . No . . ." she was crying again. "When you say that you draw my heart out!"

"You see—" Now he was standing close to her again. "You do care for me. You love me, Marianne. And this other poor devil—well, he just lost out."

Hot grey eyes plunging deep into her own. Calling that sweet frightening rush of passion through her blood. She gasped. He saw it and caught her to him with a tender little laugh.

"See, honey! You can't say you don't love me. You're my girl. I'm going to marry you an' take you back home with me when we go. Say, do you think I'd let any other fellow have you? I'm too crazy in love with you, you sweet kid. You're all mine!"

A glorious and complete moment when she gave her lips up to him. A moment when there were only the two of them in a fresh and untried world.

"Ah, et moi! Je vous adore . . ." she was whispering with lips against his own. "Je vous adore . . ."

"You darling . . ." he spoke between clenched teeth. "Tell me in English. Say—I love you."

Then memory was upon her again, binding her—chaining her to the past.

Instead of Stag's ardent grey eyes she was looking into the gentle brown gaze of Andre. Andre, who had unquestioningly dropped his books and marched bravely away that long-ago day when war was declared. All these years he had believed she loved him. In the dreary time of the prison camp it had been a warm, sweet memory bearing up his sick spirit. How could she let him come home now and find that she had given her heart to another man?

"Oh, I cannot! I cannot!" Her voice was sharp with anguish. "I cannot do this to that brave Andre! It is stealing! I am wicked—"

She was thrusting Stag away with desperate strength.

"Marianne—honey, you don't know what you're saying. You can't help who you love, sweetheart. You were just a kid before. He'll realize that. Sixteen—why that's just a younggster! It wasn't fair ..... a kid can't be expected to know when she falls in love....."

Hot earnestness ringing through the young fellow's voice now, for a shaft of fear had struck into his heart. Was he about to lose her—this only girl he had ever really cared about? Why—she loved him! She loved him! She couldn't deny it. But suppose her spirit were stronger than her heart! Suppose all his eloquence—all his lovemaking could not overcome that stubborn honor of hers.

Though he could not put this in words to himself, Stag felt it and it turned him desperate.

"You mean you'd let me go back home alone and leave you here? An ocean between us, Marianne. Never to see each other again. To want each other like this all our lives—"

"You will forget—" Her voice was a broken whisper. "After a while you will forget . . ."

He laughed harshly. "You know better than that. Are you going to forget this today?"

A sob was his answer.

"Ah, Marianne . . ." his voice was very winning. "Don't you see? We can't get on apart. Love's like war, honey. You just sort of have to take your chances. Gee, I'm sorry for this Andre. I'm very sorry. But that doesn't make things different between you and me. There's only one you. And you're mine! You're mine because you love me the way I love you!"

He sensed the thrill which went through her at his words and sweet madness mounted to his brain.

"My girl . . . my girl, aren't you?" He was kissing her mouth, her closed eyes, her sweet white throat. She was crying and his lips were wet with her tears. She tasted salt.

That brought a flash of memory to stab her. Just so had she tasted the salt of her own tears that day Andre had kissed her and marched away to war . . .

Marianne sobbed aloud. She tore herself from Stag's arms and fled away between the willows.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Madge Becomes Apprehensive as Philip Takes Her to Dinner

LILLIAN gave Philip Veritzen no chance to answer her parting shaft absolving me from responsibility for the dramatic situation at the farmhouse. With graceful swiftness she turned as she finished and walked to the limousine, gave Otto a murmured direction, and entered the car. My employer stood looking after her, for a second, and the expression of his face was not a particularly pleasant thing to see. All the petty, wounded pride of a baffled autocrat was mirrored in his lips and eyes. The next instant, however, he had again put on a pleasant mask, and he turned to me with outstretched hand.

"May I suggest that we step back," he said, with the touch of pomposity which always invests his speech. "The sand will be driven against you as Otto comes out."

"Suppose we get into my car now," I said practically. "We'll be driving out also as soon as their dust dies down."

"That seems a very good suggestion," he said, and spoke no more until we too were traveling down the road leading away from the beach.

"Would it be presumptuous for a person so much at sea as myself to propose an amendment to this driving-around proposition of Lillian's?" he asked.

"That does not matter," I said, realizing that it did matter very much indeed. "But what is the amendment?" I forced a smile to my lips with the remembrance that the man beside me must be cajoled into good humor if possible.

"There is a wonderful restaurant not far from here," he said, "which is almost deserted at this time of day. Indeed, they hardly have patronage enough at this time of the year to justify them in keeping open, but it is a matter of pride with them to say that they never close. And they serve very good tea as well as other things. I propose that we go there and talk in comfort, and where you can give me your undivided attention. I confess I do not like to share you even with a car."

The words, the intonation, were elaborately careless, but I caught in them the personal note which my employer invariably endeavors to introduce into our association when we are alone together, and I stiffened in involuntary resentment. But a quick second thought told me that I must not betray my irritation. Lillian's careful exculpation of me had evidently banished any resentment toward me which he might have felt. He was in a mood far less belligerent than the one he had evinced over the telephone. If I were to succeed in the mission Lillian had laid upon me, I must keep him in that softened humor.

"I think the idea of tea is a very enticing one," I said, with a little laugh. "I am afraid you are remembering my weakness for tea at any time or any place."

"How could I forget anything you liked or disliked?" he said, and this time the personal note was more pronounced.

"Which way do we turn to get to the restaurant?" I asked quickly, ignoring his last speech. He caught my cue instantly.

"To the right, about two miles, and then a short distance toward the beach again." His tones were as matter-of-fact as my own, but I caught my breath in sudden dismay.

"What is the matter?" he said solicitously.

"I have a bruised wrist," I said, bringing a long-past injury mendaciously into play, "and sometimes driving gives it a twinge. It is perfectly all right now. It may not trouble me again for days. I have to remember about shifting my hand in a certain way, that is all."

"You must let me look at it when we get to the restaurant," he said with quiet authority. "I have observed that you never take the least care of yourself, although you always are looking after someone else."

"You are altogether too generous in your estimate of me," I told him, really not knowing just what I was replying to him. For his directions to me had given me a sudden disquieting intuition. I was familiar with the road he had outlined, and I had been over it only a few nights before. We were headed for the restaurant where Noel and I had dined upon the night Prince Georges was shot and Mary had fled to the place for help. I could not resist feeling that something unpleasant waited for me in the place.

The Dining Table

White stains on a polished dining table caused by hot plates can be removed by smearing a little olive oil over the marks and then sprinkling salt over the oil. Leave for about 10 minutes, then wipe the oil away and polish vigorously with two soft dusters, the last polisher to be of silk, preferably. The stains will disappear, but take care to buy a set of dinner mats, and cover the table with an old thick cloth beneath the white cloth next time, as constant marking will ruin the table beyond home repair in a very short time, which may mean a heavy bill from the furniture polishers.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Important Wedding Details

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When is the proper time to send a "thank you" note for a wedding gift, as soon as it is received, or after the wedding?

2. Is it correct to use a correspondence card or letter paper?

3. What is the proper signature for a married woman who works in an office and signs her own letters?

4. Is my signature correct, (Miss) Claire E. Peterson?

5. Are announcements of a marriage in good form, that is, if the wedding is very quiet and no invitations have been sent?

6. How should the announcements be addressed when there is more than one person in the family to which the announcement is made?

Your column has been a great deal of help to me. C. E. P.

THE bride-to-be, if she is punctilious as she should be, writes a note immediately after a wedding present has arrived. At the end of each day she should rejoice in the fact that she has written the thank-you notes for every present that has been received that day. It will be easier for her to do this than to wait, and her notes of thanks will sound much more spontaneous. Also she won't have the notes "hanging over her," in her mind as something that she must do.

2. Letter paper is what she should use. When we use correspondence cards for such notes, especially for thank-you notes, we are apt to limit our expression of thanks to just the length of the card—and this isn't a pleasant impression to the receiver.

3. Her formal business signature is: Very truly yours, MARIE MARTIN. (Mrs. George Martin).

4. Yes.

5. Yes, in excellent form. In fact, they are even more important and convenient for the informal marriage than they are for the formal one, to which many guests have been invited. They should be ready to be sent out directly after the ceremony has been performed.

6. If possible, an announcement should be sent to Mr. and Mrs., and a separate one to every other member of the family old enough to receive such formal announcements. Or one invitation may be addressed:

Miss Allen
Miss Mary Allen
Miss Hope Allen
3 Home place, etc.

Or, if it is strictly necessary to limit the number of invitations, the one may be addressed to:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen
The Misses Allen
Mr. Walter Allen
9 Home place, etc.

Never use the expression "—— and family" when addressing an envelope.

The Salad Knife

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would be very much obliged if you will settle a little dispute that has arisen between my friend and me. My friend thinks it is incorrect to eat one's salad in American company with your knife and fork. And I contend that it is correct today. Who is right? G. G.

YOU are right! I could name at least five American manufacturers of silver who manufacture salad knives. And the growers of lettuce are "dancing in the streets" because this sensible custom has been acknowledged as good taste and logical and reasonable!

And why shouldn't we use our knives as well as our forks when we eat our salads?. With the great American hearts of lettuce salad, and with endives and rings of pineapple and many other ingredients, surely the fork needs the able assistance of the knife. I have been urging the use of the salad knife, as well as the fork, for many years, and so, of course, I am as delighted as the lettuce growers themselves that the custom is becoming popular.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, October 26

ALTHOUGH the sidereal operations for this day point to much stirring about with extremely lively and upset conditions, yet the general complexion of these is adverse. They may be incited by unrest, inharmony and friction and may lead to hazardous litigation or strife. There may be some small benefits from the signing of new agreements, but the obstructing and hostile occurrences must be overcome and the dangers mitigated by self-control and amiability.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively year, with much unrest and commotion, as well as obstacles and hostile conditions. There is a sign of litigation and strife and much trouble may be forefended by amiability and self-control in threatening situations, both business and personal. With the exercise of these there may be agreeable new agreements and some profitable activities.

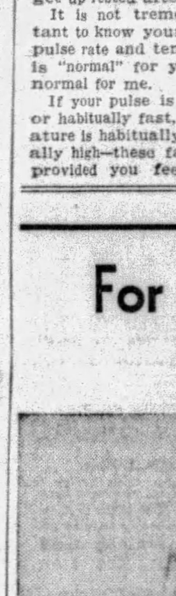
A child born on this day may be versatile, bright and ambitious, but may be prone to defeat its best interests by restlessness, eccentricities and ill temper.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

You—And Accepted Standards of Health

THERE is no rule of thumb to determine for a certainty whether you are a healthy person. Science has not determined and fixed exact standards. After the examination of a large number of persons, certain averages have been established. These are pretty generally accepted as approximating the truth.



DR. COPELAND

The great life insurance companies appointed a committee to examine a half million insurance policies and the circumstances relating to the life history of the policyholders. Ages at death, ages of those living, weights and heights, family histories—all the many facts relating to the physical history and habits of this great army were inquired into and made the basis for a remarkable report. Out of this grew tables of standards.

One thing you must not forget if you do not measure up to these standards. If you are above or below height or weight, if your pulse rate does not conform, etc., you must not worry. If you seem otherwise fairly normal, it means little that you differ from the average.

The test of the pudding is in the eating. After all, the best test of your degree of health is your ability to do a day's work without undue fatigue, to eat three good meals a day and to get up rested after a decent sleep.

It is not tremendously important to know your height, weight, pulse rate and temperature. What is "normal" for you may me abnormal for me.

If your pulse is habitually slow or habitually fast, if your temperature is habitually low or habitually high—these facts mean little, provided you feel well and go cheerfully about your affairs, doing your work easily. The individual element tells the story better than any accepted "standards."

Of course, we have gone so far in our standardization that we are on pretty safe ground to accept the averages as essentially correct. But if you happen to fall short of the average you need not feel alarm and begin to picture just when your approaching end will arrive.

I have known many men and women who did not conform to the accepted standards, but who lived far beyond their "allotted time," the threescore years and ten. You need not worry because you are "abnormal."

By simple living, by observing the rules of hygiene, even with a frail foundation, you can realize the normal expectations of life. A very slight and weak person may outlive a "husky." There are many factors associated with long life, besides those considered in fixing "standards."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Golf Widows.

"WELL, Irma Page has got her divorce," remarked Mrs. Divot.

"And now that she's got it, what is she going to DO with it?" demanded Mrs. Green with a shrug.

HELEN ROWLAND

"Don't you approve of divorces?" inquired Mrs. Divot in astonishment.

"Certainly," replied Mrs. Green. "Just as I approve of surgery—in extreme emergencies, when the agony is unbearable. Divorce is more humane than ground glass or prussic acid or a sash-weight or a bronze book-end over the head. But, this modern habit of rushing to the divorce court just as you rush to the dentist or the doctor every time you feel a little uncomfortable or a little distrait, is positively rude!

"Divorce is not the cure-all and perfect panacea for all heartaches and nerve troubles and soul problems, which the modern young woman seems to think it is. It is usually just the doubtful 'deliverance' which permits a woman to exchange the 'bondage' of a dull home for the 'freedom' of a nine-to-five job in a dull office—and allows her to take orders from an employer instead of ignoring orders from her husband.

"It relieves her of the necessity of wheedling money out of her husband at home, and gives her a chance to bully alimony out of him in court—if she can!

"It permits her to 'live her own life' and to get into a lot of tawdry flirtations, most of which prove flat and flavorless—until she gets sufficiently fed-up and bored to take another flyer in the gamble of matrimony, and to try putting up with another husband's collection—of whims and idiosyncracies.

* * *

"Divorce relieves a man of the necessity of going home every night for dinner—and gives him a chance to sample cafeteria cooking, wreck his stomach with restaurant sauces, pack his own bags, count his own laundry, find his own clothes, go without his tonic or his rubbers—and get as sick as he likes.

"It affords him a chance to become acquainted with his bachelor cronies and his bachelor headaches—and with the high price of orchids and taxicabs and the high cost of kissing a lot of girls, for whom he doesn't care a Russian ruble.

* * *

"No! Divorce should not be rushed into as a 'first aid,' but put off as a 'last resort.' If a husband is good and solid at heart, a wise woman will HANG ONTO him until she has tried every other remedy, from nerve tonics to mental science.

* * *

"Because the 'free, free life' is nothing but a chance to make a fool of yourself—or to marry again! Allen Page was a good, clean husband—and Irma will find that divorce is like having a tooth extracted. Even after the ache has subsided, it leaves an awful hollow!"

ROCKNE BACK RATED SECOND LAYDEN

THE record-breaking crowd of from 65,000 to 70,000 that is expected to fill The Stadium for the first time tomorrow, to witness the gridiron battle between Carnegie Tech and the latest of Notre Dame's mighty machines, will see a second Elmer Layden in action in the person of Larry Mullins, according to reports.

Larry Mullins

The present coach of the Dukes was the star fullback of the Four Horsemen in 1924. The best that he got from Walter Camp in the latter's final all-America selections was honorable mention. Hazel, of Rutgers, was named as fullback on the first mythical eleven; Crowley, one of Layden's teammates, was shifted from halfback and picked for fullback on the second team, and Strader, of St. Mary's (Oakland, Cal.), was given the fullback post on the third outfit.

Elmer, nevertheless, was generally recognized throughout the country as a fullback without a superior, and for four years Knute Rockne was unable to find a man approaching him in all-around class.

BUT in the judgment of the leading critics who have closely observed the work of the South Bend players this fall, individually and collectively, the Notre Dame coach has finally succeeded in filling the hole by developing Mullins into a new edition of Layden. Larry has been the real star of the Hoosier's attack this year, particularly in the contest with the Navy.

Mullins slices through the line exactly in the manner of Layden, one well-schooled football observer says. He seems to run sidewise and thus offers little body surface to opposing tacklers. He runs off-tackle on plays that were Paul Castner's specialty for Notre Dame in 1922 and earlier, and is both hard-driving and elusive when past the line of scrimmage.

MULLINS' performances until he was forced out by an injury last Saturday were so uniform and consistent that there can be hardly a doubt of their being a true index to exceptional worth. He will be in there at some stage tomorrow, even if Savoldi starts at fullback, and the Skibos will have their troubles with him if he is on his usual edge.

Another who will have to be watched closely, though he may not be so dangerous as Mullins as an all-around back, is Jack Elder. The last named is one of the fastest players who ever stood on cleats. As a track sprinter he ranks with Simpson, Bracey, Tolen and the rest of the stars, and is apt to contribute to the thrills of the afternoon with some sensational runs if he ever gets away.

Jack Elder

FOOTBALL players will tell you that they are rather confused for a time when they find themselves up against a forward passer who throws the ball with his left hand and arm. After becoming accustomed to playing defensively for passes thrown by right-handers, as is generally the case, they are sometimes bewildered at seeing a forward shoot out from the left side of the thrower. But what if they were to encounter a player possessing the extraordinary faculty of tossing 'em with either hand? Double confusion probably would result.

THE existence of such an ambidextrous passer has just come to light. He is Junior Lopez, quarterback of the Loyola University team, of New Orleans. Loyola plays University of Detroit in Detroit tomorrow, and in digging up some advance dope on the Louisiana eleven Sam Greene discovered that it has in Lopez an unusual threat.

The Loyola quarter has the uncommon knack of passing the ball either right-handed or left-handed. He is guided, of course, by circumstances. If the play is in one direction, Lopez shoots the spheroid with his right hand, and if it is to the opposite side he uses his left. Moreover, it is said that his accuracy does not suffer by reason of the change. Assuredly, a tough guy to watch.

Bubbles Hargreave

ONE probable detail of the next baseball season is the return of Catcher Eugene (Bubbles) Hargreave to the big show. That isn't at all surprising, in view of the fact that Hargreave, who led the National League in batting in 1926 with an average of .353 while catching for Cincinnati, kept up his strong hitting and good all-around work this year, as manager of St. Paul in the American Association.

Several major league clubs planned negotiations for his purchase. Bill McKechnie, for one, would like to land him for the Braves, and more than one other pilot would welcome a chance to acquire him.

BUT the latest indications are that Bubbles will go to the Yankees. Bob Shawkey plans to reorganize his catching staff by disposing of Benny Bengough and John Grabowski, and expects soon to complete a deal for the acquisition of Hargreave in the double role of catcher and coach, Bubbles to share the backstopping work with Dickey and Jorgen besides coaching those two youngsters and the juvenile pitchers.

EVEN if William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Chicago Cubs, were not already a wealthy man, he would not suffer any severe hardships this winter because the world series ended too quickly to give him much of a cut. For it is estimated that his profits on the Bruins for the regular National League season alone were not less than $1,000,000.

Playing at home, the Cubs smashed all records by drawing 1,485,000 paid admissions, the remarkable average of 19,286 per game. The receipts, it is figured, totaled $1,750,000, and, as the visiting clubs received 25 cents for each paid admission, or $371,250, this left almost $1,400,000 for the Cub owners. On the road they played to about 500,000 paid admissions, receiving $125,000 as their share of the receipts. Deducting as much as $500,000, a liberal estimate, for the running expenses of the team from an intake of more than $1,500,000 it will be seen that the Chicago club easily reached the million mark in earnings.

TO WHAT club in the National Hockey League does Tex White, long a local favorite, belong? White is in Pittsburgh, trying to figure it out, but confesses that he isn't making any very rapid progress toward a solution of the riddle.

Last winter, it will be remembered, White was "traded" to

St. Vincent's Meets Fairmont Today

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 25.—Practice for the St. Vincent College football squad was held indoors yesterday afternoon because of the wet weather. Crowe did not care to have his men running around in the mud and as the practice consisted only in running signals there was no need of donning uniforms and taking to the field. The game with Fairmont will be called at 2:30 p. m. today on the St. Vincent varsity field.

ALLEGHENY BATTLES PERRY

Walter Gross' powerful Schenley High football machine, prime favorites to wrest the City League championship from the grasp of Westinghouse, meets its first test of the season today, battling a strong Peabody High eleven at Malone Field. This game tops the day's scholastic gridiron program, which includes two contests in each section.

The second Section I contest features Fifth and Westinghouse on the latter's gridiron. In Section II, Allegheny and Perry meet at Oliver Field and Carrick tackles Langley. South High, of Section I, meets Freedom in a non-league game at Freedom and South Hills rests today and then moves on to Burgettstown tomorrow for a clash with the high school eleven of that town.

LOST LAST YEAR

A year ago, a late rally gave Peabody a victory over Schenley. The Bellefielders went into the final period of the game with what appeared to be a safe lead, but a forward pass and an intercepted heave resulted in two touchdowns for the East Enders and a triumph.

Schenley has complied a fine record to date, has crushed Dormont, Norwin, Oliver and Fifth Avenue, and rules a favorite to beat Peabody this afternoon.

Fifth does not figure to furnish Westinghouse with much opposition, and the Silver Lakers appear certain to romp off with one more victory. The Allegheny-Perry battle looks like a toss-up, with both elevens fighting for recognition in Section II. Langley is expected to give Ted Lyons' Carrickites a hard ball game.

BEN AVON AT CRAFTON

Other feature battles today include the meetings between Ben Avon and Crafton at Crafton; Ford City and Leechburg at Leechburg; McDonald and Coraopolis at Coraopolis; Warren at Meadville at Meadville and Dormont and Avalon at Avalon.

SPEND TOO MUCH—TAFT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Chief Justice Taft expressed the opinion yesterday that the educational institutions throughout the country were using too much money in promoting athletics.

The former President said he had read with interest the report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, and while unfamiliar with the facts on which the conclusions had been reached, he was firmly convinced that universities and colleges were devoting money for the advancement of athletics, which could more profitably be applied to education.

"The subject is one to which I have given much attention," he said. "My views on the subject were given in a speech I made last spring at the convention here of the Psi Upsilon fraternity. I believe that a great deal of time and money is being wasted on college athletics. I would not criticize our youths in college and university who have vigorous bodies as well as minds, and they should have some stimulus and outlet for developing healthy bodies, but our educational institutions, generally speaking, are giving too much effort and money to athletics and are not making as great effort as I would like to see to develop the standard of scholarship.

"Those who have given particular study to the subject are agreed, I think, that the turning point has been passed in our scholarship standards, and that we are on the upgrade."

OAKLAND CLUB SOLD

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Sale of the Oakland Club, of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, for $500,000 to A. H. Miller and Victor Devincenzi, local business men, and Carl Zamloch, assistant football coach of the University of California, was announced yesterday by J. Cal Ewing, president of the club since 1915.

SIGNAL STEALS NOT NEW TO MAJORS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Jimmy Dykes' reported statement to the effect that the Athletics were in possession of the Cubs' signals in the world series games, and Joe McCarthy's reply refuting the A's possession of same, will cause a lot of comment among those who like to discuss baseball.

Jimmy Dykes.

From this distance it seems that Dykes may have made the statement in a modified manner and with little thought that a tempest would develop from his teapot. Nevertheless, there is so much off-season interest in baseball that Dykes' comment was sure to be grabbed up by the enterprising reporters.

The boys of the diamond will not get wrought up over the matter, they being full aware that all clubs like to get each other's signs and succeed in varying degrees.

TALK UP, JIMMY

McCarthy scores a big point when he asks why the American League champs, if they had the Chicago signals, were like putty in the hands of Pat Malone for eight rounds. Maybe Dykes can think up a good answer for this one—if he can, we all would like to hear it.

Stealing signs is a form of larceny to be encouraged, provided it be done in an honorable way. It would be quite proper, for instance, for any National League performer to give any inside information on signs or other angles to the members of the club representing his league in the titular fights. But it would not be proper for an American League player to supply a close friend in the National League with significant tips, or vice versa. Such procedure would be rank in sportsmanship, to say the very least.

More power to the fellow who is smart enough to detect what the other club is doing in an inside way. The battery signs for the most part are stolen from the catcher, yet very often a smart receiver will give deceptive signs to cross up the opposition.

HANS ROBERTS FACES TEST TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Young Hans Roberts, the German invader, engages in a make-or-break battle against Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the 10-round windup at the Moose Temple tonight.

Hans, who has not been here long enough to master the English language and needs the services of an interpreter in his corner, has demonstrated in two previous battles at the Moose Club that he can fight in any language and by his willingness to force the going has drawn an ovation from the crowd at the end of each battle, so that it was inevitable that he should get an early chance in a main bout.

In boxing Rudy, Hans goes against a seasoned campaigner who will have weight and experience on him, and who, in the bargain, is a lusty slugger. If Hans comes through with another win, he'll be set for some tall bookings.

Tom Malco, of Soho, and Jackie Murray, of the Hill, also welters, box the semi-final tonight. Bob Collura, of Beechview, and Thad Yarosz, of Monaca, are in the second bout and Midget Mike Moran, of Mt. Washington, and Sammy Paris, of the Hill, meet in the opening event.

Bucky Lawless and Tommy Freeman, keen rivals, meet in a return bout in Erie tonight. Maurice Holtzer boxes Johnny Drew at Worcester, Mass., and Jimmy Smith and Tommy Farley battle in Philadelphia.

ROSS QUITS RING

Tony Ross, formerly of Carnegie, has announced his retirement from the ring following his recent one-round knockout defeat by Buck McTiernan at McKeesport. He will make his home in Sharon and may take to managing boxers.

There will be no boxing show at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night, but a card is being booked for the following Monday night, to be headed by Johnny Burns, of Chicago, and Henry Firpo, of Louisville, middleweights.

A new club plans to stage mitt shows in Butler beginning early next month.

According to I. D. (Apples) Meyers, the Meyers Bowl in North Braddock will be considerably enlarged for the next outdoor season, and several improvements will be made went to the Pittsburgh Athletic Association to dine and to prepare for a workout in the Stadium this afternoon.

RAMBLERS SET FOR CARNEGIE BATTLE

The fact that Rockne arrived in a wheel chair has not served to boost Tech's stock any, for the South Bend gridiron wizard is just as keen a strategist when sitting in a chair as he is when standing on his feet, and there is no doubt that the record-breaking crowd of 70,000 which is expected to witness tomorrow's game will see a real battle.

FINAL DRILLS TODAY

Carnegie, its last hard workout preparatory to the clash over and done, will drill in the Tartan Bowl this afternoon and then motor to a hideaway retreat in the mountains, there to remain until noontime tomorrow. Advisory Coach Wally Steffen arrived in town this morning simultaneously with the arrival of the Irish and will direct the final practice of his hopefuls.

Football interest in Pittsburgh has not been as rousing as it is today since the last time Pop Warner entered a tough game with half his ball club in the hospital (the day before the game) and the other half on crutches. Despite the fact that it is difficult to find any Tartan backers at even money, folks are determined that this game is to be a wow, and are going to turn out to the tune of extra bleacher seats and scalper-priced seats behind the goal posts.

The Irish are reported to be in good physical condition. Unless he departs from his usual practice, Rockne will start his shock troops against the Tartans, thus making it miserable for the boys in the press box when he sends in his regulars. It is very evident that Rockne never had to cover a ball game in which one of the teams was handled like he handles his. What a guy.

ROSENZWEIG BACK

Ted Rosenzweig, the Plaid wingman who has been on the shelf nursing some bruised ribs, garnished by a mess of boils, has been named as a certain starter tomorrow. When Rosy is in there the Plaid lineup will present but a single change from that which entered the fray with Wash.-Jeff. a week ago. English and Rosenzweig figure to be at the terminals, with Highberger and Bob Schmidt at the tackles, Captain Johnny Dreahar and Fletcher at the guards and Duke Ducanis at center.

No change is anticipated in the backfield, McCurdy, Eyth, Slats Flanagan and Karcis being on the leash for ball toting duty.

Close to definite starting lineup information will be available for the avid readers following today's final practices.

SMOKER CARDED

A pip of a smoker has been arranged for tonight in the Tartan gym. Recollections of "the good old days," singing, dancing and amateur boxing bouts are on the program. The ring card is as follows:

126-pound class—John Montabano, Braddock Library, vs. Russ Sickles, West Newton.

175-pound class—Nelson Ferguson, East Pittsburgh, vs. John Belasco, West Newton.

135-pound class—Marty Gornick, Duke O'Hara Club, vs. Bob McCormick, Willow Club.

126-pound class—Joe Gaudy, Duke O'Hara Club, vs. John Julius, Willow Club.

118-pound class — Jimmy Loiges, Duke O'Hara Club, vs. Mose Butch, Willow Club.

147-pound class — Richard Gree, Homestead, vs. Jimmy Bell, Duquesne.

Special trains will begin arriving early tomorrow, hailing from Cleveland, Buffalo, Youngstown and the East. Notre Dame may be a traveling ball club, but it certainly can boast of the greatest lot of traveling rooters, too. Smart folks attending the game tomorrow will do well to begin the trek to Oakland before noon.

PANTHERS READY

While Tech and Notre Dame are in the center of the football storm for the day, the Pitt Panthers are prepared for a week-end of more or less calm. The Panthers will play Allegheny College at Erie tomorrow afternoon, and hope to get through the ball game without using the regulars too long.

Tomorrow's letdown game (if it turns out to be such) will be merely a breather for the Panthers between the Nebraska and Ohio State contests. Following this setto with the Methodists, Pitt has Ohio State, Wash-Jeff, Carnegie Tech (oh, oh) and Penn State to tackle in a row. The Pitt squad leaves for Erie over the P. & L. E. at 2:10 this afternoon.

The Dukes, with an idle day ahead, will keep a weather eye on Geneva as the Covenanters battle Grove City in an important tri-state minor college championship game at Beaver Falls. Most of the Dukes will spend the day in the Stadium.

Salem Tigers-West Virginia Wesleyan clash today at Buckhannon.

W.-J. IN EAST

Wash.-Jeff.'s varsity squad is en route to Philadelphia today, where tomorrow the Prexys meet Temple University. What a treat for Temple when Harry Rush gets under way.

Red Mason burst into full bloom yesterday with a thousand buck note which he sought to place at two to one that Bull Brown will attend tomorrow's gale and won't lay it on the line to get in.
No takers.

The general opinion along Sportletic avenue seems to be that the Carnegie Foundation is out of bounds on its report of college athletics.

From now on, for Tech football games, the yard lines will all be marked as fifties, thereby solving the troublesome 50-yard line ticket problem.

Solution by H. Camins, Tech's official public relations expert.

EASTERN GRID TEAMS OPTIMISTIC

ED WITTMER LEADS TIGERS AGAINST NAVY

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Reports today from Eastern football training grounds were mainly optimistic.

Harvard's warriors, preparing for a crucial engagement with the unbeaten Indians, of Dartmouth, offered an impressive defense against Dartmouth plays put on by the second team. So good was the workout that Coach Arnold Horween seemed to worry much less than might be expected over the injuries that will keep Huguley, Harper and Ben Tickner out of the lineup.

Princeton showed more dash and zip in its drill on fundamentals than it has shown all year and Head Coach Bill Roper may be pardoned if he expects a better showing by the Tigers than they made against Brown and Cornell.

WITTMER AT QUARTER

Ed Wittmer, star backfield man, will be at quarterback for the first time in his career against the Navy. At Annapolis, Navy scored five times against the B squad using a Princeton defense. Capt. Koepke still is benched and the new line is the heaviest the Midshipmen have had all season. Rusty Williams, a third-string sub until last Saturday, is to start at quarterback against the Tigers. Bauer, Castree and Clifton are to round out the backfield.

Army, ready to entrain for New Haven today, yesterday went through a long drill on defense in its last hard workout before the Yale game. The squad was in excellent condition. Yale plans to start Barres at right end against the Army instead of Walker.

Fordham, which meets the undefeated Davis and Elkins team, was heartened by the return to the lineup of Harry Kloppenburg, 6 feet 4 inch end, who has been out of the game for two weeks with a charley horse.

HARPSTER LAUDS STRONG AS BEST FOE

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback in 1928. (Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The question has been asked me many times whom I considered the greatest football player to oppose Carnegie Tech in the last three seasons. This is, indeed, a difficult question to answer fairly, for Carnegie played against some mighty fine players during those years. A list of the most prominent players to face the Plaid during my three seasons of varsity competition discloses many of national reputation, among them Chris Flanagan, Boeringer, Nelmic and O'Boyle, of Notre Dame; Connors, Lassman and Strong, of New York University; Booth, Getto, Hagen, Gibby Welch and Donchess, of Pitt; Amos, Aschman and Douds, of W. & J.; Carroll, Mooney, of Georgetown; Maple, of the Oregon Aggies, and many other stars.

Howard Harpster

However, there is one player who stands out in my mind above all others, after giving the matter the deepest thought. When I consulted with Judge Walter P. Steffen and Bob Waddell, the Carnegie coaches, on the subject, they emphatically agreed with my choice.

LEADS THEM ALL

That star of stars is Ken Strong, who concluded his college gridiron career last fall as an all-America halfback at New York University. He was the greatest all-around player of them all.

The game was being played in the Yankee Stadium in New York. Strong and I both were sophomores at the time, but were doing the kicking for our respective teams. Early in the game, New York drove us back against our goal line and, after staving off a score, we were forced to kick from behind the goal line. I went back and kicked and happened to hit the ball just right, so that the result was a nice spiral about 55 or 60 yards long. For the next play I stood back in safety position, relieved that we now were out of danger and wondering how much we would gain on the exchange of kicks when New York punted.

Well, it didn't take long to find out, because, on the next play, Strong sailed a kick from the end of his foot which I thought was going out of the park. If that kick traveled a foot, it was 70 yards long, and it spiraled so high that it looked like a mere speck up in the clouds. That was the first thing Ken did that day, but, before he had finished the afternoon, he had kicked two field goals to beat us, 6 to 0.

NEVER STOPPED BY FOES

Last season, Strong was at his best. He weighed 210 pounds, was fast as lightning and had the drive of a locomotive. His pet plays were slashes off tackles and skirts off the ends. Besides being the hardest running back in the East, he was a great passer and a marvelous kicker. The saying last fall was "Stop Strong and you stop New York," but no one could check him. The Oregon Aggies did it most successfully, but neither of New York's giant tackles was in the game to help out Ken that day, and even then he broke away for two long runs for touchdowns.

STANFORD SQUAD WITH PRESIDENT HOOVER AS MEMBER

HOOVER'S TEAM 'MAKES GOOD'

Back in 1895, Stanford University in California, now coached by Pop Warner, had a popular aggregation of footballers. Today these same footballers are so famous that they would attract a capacity crowd to any stadium where they might don moleskins and step out on a gridiron again. The President of the United States, bankers of international renown, famous attorneys, an engineer, a doctor and leaders in other walks of life, would assemble if this squad were to hold a reunion.

Back row—James Pauley, Martin Kennedy, now connected with the American embassy in London; Joel Y. Field, Texas rancher; Charles Doyle, Hawaiian pineapple grower; A. H. Burnett; Herbert C. Hoover, now President of the United States; William Soper, now an engineer in Honolulu; Charles F. Fickert, former San Francisco district attorney, and William H. Harrelson, an official in the Bank of Italy.

Middle row—William Hazzard; Jule Frankenheimer, San Francisco physician; Paul Downing; Herbert S. Hicks, former Illinois state senator; Guy Cochran, Los Angeles physician, and C. A. Thomas, now dead.

Front row—Alfred Spaulding, director of Lane Hospital, San Francisco; Abraham Lewis, Honolulu banker, and Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National Bank, of New York.

Few Athletic Scholarships At N. Y. U.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—At New York University, where "an extreme case" of subsidizing athletes was reported by the Carnegie Foundation in its bulletin on college athletics, Harold O. Voorhis, secretary of the institution, declared today that "last year the university granted a total of 972 scholarships and less than 10 per cent of this number was awarded to students of athletic ability."

"In no case," his statement said, "is any scholarship awarded on the ground of athletic ability alone, nor is the award of any scholarship delegated to a coach or to anyone else outside the faculty."

Foundation Cites Drugging of Gridders

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Charges that some coaches had administered drugs to football players were included in the sensational indictment of college athletics drawn up by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Although some coaches, the report stated, "aim steadfastly to protect the physical health of their charges, yet evidence is to the effect that physical health has often been sacrificed to victory."

The report cited several instances where players had been given drugs either for their psychological effect or to deaden the pain of injuries. One coach said "bread tablets" had been administered for their psychological effect on "very nervous athletes."

Several other instances in which players painfully hurt were sent into important games were cited.

the New York Americans for Players Bouchard and Spring. Later it developed that the supposed "trade" had been only on the "loans" peculiar to professional hockey operations. This meant that White would revert to the Pirates after the 1928-1929 race, but at the end of the season it was announced that his transfer had been made an outright one and that he would remain with the Americans.

Tex White

IMAGINE Tex's surprise, therefore, when recently he received a contract for 1929-30 from the Pittsburgh club. However, he figured he had been transferred back to the Pirates and accordingly reported here. Then came another surprise. Manager Frank Frederickson informed him that he was no longer the property of the Pittsburgh club and must report to the New York Americans. Still wondering, Tex wired Manager Lionel Conacher, of the Americans, for transportation, so that he could make the trip from Pittsburgh to New York to report for training. But they hadn't finished giving White the run-around, for instead of sending the requested transportation Conacher telegraphed the player that Benny Leonard, the Pirate boss, would arrive in Pittsburgh tomorrow and that White must first report to him. About the same time, President Callahan, of the Bucs, announced that Leonard would not come here until next week, and still another report said that Benny was planning an immediate trip to Europe. Meanwhile, White is wondering what it's all about and where he's going to play. For the time being, he's a homeless orphan.

KERR STOPPED

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Pee Wee Wilson, Detroit, knocked out Jimmy Kerr, Grand Rapids, Mich., former national amateur bantam champion, last night in the third round.

POLYDOR WINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—William Ziegler's Polydor yesterday established itself as a route winner, capturing the Scarsdale handicap over a small, but classy field at Empire City.

HEIDELBERG, GLENDALE BATTLE

By TOM BIRKS.

Now that the various officials of the West Penn Football Association have made it tough for some of the teams signing players, they are good-naturedly going to put on the clamp, and poor managers are not going to run around with signed contracts any longer. Nothing like making it easy for the perplexed manager who is doing his best to try and put a team on the field. This is to protect the player, and the players ought to get a big kick out of the situation of the so-called protection. It was reported some time ago that managers were going around the district asking players to get their release, and getting slips of paper signed to that effect, but we failed to hear what came of the expose.

CHAMPS SHORTHANDED

On Sunday, the National amateur champions from Heidelberg will make another effort to get through that local battle with Glendale and advance into the National cup. If Balsarini is able to get a team on the field, and the game is played without some of the political playing on the part of the some of the opponents to the National champions, Heidelberg might get through. If local opposition still keeps up, there is a chance of the team going to the wall, and some good folks will say, "We got even with them." It seems that the little American band of soccer players are having a tough time, but here is hoping that Balsarini gets his full strength on the field, and answers the opposition with Heidelberg's Green and Gold Tornado in perfect form.

On Saturday the Pierpoints will clash with the Pittsburgh Rovers at Leslie Park. The McClurg outfit is having a tough season, and the Motors probably will win this game. Moremen was in brilliant form last Saturday, and if that defense holds up, the Motors will get lots of goals.

Three games will be played in the District League. The Celtics will travel to Blawnox to meet the Lewis A. C., Switch and Signal meets National Tube, while Crafton meets Clan Douglas at Swissvale.

GAMES IN VALLEY

In the Beaver Valley League, two games will be played. Ambridge will take its team to Midland, and the other battle, Beaver Falls at Sewickley, will provide the other thrills.

Only one game will be staged in the American League, and this will find Harwick clashing with the German Sport Club. For some reason or other, the American League is not providing the thrills it should. Gallatin and Heidelberg are below par and that might have something to do with this.

HEYDLER FLAYS BARNARD

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—President Heydler, of the National League today challenged the correctness of a recent statement made by President Barnard, of the American League, in which the latter declared the American League has been bringing in better players and is 20 per cent stronger than the National.

"That statement," said Heydler, is hardly borne out by the facts or by the records of young players in the two leagues, and it needs more support than comes from the flush of pride over the American League's world series conquest." Continuing the National League's executive said:

"Where are these better players, Mr. Barnard? For example, can you league match Klein, or Ott, or Frederick, three of the greatest young outfielders in the game today? And which of your clbs would not give a fortune for the Waner boys, who are far and away the best pair of run getters in either league?

"I know full well that the loss of 12 out of 13 games in the last three world series is bound to give rise to the talk of all-around American League superiority; but impartial students of the game know there is no material difference in the playing strength of the two leagues. The 22-year record of the series as conducted under organized ball rules from 1905 to 1926 shows that the Americans won 12 and we 10; that out of 133 games played, the Americans won 66 and the Nationals 64, and three were tied. They made 430 runs and we made 440. They made 1,014 hits while the Nationals made 1,033.

"In the last three series, we suffered severely by comparison of the totals. Ruth, whose long range hitting we have been unable to match, except when Alexander stopped him in 1926. But we shall keep on trying and I have no doubt that the pendulum of baseball luck will swing our way in the next few years, and we will offset their present advantage. Both leagues employ the same methods in securing their players and they have resources behind them in the same volume."

Harris' Condition Said to Be Serious

OIL CITY, Pa., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Joe Harris, former major league baseball player, who underwent a second operation in a local hospital Tuesday, was reported in a serious condition last night although a little better than yesterday. Harris played with the Washington Americans, Pittsburgh Nationals and other major league teams. Last year he performed on the Pacific coast during the early part of the season.

NOTRE DAME SQUAD ARRIVES FOR GAME

IRISH GRIDDERS AT UNION STATION

in the way of seating arrangements to facilitate the handling of the crowds.

Tommy Phillips, of the North Side, former local lightweight boxer, remembered as the fighting nephew of Patsy Brannigan, kicks in with a boost for Georgie Fifield, the Canadian welterweight, who boxes Buck McTiernan in the windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Tommy says he fought Georgie in Toronto five years ago and found him a tough, rugged opponent and a great puncher. He copped the decision over Tommy.

BRICKLAYERS TO ROOT

Monday night will be Bricklayers' Night at the Garden. George Panka, the heavyweight, knockout king, of Homestead, is employed as a bricklayer at the Carnegie steel plant there, and his foreman has bought up 200 tickets to be used by George's fellow-workers, who will attend in a body to root for him in his return bout with Long Tom Williams, Chicago Negro heavyweight, in the six-round semifinal. Chet Smallwood boxes Ken Hargraves in the second bout, and Hugh Fetzer and Georgie Chambers are in the opener.

Through the efforts of Havey J. Boyle, local boxing commissioner, a change has been made in the code rescinding Rule 9, which reads:

"No manager, second or boxer, licensed under the State Athletic Commission, shall participate in any capacity during an amateur show, under the penalty of having his professional license revoked."

This rule hit such mentors as Jack Metz, Duke O'Hara and Paul Leiby, who are allied with both professional and amateur boxers, and an appeal for its rescinding was made by the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U.

Locals Buy Box In Notre Dame Stadium

The Notre Dame Club of Western Pennsylvania will present Knute K. Rockne a check for a $2,000 box in the stadium now being built on the campus at Notre Dame, it was announced today.

Presentation of the check will be part of the program at the dinner dance in the William Penn Hotel which the Notre Dame Club has arranged for tomorrow night, and at which Rockne and his team will be guests.

Notre Dame clubs throughout the country are buying boxes in the new stadium. Under the purchase plan, the club will hold the box for 10 years, and a tablet with the name of the purchasing club will be placed on the box.

The new stadium at Notre Dame is expected to be completed for the 1930 football season. At least four major games will be played in it each year.

Donie Bush to See Carnegie Play Notre Dame

Donie Bush, former manager of the Pirates, will occupy a seat on the Carnegie bench tomorrow when the Plaid warriors go into action against the Notre Dame team.

The new pilot of the White Sox will be the guest of Dr. William L. Marks, who is one of the Carnegie coaches. Donie and Dr. Marks were close friends during Bush's term of service with the Pirates.

Donie is a keen lover of the grid game. He has taken in a number of Tech's big battles. He will come over tonight from his Indianapolis home to see tomorrow's big spectacle.

MAJESKE, REED BOX DRAW

Walter Majeske, of Wilkinsburg, formerly of Saginaw, Mich., and Gene Reed, latest addition to the Jim Buchanan stable of Charleroi, staged a bristling fight last night at the Palisades, McKeesport, and at the conclusion of the 10 rounds it was voted a draw by the judges. The referee's vote, which went to Reed, did not count.

Genuine slugging and hard punching featured the match, and there were few dull moments throughout the 10 rounds.

EARLY ROUNDS MAJESKE'S

Majeske took the first four rounds by comfortable margins and rocked Reed time and again with hard rights and lefts to the head. In the fifth round, Reed landed a hard right under Majeske's left eye and soon that optic was closed, handicapping the former Saginaw battler considerably.

During the late sessions, Reed got in some hard blows and stopped Majeske time and again as the latter would come in swinging. Both were tired at the final bell. Majeske had a weight advantage of more than six pounds over his opponent, coming in at 146¾, while Reed scaled 140½.

A pair of fighting youngsters, Eddie Brannon, of Swissvale, and Young Corsey, Canton newsboy, furnished the action in the six-round semi-final, with Corsey receiving the decision.

CANTON BOY GOOD

The Canton fighter displayed a sharp-shooting left jab and a hard right cross, which he landed hard and often, besides tieing Brannon up in the infighting and warding off the Negro's hardest blows. It was the first fight that Brannon has lost in this district in a long time. Brannon weighed 134, while Corsey scaled 128¼.

Marty Simmons, of Wilkinsburg, weighing 146¾, scored a technical knockout over Joe Todd, of Charleroi, in the fourth round of the second bout. Todd going down under a barrage of rights and lefts to the stomach.

Cowboy DeLuca, of Pittsburgh, won all the way from Young Penno, McKees Rocks slugger, in the six-round opener. DeLuca weighed 148½, while Penno scaled 147¾.

Jimmy McGirr's next show will be held on Wednesday night of next week and will feature Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., against Tug Phillips, of Erie.

PAPE IS RULED ELIGIBLE

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 25. — (AP.)—Oran H. Pape, University of Iowa halfback, was declared eligible to play in the Wisconsin game tomorrow by a subcommittee of the Hawkeye Athletic Council.

Pitt Harriers Meet Orange Tomorrow

The New York hill-and-dalers familiarized themselves with the hard Schenley course in preparation for tomorrow.

The Panther team will be the same as that which defeated Allegheny College, 21-34, last Saturday, being composed of Capt. Bob Alberts, Robert Caesar, Tony Mazzei, Mac McDowell, Glenn Thiele, George Schmieller and John Smoyer.

Keystone Athletic Club Swim Tonight

The first of a series of entertainments to be known as "Club Night in the Pool" is to be enjoyed by members of the Keystone Athletic Club tonight. Swimming and swimming exhibitions are on the program.

The exhibition is to include demonstrations of floating, water balancing, life saving, diving, relay races and events for "The Teenie Weenies," a group of children none of whom is more than eight years of age.

Ens and Traynor Leave Sunday For St. Louis

Manager Jewel Ens and Capt. Pie Traynor, of the Pirates, will leave Sunday morning by automobile for St. Louis, the home of the new pilot of the Buccos.

Ens and Traynor expect to attend the big clash of the Scotch and Irish in the Pitt Stadium tomorrow. Both are grid enthusiasts.

Traynor has been taking daily treatments for his broken nose and today declared that he had got much relief. His hip injury will receive specialist attention later in the winter. Pie expects to spend a week with Manager Ens and then will hie to the Wisconsin woods where he will join Burleigh Grimes.

Mrs. Jewel Ens, who recently underwent a slight operation, expects to leave for St. Louis with her two children next week.

SIGNAL STEALS NOT NEW

catcher would go through the business as a means of deception. A smart baserunner quite easily gets the opposing catcher's signals and tips the batter off by some sort of an office. This was the method said to have been employed by the Athletics in the series just closed.

Walter Schmidt and Johnny Rawlings were experts at picking off the opposing club's signs. The smart catcher, in particular, was noted for this trick. Walter's favorite was to interpret when the batter had the "hit-and-run" on. He would then ask for a pitch out to throw out the runner while the flabbergasted batsman wondered how the catcher had outguessed him.

Schmidt stole all the signs owned by the Phillies under Art Fletcher in one series. The Pirates lambasted the Quaker pitchers with undue fierceness, then while Fletcher tore up the grass and abused certain Pittsburgh players, including Schmidt. The hot-headed pilot had not tumbled to what had really happened. Schmidt let Art get away with his abusive remarks until the series was about finished. Then he shouted to Art:

"Take a run up an alley, Fletcher—and change your signs!"

Art was ready to fight at this sally.

COLLINS STUDIES SIGNALS

Eddie Collins studied the Cubs closely as he coached the Athletics in the recent unpleasantness. It is altogether probable that the smart Collins solved some of the inside stuff used by McCarthy. But Jimmy Burke might have done the same thing for the Cubs.

Some batters will not take advantage of this so-called big advantage. You will hear one fellow remark that he does not have enough confidence in the signal-tipper to proceed accordingly. There is always a chance for a fellow being beaned with a fast ball while stepping up on a curve.

The sport has any number of guess hitters; that its the batsman who likes to call the turn on the pitches. You would be surprised by the stars who have followed this method successfully.

UMPIRES DINE

The West Penn Baseball Umpires Association held its annual banquet at the Roosevelt Hotel last evening. President Dan Dougherty was toastmaster, Barney Givens, Dan Brickley, and Tom Birks, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, together with quite a number of the members, made speeches.

Holders of tickets of the various colors are asked to use the entrances as follows:

DENIALS MARK CARNEGIE REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—With reactions ranging all the way from indignant protest and sweeping denial to outright approval and commendation the country's colleges today faced the challenge contained in the Carnegie Foundation's sensational report of the commercialism and kindred ills in college sport.

At Brown University the report was denounced by Norman S. Taber, chairman of the athletic council, as "in part false and in toto so misleading as to make it impossible to believe the authors could present it."

"Broken faith" was charged by Prof. B. W. Griffith, graduate manager of athletics at Bucknell University, where it was declared the Carnegie investigator was given access to files and records with the understanding that "specific names would not be mentioned."

REPORT UNFAIR, SAID

"The report is unfair," said Prof. Giles L. Courtney, chairman of the board of athletic control of New York University, "perhaps not because of intent, but because of the technique of the investigation . . . if some of the statements which appear in the press also appear in the report, they are absolutely without actual foundation."

Allegations of an "intensely organized, sometimes subtle, system" of recruiting athletes at the University of Michigan were vigorously denied by Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics there.

Speaking for the Western Conference as a whole, Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner, averred Big Ten universities are cleaner athletically than any other 10 universities any one can name.

All of the Western Conference schools, except Illinois and Chicago, which were given a clean bill, also made emphatic denial of the charges. The University of Iowa watched developments with interest believing that although that institution recently has been disciplined by the Big Ten for subsidizing it is only a "minor violator" by comparison.

Representatives of Ohio State predicted that beneficial results would accrue from the report.

ALL COMPLAIN

At Holy Cross, the Rev. John J. Fox remarked that "no worthy boy ever was turned away from Holy Cross" regardless of athletic ability and that "many star athletes at Holy Cross have never received anything."

"We are compelled to give scholarships," declared Dr. D. C. Gossard, of Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa. "Practically all colleges do it."

The University of Southern California complained that it had been assured the report's statements in regard to that institution would be revised before being made public and that this had not been done. Charges of recruiting by members of the athletic department, as made in the report, were described as "without foundation and unfair."

Dukes-Geneva To Use White Football

A white football will be used at the night football game to be staged between Duquesne University and Geneva College at Forbes Field one week from today. The white ball is much easier to follow than is the drab-colored pigskin even in day games and the lights used make it possible to follow the highest punt without difficulty of any sort. Neither do the lights give a glare injurious to the eyes, the light being diffused and it is possible to gaze into the beam steadily for more than 10 minutes without any ill effects or discomfort.

Springfield Y.M.C.A. To Demand Apology

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 25.—An apology for listing Springfield Young Men's Christian Association College as "not-so-pure" athletically will be demanded of the Carnegie Foundation, Dr. J. H. McCurdy, director of Athletics, indicated today.

Dr. McCurdy said he had written the foundation for a copy of the bulletin. He said after he had made a study of the charges, action would be taken.

He declared the college was supported by the Y. M. C. A., its alumni were in the main teachers, and there were no wealthy alumni to assist football players.

NAVY WOULD CUT GREEN TILT, SAID

BOSTON, Oct. 25. — (AP.) — The Boston Post says today that the athletic authorities at the United States Naval Academy have been negotiating with the Dartmouth Athletic Association for the cancellation of the Dartmouth-Navy football game at Philadelphia on November 30, and thereby open the way for the Army and Navy football relations this season.

Dartmouth officials, the Post learned, are not only willing to retire in favor of the Army, but would gladly be of greater service and permit the Dartmouth team to play Notre Dame in New York on November 30, the date the Army has reserved for the Rockne eleven.

NAVY DENIES CONFAB

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, said last night that he had made no attempt to cancel the Navy-Dartmouth game on November 30, to allow an Army-Navy game this year and declared that he believed no member of the Navy Department had done so.

Harry Oswald Loses In Pocket Cue Play

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 25.—Harry Oswald, of Pittsburgh, one of the four survivors in the eastern pocket billiard championship tournament being held here, met his master last night in Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who, in a match that had few thrills, defeated the Pittsburgher by a score of 100 to 65.

Although the loser, Oswald had the high run, 32 in the fourth inning, while at another time he sank 21 balls before missing.

Tonight Lauri will be pitted against Andrew Ponzi, Philadelphia, who last night was defeated by Arthur Woods, of Pawtucket, R. I.

In annexing the first match of 100 points in the round-robin among Oswald and the other survivors of the 16 cuemen who started the tourney, Woods broke two of the tournament records, a high run of 38 and an average of 20.

Tonight Oswald will engage in combat with Woods.

CONSUMER HAS PROSPERITY IN GRASP

Economic Future Largely Depends on Attitude of Public Toward Purchases

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—We, the people of the United States, have the perpetuation of reasonable business prosperity largely in our own hands.

The oft-kicked ultimate consumer is now in the driver's seat, and the longer term economic outlook is dependent on the buying attitude of the great multitude of people.

It would be regrettable if the policy of consumers of merchandise and services were unduly influenced by the liquidation in the stock market. The market setback represents a correction of an internal speculative situation, which was built up during months of clamorous buying irrespective of intrinsic values. The liquidation has become equally undiscriminating, and such interludes of hysteria, which wipe out the inexperienced, traditionally create buying opportunities for those in position to study price-earning ratios, and the true prospects of business corporations.

LOSE SUPPORT

The market break has been synchronized with a recession in some lines of industry, but the action of the market gives a wholly exaggerated and distorted notion of what has been happening in business. The truth is that the motional bulls have been deprived of the supporting factor of continuous new high records in business which until late in the summer bolstered their case.

High money rates which were connected with excessive bull speculation, began by August to hurt business in some lines, particularly those dependent on borrowed funds, such as the construction industry, which has been harassed by a shortage of mortgage money. The highly exploited automobile industry, too, has been experiencing a letdown since the early summer, partly because the rest of the industry was feeling the full effect of the return of Ford to productivity and partly because manufacturers had earlier in the year been forcing cars on dealers at too rapid a rate.

STEEL SLOWS DOWN

These setbacks have slowed up the steel industry somewhat after a period of record shattering activity, and freight car loadings, though still unusually high, have in recent weeks shown a moderate downward trend.

The chief reason why business, though proceeding on a high scale of activity, has not made the customary seasonal advance is that it was inordinately and unseasonably active during the summer months. The moderation in the business pace has been healthy, and will tend to prolong the period of post-war activity on an unusually high plane if public psychology, resulting from focussing attention on the stock ticker, does not upset the apple cart.

As matters now stand, the large and dominant American corporations in the railroads, public utility, and industrial fields, having completed nine months of unprecedentedly profitable activity, seem destined to report for the full year 1929 larger profits than in any previous year. Confidence in the long term future of well managed leading American corporations in essential industries seems merited.

The reason why the consumer is so important is that we are in a buyer's market, rather than a seller's market, in commodities. Such vast advances have been made in efficiency in production that American factories are equipped to turn out more goods than the market needs. The consumer, who makes demand effective, is therefore the arbiter of prosperity.

Edwin Lefevre, who has devoted his literary talents to perennial warnings to the public that marginal speculation is an unbeatable game, insisted months ago that the new fashion of larger margins would not in the long run keep the public from experiencing losses. On the contrary, he insisted that, in putting up larger margins, the public would lose more. Irrespective of the truth of Mr. Lefevre's exaggerated thesis, experience demonstrates that the amateur does better when he purchases selected securities outright.

BUY VALUES

If you want to invest wisely, don't buy mere market popularity, but look behind prices to earnings and asset value. Since airplane stocks recently passed out of vogue, they have fallen to a price equal to less than 12 times earnings, compared with 25 or more times earnings at the peak of popularity. Meantime, there has been no deterioration in the long term future of commercial aviation, in which the strongest best managed companies will share.

The largest independent steel company misjudged the market in making a recent offering of new stock to shareholders. Furthermore, in my opinion, it made the mistake of seeking to establish as an official offering price a figure above which the stock had sold in the open market for only a comparatively short period.

The Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., has declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, payable November 1 to record October 30.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The bond market continued irregular today. There was some restoration of confidence, which had been shaken yesterday by the collapse of stock values, but the tone of trading was still uncertain. United States government securities, first grade industrials and some of the rails were supported, but selling was noted elsewhere in the list and even the strongest groups contained a few issues that showed minus signs in the early trading. The foreign group was soft.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Window Glass Rebuilds Three Factories

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE American Window Glass Company has made long strides towards re-establishing its operations on a satisfactory basis. In its fiscal year ended August 30, 1929, it earned only $4,380 after charging off depreciation, but this compared with a deficit of $1,233,332 in the preceding year.

The company is going through an important transition period. It has completely changed its production methods. It has launched new products on the market. It has revised the capital structure. It has boldly written off worthless assets. It has published its first financial statement giving investors a clear picture of its position.

During the year a large number of changes were made in the factory organizations. The personnel was materially reduced and a large saving in expenses was made possible.

Still Work to Do

WHILE the annual report showed the benefits of many of the changes made, the present fiscal year will see the completion of many more. It may not be until next spring that the full effects of all of the improvements become apparent in the operating statement.

Within a short time contracts will be let for the installation of Fourcault machines for drawing glass in sheets on each of the two large glass tanks at the Jeannette factory. One of the batteries of old cylinder machines has already been dismantled.

This follows the installation of thirteen Fourcault machines at the Arnold factory, which will produce the largest volume of glass ever drawn from a single furnace. The Arnold equipment represents a revolutionary step in the design of glass making machinery since the production from each machine will be about twice that of other installations with no increase in the labor.

No Off Quality Glass

IN FEBRUARY, 1928, the company placed its first Fourcault machines in operation at Belle Vernon. Previous to that time the company had confined its operations to the use of machines which blew cylinders of glass. These cylinders were later split and then flattened. The older process made a good quality of glass, but its production cost was higher than under the new method which draws glass in flat sheets.

The initial production at Belle Vernon was marked by a large share of off quality glass. Other plants using this process have had the same difficulty. Last June, however, the plant was shut down and remodeled with the result that since the resumption of operations in August no off quality glass has been made. The effect of this in future profits will be great.

Old Plants Scrapped

AS A RESULT of the change in operating methods the company has written off $5,000,000 for obsolete equipment. This was in addition to the normal yearly charge of $567,956 for depreciation and a charge of $803,449 for discarded assets and expenses in connection with the dismantling of cylinder machines.

The consolidation of the American Window Glass Company simplified the capital structure. The machine company owned all of the common stock of the glass company. It derived its income from royalties from the operating organization. In completing the merger the machine company's patents carried at $2,236,530 were written off. These patents covered the cylinder method of making glass and most of them had expired.

Tax Refund

THE company recently received a tax refund of $1,836,323 covering the years from 1917 to 1921. This greatly strengthened the cash position but did not affect the surplus account since an equal amount was set up as a reserve against other tax claims which the government has pending against the company. The company also has unsettled claims against the government. The total tax reserve now amounts to $2,824,152.

For the first time the company has made a detailed statement of its current assets and liabilities public. This showed that total current assets amounted to $5,874,548 against current liabilities of $381,740. Cash amounted to only $81,880 but United States Government securities totaled $1,358,340.

As a result of the consolidation of the two companies, a total of $4,000,000 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred, $7,000,000 of 7 per cent Class A stock and 130,000 shares of common stock are outstanding. Surplus amounted to $2,627,031.

HEAVY SUPPORT STABILIZES MARKET

Stocks Start Tumbling After Early Rise, but Big Buying Checks Fall

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP.)—Powerful support was thrown into the stock market today, and prices developed considerable stability, despite an enormous volume of trading, again severely taxing the trading capacity, and delaying the ticker more than an hour.

Trading, however, failed to approximate the fervid pace of yesterday's near-panic conditions, which resulted in the staggering record volume of nearly 13,000,000 shares.

The market opened calmly and moved substantially higher, but considerable selling pressure appeared before mid-day. Huge buying orders were thrown into the market and the decline was checked in the early afternoon, when a few leading shares had sold off 1 to 4 points. In the early upturn, more than a score of issues gained from 5 to nearly 20 points.

Such active shares as U. S. Steel, International Telephone, Simmons, Chrysler and Montgomery Ward were driven 2 points under the Thursday close.

REGAIN LOSSES

When the early afternoon rally made its appearance General Electric rallied from 300 to 307, Westinghouse Electric made up its loss to 185 and American Can recovered most of its 4¾ point drop. United States Steel got back to 206, its previous close, and American Telephone was selling at about its Thursday final.

Reassurances from leading bankers and business executives proved a stabilizing influence. It was generally reported in Wall street, although official confirmation was lacking, that as a result of bankers' conferences, a pool of more than $1,000,000,000 had been formed to support the market, and that at midday today it had been found necessary to use but a small fraction of that sum. Highly optimistic statements regarding the steel industry, made by leading executives at the meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, also bolstered confidence.

MONEY FIRMER

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and was a little firmer, reflecting renewed buying of stocks. Bankers' acceptance rates were again reduced, however, and the brokerage loan figures, showing a drop of $167,000,000, despite the fact that they failed to reflect Wednesday's and yesterday's liquidation, were gratifying.

Commission houses generally expressed the opinion that stocks had reached the bottom yesterday, and many sent out buying advices. No sharp advance in prices was generally predicted, however, and many looked for a quieting down and dull trading for some time. It was pointed out that stock bought to support the market will soon find its way back into the market, which will tend to cancel any rally at this time. Traders continued rather nervous, and many were glad to get rid of their stocks at today's better levels.

RISE COMPREHENSIVE

The early buying movement covered virtually the entire list and gains of 3 to 20 points from the previous close were recorded. A. M. Byers rose 19, Standard Gas and Electric 13, Canadian Pacific 12⅝, Eastman Kodak 12¾, and Air Reduction 11. Advances of 5 to 9 points appeared in Goodyear Rubber, Bush Terminal, American Tobacco B, American-Foreign Power, Western Union, Brooklyn Union Gas, American Waterworks and Electric, National Biscuit, Johns-Manville, Republic Iron and Steel, Bendix, Calumet and Arizona, International Harvester, Houston Oil, Allis Chalmers and a few others.

On the crest of the rise, however, there was a resumption of selling by the bearish element. General Electric, after selling up 3 points to 311, dropped to 300. Westinghouse Electric, up 4, dropped to 176½, and A. M. Byers, up 19 to 130, fell to 110. Shares driven down 3 to 6 points included Western Union, American Telephone, North American, Fox, Ludlum, Sun Oil, American Can and Auburn Auto.

The feeling that the market had passed through its spasm of liquidation and had definitely changed for the better caused more confidence in the late afternoon trading and prices made headway despite the persistence of air pockets in some of the high priced shares. The vitality of U. S. Steel, American Can, General Electric and American Telephone was instrumental in bringing in a large volume of outside orders which caused the ticker to fall behind 75 minutes in the final hour. The closing tone was strong. Sales totaled 5,910,900 shares.

Price Movements Hold to Relatively Narrow Range In Early Dealings Here

Stocks were steady at the opening of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, with initial prices holding to within a point or so of last night's final quotations.

Lone Star Gas, which suffered a 15-point break in yesterday's selling wave, was about 10 points above the extreme bottom of the swing, while Blaw Knox reached 48 in the first hour, up nine points from the low of the previous session. Western Public Service was also moderately above last night's final price and gains of a point were noted in the early trades in Allegheny Steel, Devonian Oil and Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt.

Witherow Steel opened with a two-point gain, but met a little selling and forfeited most of the advance in the first hour.

The feeling prevailed that the bulk of the distress selling responsible for yesterday's collapse in the local leaders was about completed and a steadier price movement was expected for the session.

BETHLEHEM NET ABOVE 1928

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Bethlehem Steel Corporation today reported net income for the third quarter of $11,348,720 as compared with $11,766,473 for the second quarter. The latter period had set a new high record.

Earnings were equal to $4.01 per share on 2,400,000 shares of common stock outstanding as compared with $5.33 per share on 1,880,000 shares in the second quarter and $1.43 per share in the third quarter of 1928.

A quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share was declared on the common, the same as in the previous quarter.

E. B. Grace, president, announced that the corporation was running at 82 per cent of rated capacity, but that this volume should increase with new business in sight. Orders on hand at the end of the third quarter totaled $61,070,000 compared with $56,830,000 at the end of the second quarter.

There is no decline in steel business other than in the automotive industry, Mr. Grace asserted, and there is a tremendous increase in rails, construction and ships. He added that the slack in the automotive industry at the model-changing period this year was "taking a little longer than usual," but predicted that the output in 1930 would be at least normal.

Speculation Orgy Sent Stocks Too High

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE New York Stock Exchange had the most exciting day in its history. Some 13,000,000 shares, against a previous record of 8,000,000-odd, were thrown overboard at sensational declines—declines ranging from five to fifty points and even more.

Wall Street went mad. Suicides and failures galore were rumored. The governors cleared everybody out of the Stock Exchange gallery. Special squads of policemen were stationed here, there, everywhere at strategic points. The street in front of the exchange was a seething mob.

WHAT caused the stock market's downfall?

The long-sustained orgy of speculation had carried many stocks to unwarrantedly dizzy heights. Quick profits had an intoxicating effect. Millions found a new way to get rich quickly and easily. The recipe was simplicity itself: "Buy stocks."

Early this year everybody was doing it—except wise old veterans like Secretary Mellon, who urged the people to buy bonds rather than stocks. This advice was followed by many of the more conservative. But the gamblers poohpoohed it.

Prices recently began to develop irregularity. Sellers began to outnumber buyers in many stocks.

Then it became very hard to borrow money. Call rates thought nothing of touching 10 0/0 and time money went to 9¼ 0/0. Brokers' loans, meanwhile, were skyrocketed by the billion, until today they stand at above $8,549,000,000.

THAT was disheartening enough. It was also warning enough to those whose experience pre-dated the war.

On top of this, industry and business, after a wonderfully-sustained boom, broke out in weak spots. Steel orders fell off. Automobile buying slackened. Dear money checked building. Unemployment reports began to circulate. Railway traffic fell below a year ago.

Until a few weeks ago it was as easy to issue millions and even billions of new securities as it was to boom any stock desired. But just as Germany overworked her printing presses and flooded the country and the world with paper currency, so American underwriters and promoters of all kinds overworked printing presses to feed new securities to the public. Investment trusts alone have floated about two billions this year.

Indigestion set in. Offerings that were launched with a hurrah quickly began to sink. Investment houses became clogged with unsalable stuff.

THE writer stubbornly persisted in issuing warnings despite having been cautious much too early. That the whole boom would burst was as clear as day; the question nobody could answer was when it would burst.

It has burst this month. Especially did it burst yesterday. Elsewhere the extent of the ruin and wreckage is shown.

WHAT of the outlook now?

In my judgment many seasoned stocks became bargains yesterday and are bargains today notwithstanding the artificially-inspired rally.

The best motor stocks look decidedly cheap. Imagine General Motors selling below $50! Sound oil stocks also appear desirable investments for the long pull. The shares of certain industries which have been in the doldrums also seem safe enough. Rails may or may not have weathered their storm. A good many utilities and a good many industrials which show only a meager income yield do not even yet appeal.

I BOUGHT some stocks yesterday but will not climb for more if the market be sent skywards right away. A recovery brought about by artificial respiration supplied by bankers alarmed by events does not inspire absolute confidence that the market will not have renewed sinking spells. When Morgan partners and Charles E. Mitchell, Albert H. Wiggin, William C. Potter and such like heavyweights hurriedly get together to avert panic, they don't buy stocks because they want them for keeps; they buy with the intention of reselling as soon as the market proves able to absorb them.

The prudent thing to do, as I see it, is to pick up a moderate amount of seasoned dividend-paying stocks of proved merit and yielding a reasonable divided return. Then wait and see whether the air has really been cleared. A goodly amount of cash in the bank is an extremely desirable asset. I for one would not dream of loading up to the hilt until it has been definitely established that the hurricane is over.

Remember, however, the old proven axiom, "Don't sell when everybody is selling."

Federal Reserve in Position To Take Care of Any Emergency.

THAT the Federal Reserve is in a position to take care of any disturbing situation which might arise is more than ever apparent in its weekly conditions statements just out. The system's ratio now stands at 85.7 per cent contrasted with 71.4 per cent this time a year ago, while that of the New York bank is at 74.5 per cent against 68.9 per cent the same time last year. Both the system and the local bank added to their open market bill portfolios in the past week, but holdings of government securities in both instances were reduced slightly. Further reduction in holdings of rediscounted bills served to cut the total of Federal Reserve credit outstanding by about $13,000,000 on the week.

Wall Street was hopeful that action might have been taken yesterday to reduce the discount rate here from the 5 per cent level established last August. But apparently the bank is not going to be rushed toward any such action, and perhaps the present rate will stand until brokers' loans have been pared down to a level in keeping with ideas prevailing in Federal Reserve circles. Moreover, to cut the bank rate at the moment, with sterling and French francs presently at the gold level might prove a boomerang in that it would be reasonably certain to boost those exchanges still further. For the present the bank has done nothing more than cut its bill buying rate, a development in keeping with the trend of things in the open bill market.

NATURALLY everyone familiar with the situation realizes that the loan figures published yesterday are from a true measure of the present condition in that respect. As a matter of fact it is safe to assume that the drop of $167,000,000 shown on the week is only a partial reflection of the true extent of liquidation in the period covered. The effect of the fuller liquidation up to Tuesday's closing was offset by the necessity of providing for some $210,000,000 new stock on expiring "rights" in the period. The drop brings the total but $170,000,000 under the peak of three weeks ago. Reflecting the March break in 1926 loans contracted by $365,000,000 in that period of about 11 per cent. If the same ratio holds in the present instance it would be logical to expect a cumulative contraction of somewhere in the neighborhood of $700,000,000.

There is no desire on the part of the bankers in the money pool to bring about an advance in the market at this time or to make money for their institutions by their operations. In fact, they would prefer not to turn their action into profit. Their chief purpose is to bring about an orderly trading market. If the market recovers, they point out, it will be due to normal trading conditions. Although there have been statements on certain occasions in the past of banking support in the market, this is the first time it can be authoritatively said that leading banks have pledged their institutions actually to buy stocks in the market. In previous demoralized markets the organized banking support was for the purpose of supplying funds for the money market.

WHILE yesterday's conference of leading bankers in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. resulted in organized support for the stock market, this support it is learned authoritatively is not necessarily to buy stocks for the purpose of putting up the market but, to furnish a backlog to prevent any such demoralized conditions as prevailed yesterday. It is understood that only a small portion of the large resources made available by the six leading banking institutions in the pool was used yesterday to buy certain stocks for which there appeared to be at the moment no bids. A very considerable amount is still held in reserve. In other words the bankers are not back of the market, but are under the market.

Further appearance of reassuring statements about general conditions coming from banking and industrial leaders helped in a measure to partially restore confidence. Again the mechanism available for keeping traders and investors immediately advised of transactions on the floor of the stock exchange was overtaxed and the ticker again fell far behind the market. Reports were in circulation to the effect that prominent banking interests were active on the buying side. It was pointed out that the unhealthy technical position of the market has been corrected to a great extent, and in the process many stocks of the leading industrial corporations are available at levels lower than those existing a year ago, although earnings have grown at a rapid rate and assets are the largest in history. Leaders are agreed that the chaos which has prevailed in the security markets was due more to technical reasons than to fundamental causes. Unless the drop in security values has a depressing effect on the plans of business leaders the outlook for 1930 is unusually bright, and this has led some of the leading commission houses in the financial district to the belief that the market should start laying the foundation for the constructive advance which is believed likely to characterize next year.

Texas Gulf Sulphur Earns $4.52 Share

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Texas Gulf Sulphur Company in the September quarter earned $1.58 a share against $1.45 in the third quarter of 1928. Nine months' earnings were equal to $4.52 a share against $4.08 in the 1928 period.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Prices were highly irregular on the New York Curb Market today. Leading shares opened somewhat above the previous sale, but the advance was short-lived and a decline set in at the end of the first hour which carried numerous stocks below the final quotations of yesterday. Shortly after noon, however, another movement toward higher ground was started and part of the earlier advance was recovered in some of the favorites. Investment trusts, most of which tumbled to new lows on Thursday, showed improvement. Trading was again in enormous volume and shortly before 1 p. m. the tape was 47 minutes late.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

WMBJ, ORDERED OFF AIR BY NOV. 1, TO APPEAL

Owners Strive to Save City's Fifth Station

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

EFFORTS to have the Federal Radio Commission reconsider its decision in ordering WMBJ off the air by November 1, were undertaken here last night by J. M. Luterman and Dr. S. L. Ostrosky, who recently assumed management of the station. They plan to appeal the decision.

WMBJ was ordered deleted and 22 stations were given 30-day notice of deletion in the regular bulletin issued by the commission.

A 100-watt station, WMBJ was started a few years ago by the Rev. John W. Sproul while he was conducting religious services at a tabernacle in McKeesport. Some months later when the Rev. Mr. Sproul changed his activities to the Glory Barn in West Carson street, the station was seized with other materials by the sheriff.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT:

Milton Tully, Irish tenor with Majestic Radio on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, is a Jewish cantor at Roder Shalom Synagogue on Saturday and Sunday.

R. P. Griffith, better known as "Stockman Sam," takes the part of Schmaltz, leader of the Little German Band, in the Dilworth Musicale heard Thursday night from KDKA.

Griffith executes his part so well that he has been mistaken for a native German many times. Yesterday he received a letter penned in Teutonic and had to have Glenn Riggs decipher it.

Bud Cooper has returned to the city after a hectic week searching the countryside for a fiddling group of farmers to play at KQV barn dances, to be inaugurated Monday, November 4.

He located what he wanted at Callery, Pa., a village about a barrel and a half east of Wexford. The Five Davison Brothers can't read a note of music, but they can fiddle 500 tunes by "ear."

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Anent the frequent repetition of popular tunes on the radio, a new listener reported yesterday that singers "Tip Toed to the Window" four times and became "Vagabond Lovers" four times all on the same station in the same evening.

"The Loom"

VALIA VALENTINOVA

"Bells" and "The Loom" will be sung by Mme. Valia Valentinova, contralto, during the Russian Village program over WJAS tonight at 8 o'clock.

Five Dramatic Sketches.

When Henry and George, employed as bell-hops in a small hotel, first gave vent to their theatrical aspirations they had no idea the manager of the hotel would discover what they were doing, but since he has become aware of their work he has expressed a desire to have the guests of the hotel listen to their attempts at entertainment. The Grand Ballroom of the hotel has therefore been turned over to these two boys for their experiment tonight.

With the prancing charger, Rosinante, under him, an ostrich feather flying over him, Sancho Panza's curses behind him and a windmill before him, Don Quixote, the greatest cavalier of Spain, charges forward to take a stab at this and that in the "triadrama" which will be heard during the broadcast of the Triadors' program tonight.

Don Quixote, intrepid conqueror of windmills, shepherds and waving sagebrush, engages the versatile wit of Raymond Knight and provides an entertaining burlesque hero for the sketch. The brilliant aria, "Eri Tu", from Verdi's "The Masked Ball", the dramatic sequences in Kramer's "The Great Awakening", and the pathos of Burleigh's "Hard Trials" give the singer splendid opportunities to reveal the power of his art. Gabrielle Entrances Henry Incidents in the life of the beautiful Gabrielle, who was loved by the popular, swaggering soldier and vagabond, King Henry of Navarre, will be told. Dramatic sketch, Famous Loves, is broadcast through the NBC System, Friday evening October 25, at 8:45 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time.

Gabrielle's up-bringing was not of the best. When she was young, she and her six brothers were known throughout France as the seven deadly sins. However, she was always gay and carefree and her secret of life was to enjoy life. For this reason she held the heart of the lovable King of Navarre.

Henry was inclined to be fickle, but he loved Gabrielle so sincerely that he divorced his Queen, Marguerite de Valois, in order to make Gabrielle his wife. This dramalogue will be accompanied by French music of the sixteenth century.

Seated in this individual's boat the two travelers are told the story of "The River Girl." Born and brought up on the shanty boat, this unusual child met the cavalier of her dreams at a village dance and but for one thing her romance would have been complete.

Race Riot Follows Carnival Stabbing

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Race rioting in which about 300 white laborers and 200 Filipinos participated as the result of a stabbing at a carnival in Exeter, 60 miles south of here, started a mob of whites early today on an attempt to drive the Filipinos out of that section of the country.

At least one man was hurt and several others were believed to have been injured when stones, clubs and pitchforks were brought into play by the Caucasians.

Deputy sheriffs were attempting to check on further activities of the mob.

Wife's Confession Frees Long-Termer

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Robert L. Tipton, 63, was free today after serving two years in prison of a 23-year sentence for a murder in which authorities now believe he had no part.

Tipton and his wife, Mrs. Alma Tipton, were convicted jointly of slaying 13-year-old Lovella Winkle who lived with them. Mrs. Tipton was committed to the hospital for the insane at Knoxville.

Mrs. Tipton confessed later she killed the child while acting "under an irresistible impulse" to shed blood. Tipton was pardoned yesterday.

Spanish Battling Infant Paralysis

MADRID, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The Spanish health authorities today declared that a so-called epidemic of infantile paralysis appears to be decreasing, there being very few new cases. The authorities ordered the continuation of strict measures to prevent spread of the disease, but denied there was justification for alarm.

TOREADOR, GIRL 'BULL' MEXICO

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 25.—(AP.)—The fate of Mexico City's bull-fighting season hung in the balance here yesterday while immigration authorities debated with Joaquin Rodriguez, famous Spanish bull fighter, regarding the status of a young woman admirer who had stowed away on the liner Alfonso XIII as the vessel left Spain.

The Mexican authorities at first refused to allow her to land, whereupon Rodriguez refused to quit the ship.

The immigration authorities, possibly swayed somewhat by considerations of Rodiguez's preeminence in the national sport, and realizing the poverty of a season without him, finally agreed to let the young woman come ashore as a tourist.

It was said here she had followed Rodriguez from one bull ring to another in Spain and that she appeared on the ship when it was some distance from Europe. She had neither money nor passports, but her bull fighting hero, who had not previously been acquainted with her, volunteered to pay for her passage.

Four Men Killed In Dynamite Blast

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Four unidentified Mexicans were blown to bits this afternoon, near Sugarland, 21 miles from here, when several cases of dynamite exploded. The four men, members of a dredging crew of the Sugarland Industries, were eating their lunches while seated on cases containing the explosive.

Deer, Bear Bring Fines for Hunters

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Oct. 25.—(AP.)—Three Clinton County residents, Robert Huff and Oscar Marshall, of Westport, near Renovo, and Raymond Bryan, of this city, were fined $480 and costs for the illegal killing of deer and bear and having in their possession several raccoon skins.

The thrilling story of Neil Johnson, wireless operator of the mail boat, "President."

"This happened seven years ago! A fellow named Robert Moore was piloting a seaplane, carrying five passengers, from Miami to Bimini Beach. Half way out, the propeller snapped in two! In a flash, the plane dived headlong into the choppy water—smashed one of its wings—and capsized completely! For four days it drifted! Then we sighted the wreck floating in the Gulf Stream! Down went a life boat—and we picked up Moore, the only one left—lashed to his plane—half crazed from exposure and hunger! There was no doctor aboard, and I had to wireless 100 miles to the naval station at Jupiter for the medical advice which saved Moore's life! . . . Yes sir, that's only one adventure with my Brandes headset. But it'll give you an idea how much we wireless men bank on Brandes and Brandes quality! And it'll tell you, too, why I bought one of the new Brandes Radios. You just can't beat anything that carries the name Brandes!"

Things I Never Knew Till Now

THAT in a B'way haberdashery whisky has been doled out, as treats to patrons only, in the same unwashed glass for 11 years. And that if you insist on washing the glass, you don't get any.

That a previous glass of veteran service was broken by a millionaire patron, and he has been too mortified to show himself since.

That baked beans originated in Russia and not in Boston.

That Edgar Allan Poetry, who succumbed from too much giggle water, never penned a line when he was drunkee.

That Weber & Fields began their career as fancy paper-tearers.

That when the Shuberts built one of their most beautiful theaters (the Forrest in Philly) they forgot the dressing rooms.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

THAT the average man hasn't enough strength to tear a newspaper sheet in half—a dozen times.

That Ambassador Dawes at one time had a beard, and the proof hangs on the wall in a photo at the Chicago Press Club.

That the diamond bracelet which Thaw gave to Fawn Gray was the pipe dream of a reporter, but believed by millions, because it was painted on her wrist by an expert in the art department.

That the address of the Capitol of these United States is 1600 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, D. C.

That the biggest electrically lighted letters are not in New York after all, but on the hills near Portland, Ore. They are 60 feet high.

That the congregation in a nearby village recently dismissed its pastor for economical reasons, getting their services via the radio.

YOU'VE MET THEM

THAT the life of an average motor car is six years and nine months.

That the original manuscript of "Deutschland uber Alles," the German national hymn, was recently sold for $16.

That the way to stop your stomach from coming up in your mouth (when an elevator descends) is to close your eyes.

That DeSylva, Brown & Henderson wrote "Sonny Boy" as a gag to end all sentimental ditties. It has already passed the million mark.

That the first golf course was in Yonkers, N. Y., where eight men played for a jug of joy water which dangled from a tree at the 9th hole.

That the Gov't has set aside $5,712 per yr for the flood lights (250 in all) to light up the Statue of Liberty.

That "Civic Virtue" at City Hall Park, N. Y., is the largest ever cut from a single block of marble since Angelo's "David."

THAT "FRENCH" HORN

THAT the new fangled auto horn of three notes originated from the German army call which meant: "Der Kaiser Kommt!"

That in 1806 a man left $5,000 to Trinity Church on condition that it would give away 30 loaves of bread every Sabbath.

That most of the cops in New York City are Irish and Democrats and all the Watertown cops are Irish and Republicans.

That the night clubs have more entertainers than customers.

That most N. Y. police change their white gloves thrice daily.

That with so many mystery plays in town, the critics, and not the actors, are the ones who are shot to pieces.

PLEASED, TOO, NO DOUBT

THAT Frank Campbell, the mortician, who buried Valentino, Eagles and other celebs, gives newspapermen free funerals.

That Bugs Baer says a federal decision is like Belasco's collar—it can easily be reversed.

That newspaper men use one word and two phrases almost universally. They are "Apparently," "I understand that" and "I'll have the same."

That Sam Winternitz, an auctioneer, was the first to operate a chain of talking picture theaters in Chicago, losing half a million.

That one of the a. m. rags was all set to kid athlete-writers during the coming Rodeo in Madison Square Garden by publishing a series of articles purporting to be written by one of the wild bulls, but was dissuaded because the Rodeo is for the benefit of the Broad Street Hospital.

That it has become virtually impossible to take a night photograph of New York because of the airplane beacons which revolve and leave a streak of light across the camera plates.

And that Otto H. Khan spent $65,000 on a private bathroom for his Long Island tepee, and that one of Manhattan's skyscrapers contains a bathroom in which the tiles are faced with 22-karat gold.

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

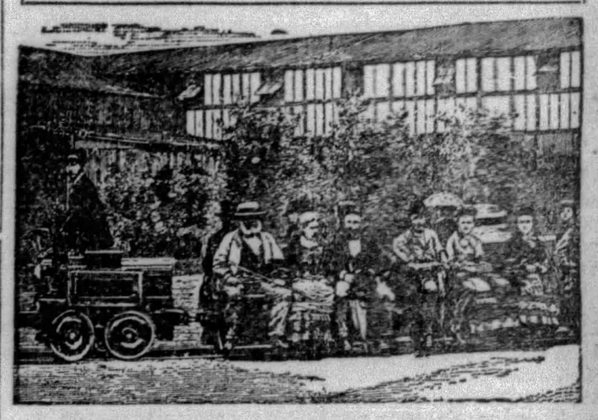
INTREPID EXPLORER OFF FOR LAND OF ICE AND SNOW



WASHINGTON.—Horace Frisby, fearless Congressman, stopped in at the National Geographic Society long enough yesterday to enjoy a cup of tea and show the latest picture of his brother, Albert, who is engaged in a secret exploration of the South Pole and vicinity.

"Note," said Frisby, excitedly, "the modern methods used for comfort and safety. Members of the party are required to remain seated, thus keeping the seats warm and at the same time eliminating dangers of accidents to pedestrians. My brother has cut down pedestrian accidents 100 per cent by merely insisting that there be no pedestrians. Of course we are working toward that same end everywhere."

Schools Still Teachers Despite Football Taint

Different persons are certain to react variably to the disclosures regarding "paid" athletes, especially football players, in our institutions of learning. The fact that very few of the colleges and universities investigated are given an absolutely clean bill of health in the report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching might be taken to indicate that (considering the source of the report) athletics in schools have taken on a professional tinge to the detriment of the instructive mission, which, presumably, is what the Foundation is interested in primarily.

Since Pittsburgh and nearby institutions are among those classed as black sheep in the matter of athletics (football, specifically) it may be as well to state that no evidence is visible indicating that they are failing in any way in their prime obligation. Scholastic standing must be maintained even by football stars, as we have learned from time to time when students athletically inclined have been denied participation in games until they bring themselves up to the educational mark. And our schools still graduate thousands whose scholastic standing is so high that they are in immediate demand.

As far as "professionalism" is concerned, that is something which is open to various interpretations. Real professional football does not contemplate the education of the players, nor promote anything else except indulgence in the pastime by the public and pecuniary benefit of the players and others interested in the sport commercially. We scarcely think that a boy trying to work his way through school by any admirable means should be regarded as a quasi criminal. In fact, we honor boys who do that if they wait on tables or hop bells in a hotel and perform other menial tasks while going through school.

Now, there is no doubt that college football has become a big thing commercially. The public wants to see the college game. Attempts to professionalize football in the same manner that baseball is professional have had very limited success. The public wants to see the college boys play and it wants to see stars. Football carries the expense of all other college sports—it pays a profit that helps to maintain college athletics about which there never is any suspicion of "professionalism." It can do this because of public patronage.

The game that once was for college students only now belongs to the public, the great throngs having required the building of immense stadiums throughout the country. So, any college student, alumnus or athletic council can hardly be blamed if it wants to see its alma mater able to hold up its head in pride in the matter of a team that will rank with the best.

But the revelations of the Foundation show how far the average American college has departed from that idealism and high principle that all of us have been wont to associate with our educational institutions. It isn't so much what they do, as the underhanded way it's done.

As James J. Long, Sun-Telegraph sports commentator, points out, the worst of this assistance to athletes in school is the hypocrisy of it.

Bus Competition Starts; Commission Scans Fares

At last the facts of the motorbus situation in Pittsburgh are being officially brought before the Public Service Commission through the efforts of the Allied Boards of Trade. The question, which has been uppermost in the minds of bus riders since the Sun-Telegraph began comparing Pittsburgh's 25-cent buses with the 10-cent service of other cities, is being put before a judicial body which has the power to force the Byllesby interests to give the people of this city adequate transportation at a reasonable rate.

The hearing on Wednesday was only a preliminary skirmish in a contest which may not be completed for several months. The case has been adjourned to give the Allied Boards of Trade more time to prepare a survey of the entire rapid transit situation in Pittsburgh.

But in the meantime the high fares charged by the bus lines have invited competition which eventually may be as effective as a Public Service Commission order. Cabs have started picking up potential bus passengers in groups of five. For a fare of 25 cents each the passengers are being carried to their office doors from many localities served by the buses.

The fact that a high cost form of individual transportation can carry passengers for as low a rate as large coaches seating from 16 to 27 passengers is additional evidence of the unfairness of the fares of the bus lines.

Radio Trust Forming Despite Disapproval

The people of the country do not want radio to get into the hands of a giant monopoly.

Radio is in the way of getting into monopoly control, both the radio of long-distance oversea communication and the radio of everyday home use.

The $400,000,000 International Telephone and Telegraph Company, which owns the Mackay cables, has made a "tentative" purchase of the wireless services of the Radio Corporation of America, incidentally offering $100,000,000 for property valued at $15,000,000.

Of course the public will be expected to pay rates that will give a "fair" return on the $100,000,000 "cost" of the property.

The purchase still remains "tentative" because it would be an illegal act for the International Telephone and Telegraph Company thus to acquire Radio Corporation of America, Inc., so long as Section 17 of the radio act still remains on the statute books of the United States.

That section forbids such a union of competing wire and wireless corporations; Congress in passing it proposed to protect the public from exactly the monopoly intended in this deal.

Now Congress is being urged to repeal Section 17. In some way, the great prestige of the American Bar Association has been enlisted on the side of repeal. Congress, we believe, can be counted on to stand fast against this particular and clearly seen encroachment of monopoly.

A radio trust is forming.

Fall waved the flag when he leased Teapot Dome to Sinclair. It was going to save the Navy's oil from being drawn off.

The radio trust is waving the flag, too. It can do us all so much good, it says, if it is only let alone.

If the Department of Justice does not get interested and active in enforcing the anti-trust laws, the radio trust will be the Teapot Dome of the Hoover administration.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

None of Our Business

LONG skirts are back again, girls. If you have a yard of dress material you might as well make the most of it.

"Bugs" Baer

A free and equal stroll along fashionable Fifth avenue indicates that the reign of the abbreviated skirt is drawing to its clothes.

Skirts will now be worn within six inches of the shoes instead of two looks above the ankle.

There was nothing particularly beautiful about the short skirt. It made the average woman look like a floor lamp.

The waist line is about the same.

Hats are snug, small, red and green. About the general effect of colored tops on bottles of cough mixture.

Dress lines will be slim. Dowagers, do your best.

Pleats will be stylish unless they're wrinkles.

October tones will be green, brown and gold. The stylish promenade will be a leaflike, autumn flutter.

We don't know who is responsible for women's styles. They say it is a man over in Paris. If this is true, the only way he is correct is geographically.

Women's fashions are like the subway during rush hours.

No allowance is made for hips.

The straight lines of street costumes mean that the boyish figure is still girlish.

The correct afternoon dress almost sweeps the bunions. This means that about three yards of material will be added to the old skirt.

Looks like the trend is toward the mid-Victorian with mutton chop sleeves and the bustle. When a woman starts out to be stylish, she doesn't care how she looks.

They're going to do the old crinoline days all over again with silk.

The girls on Fifth avenue are the prettiest in the world. This census of opinion is telephatic.

But, from now on, the only dimples you will see are going to be in chins.

The little, fat knees which used to sparkle in the sunlight are gone for the winter.

We are looking forward to next summer on the beach.

A TALE OF TWO GENERALS

By Herbert Kaufman

IN 1908 the writer drew his longbow and dared predict that America might some day find an automobile on every city block.

That Verne-like flight of fancy, however, did not even dent the thumbs-down policy of mid-Western banks, which were not so reckless as to extend credit to air-castle builders laying factory foundations in the clouds (not to mention Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit) in expectation of an annual production of 10,000 cars.

That is, IF they could find the money to proceed with.

Not an investment house was behind a single car manufacturer. Not a single motor stock was listed on exchange. Not a capitalist in the land could figure where sufficient purchasers would be found even for the EXCESS machines then being built.

THE International Harvester Company was half-heartedly producing a solid tire power buggy, but devoting FAR more effort to its line of FARM WAGONS.

George W. Perkins, chairman of its board—and incidentally a director of U. S. Steel—permitted Opportunity to bang the door until she disgustedly quit with bleeding knuckles.

Country bankers frothed at the mouth when a depositor withdrew the price of a flivver, and marked him down for approaching foreclosure.

The sight of a debtor merchant spinning along on rubber often resulted in a called-loan. Folk who were taking THAT much capital out of the business till were no longer safe risks.

THE atmosphere of financial conventions grew blue and apoplectic with discussions of means to keep the nation's feet on the ground—and its hand OFF the steering wheel.

Meanwhile a man named Ford had convinced a coal dealer, his bookkeeper (James C. Couzens) and a pair of machinists (the Dodge brothers) that there appeared quite an opening for a low-priced gasoline vehicle. And the lot of them more or less succeeded in making a profit out of his notion.

A certain bicycle retailer, John N. Willys, found an abandoned plant on the bargain counter, gave long term notes to an advertising concern, secured advance payments upon future agency deliveries and showed the money masters that "it COULD be done" without their consent.

EVERY good fairy in the land was off on some other job when the motor industry was born.

The little group of mechanics and salesmen who overnight created the biggest business on earth, built its cradle by hand, nursed it through infancy without silver teething rings, designed their own equipment, developed a home-made marketing strategy, without parallel in commercial history, and taught mass production tricks of precision and economy at which college bred practice is STILL blinking.

And when they DID sell their concerns to the "farsighted" captains of finance, who wouldn't come in on the GROUND FLOOR, Broad street had to use ELEVATORS to reach the purchase price.

The story of the automobile is an epic in a nutshell. The entire tale can be bobbed to SIX words: "From General Doubt to General Motors."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

YOU get what you EXPECT — You are what you IMAGINE—

Simple statements, but if you'll digest them they'll change the course of your life.

"But how about luck?" you say.

There's no such thing. Chance, yes. But no such thing as steady luck. Consistently "lucky people" MAKE their good fortune—it doesn't just swoop down on them. They make it by their own ATTITUDE—by the thing they expect and imagine.

Some people go through life EXPECTING prosperity. Not just wishing for it, but honestly expecting it, in every department of their conscious and unconscious selves And such people get prosperity. It comes to them as surely as iron filings come to a magnet.

Other people go through life expecting to get socked. They may deny this. They may loudly affirm their desire for harmony and relate their efforts to attain the same. But in the secret depths of their hearts they're AFRAID. They're sure that happiness is not for them. They suspect that something is going to happen to them. They suspect they're going to get socked—AND THEY DO.

After all, there's nothing very mysterious about that. This world is what we make it. It is a projection of the patterns we form inside ourselves. Everything we make, happened first inside the mind. That chair you are sitting in, the car outside your door, the houses on your street, are all COPIES of a vision in someone's brain—the RESULT of someone's desire.

You can make CONDITIONS as well as OBJECTS.

You can make SICK PATTERNS and HEALTH PATTERNS and PROSPERITY inside your mind as well as HOUSE PATTERNS and AUTOMOBILE PATTERNS.

"But no matter how well we think, things are bound to happen—OUTSIDE things—" you protest.

Sure, they are. But if you're healthy INSIDE, outside unhappiness or unhealthiness isn't going to dent you very badly. It's the disaster you EXPECT in your own mind, the cussedness you yourself IMAGINE that really hurts your life.

Men put shackles on Socrates. BUT SOCRATES NEVER PUT SHACKLES ON HIMSELF. Men called Socrates a slave. But Socrates never thought of himself as a slave—never expected nor imagined slavery inside himself—and so, forever, Socrates stands free and wise.

You are as free, as wise, as healthy, as happy, as rich as you, in the secret laboratory of your mind, will yourself to be. You are as bound and sick and unhappy as you expect to be.

"KEEP THY HEART WITH ALL DILIGENCE," cried Solomon, "FOR OUT OF IT ARE THE ISSUES OF LIFE . . . AS A MAN THINKETH WITHIN HIMSELF, SO IS HE."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

DOROTHY was a smart kid, and one day her mother told her she better be writing to her Aunt Madge. Dorothy said yes she guessed she had ought to be saying thanks for last Christmas stuff, or she wouldn't get any this Christmas. So she wrote a letter, but next morning when she was about to take the letters to mail, the mother said, "Here, Dorothy, you must be crazy! You started to write to Aunt Madge in Okmulgee last night, and here is your letter addressed to Aunt Kate in Springfield! And Aunt Kate never sent you a present in her life!"

"Yes, but Mamma," say the kid, "I couldn't spell Okmulgee!"

Text for Today The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God.—I Corinthians 1:18.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

FOR a mouse the day is a time of peril. Somewhere in a safe corner he has built a nest, soft and warm, with such materials as he has been able to gather; here he lurks during the day. At nightfall be grunts in his turn, and stretches and sallies forth to satisfy his tiny clamoring stomach. The life of a mouse in its physical essence is entirely parallel with that of a man.

The mouse-life is largely spent like the man-life in eating and in toiling—in gnawing holes and runs, in collecting nest materials, in foraging for crumbs and suchlike remnants. He probably goes hungry more often than does Mr. Everyman.

H. G. WELLS.

These two living creatures are as mechanism very much alike indeed. Their bodies are such beautiful and wonderful things that to many people it is almost repugnant to approach these palpitating, sensitive structures in a coldly calculating mood. And yet if we are to understand them aright that is the mood in which we study them. In that mood alone can we seek the explanation of this perpetual and universal desire that makes the stuffing of food into a hole in our faces the first fact in life, and reconcile the higher aspects of existence with even more sordid realities.

2. WHY WE CALL THESE BODIES MACHINES.

Both the man and the mouse are continually giving out material energy. They are never completely at rest as long as they live; even when they sleep their limbs twitch, their ribs heave, and their hearts continue with regular, rhythmical beat.

And, besides these actual movements, there is another way in which they lose energy; their bodies are warm.

A mouse or a man, like any warm object, loses heat continually to the cooler air which surrounds him, but he has internal sources of energy which compensate for his loss, so that his temperature is always slightly higher than that of his surroundings.

The need of a man and mouse for food is apparent in the greater part of their waking activities. Less conspicuous, but in reality even more urgent, is the need for air. Normally, it is unnecessary to seek that.

Always, almost unconsciously, a mamal is inhaling and exhaling air. It hardly realizes the necessity of that until under some exceptional condition the supply is cut off and suffocation begins.

Finally, we find various matters passing out of a mammalian body, matters other than the mere undigested residue of his food.

Is a living man fundamentally a machine? That is a question capable of experimental decision.

We can measure the amount of food that a man or an animal consumes, and we can measure the energy yielded during the same period. If we burn an equal weight of similar food in a suitable apparatus and find out how much energy its combustion yields, and if this value is equal to the energy yielded by the experimental subject, then evidently the living organism, so far as its energy-output is concerned, is really and precisely a combustion engine.

Such experiments have been performed. A man has been shut for a time in a small compartment, so constructed that the energy he gave out, as heat or otherwise, could be accurately measured. He was fed on a weighed amount of food of known composition and the energy actually yielded was compared with that which would have been obtained had the food been simply burnt. Such experiments have been made repeatedly, both with man and animals.

The following figures were obtained by Atwood, who worked with a human subject.

A man was shut in a calorimeter (heat-energy measurer) for 19 periods of 24 hours each; on the average, he gave out 2,682 large calories in each period, and ate an amount of food which would yield if burnt 2,688 calories. (A large calorie—there are several sorts of calorie—is the amount of heat required to raise one litre of water from 0° to 1° centigrade.)

The agreement is good. The two sums differ by only 2 per cent, which is well within the margin of error of the methods employed. Numerous other experiments have yielded equally convincing results. We are, therefore, justified in concluding that man and the animals generally are fundamentally mechanisms, driven by the energy liberated in the oxidation of food. A mouse or a man works in much the same way as a petrol motor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Thoughts while strolling: Rarely see children in Childs. George Gershwin's chin. Sign: "Skintherapist." The Fifth avenue doorman who looks like Will Rogers—and chews gum. The white-haired old three-card-monte king—who is now a street corner salvationist.

Sinclair Lewis' freckles. Swank motorists who call gasoline petrol. Winter is here—the windows are full of Palm Beach toggery! Why is there always a society boy in the novels called Tubby? Sidney Toler, the actor, a Plattsburg, Mo., boy who made good in the city.

Comic paper influence: City detectives have abandoned derbies. The only Rolls-Royce taxi in town—once owned by Foxhall Keene. And what a name for a sportsman! A complete gambling cabinet in ivory in an exclusive shop. Imported from England and costing $16,500.00.

Hype Igoe, the sport writer. Dangling earrings again. People who ride on bus tops in the rain. Bernard Gimble. Orange juice stand sign: "Pick-up cocktails of kraut and tomato juice from 6 a. m. until noon." Buoyant flappers who simulate such an eager delight in the commonplace.

Now that liver is up in the world socially, what's become of its lowly side-kick, the onion? And where's the 18-day diet? Gus Edwards on a flying trip from Hollywood. And, nearing 60, is winning new honors in the talkies. Eddie Cantor's understudy—Buddy Doyle.

Orchestra musicians still hanging around Broadway waiting for something to turn up. Freshly barbered racketeers who drift out at dusk for breakfast. Movie ushers at military attention. Why do they put those white crosses on windows of new buildings?

The high romance of a New York sun-down. That tingling throb presaging the gayety of a night to come. Choir boys going to vespers. Firemen tilt back chairs in front of stations. Victorias jog to the park with hand-holders. A dark plush sky gashed by the scimitar of a moon.

Imperial Will

THERE'S but one thing better still
Than bright dreams for you,
That is the imperial will
Which makes dreams come true.

Dreams are golden, dreams are sweet,
But the dream, to be complete,
Still must lead to truth.

Visions may be sent to guide
Seekers on their way;
Let the dream be not denied,
Bid its radiance stay.

Build your task by dreams' designs,
See that through each part
Something of dream-glory shines
From your dreamer's heart.

Rainbow castles glow for you;
But do not forget. . .
Make your home of dreams come true,
This is better yet!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHY do you always give what you would like yourself instead of figuring out what the recipient might like?

It takes thoughtful consideration of the circumstances surrounding your friend to know what sort of gift would be pleasing.

Some folk have a naturally judicious mind when it comes to selecting gifts. Others take the first thing offered.

What do you do?

Are you discriminatingly particular to give a suitable present?

Or do you give what you think the person OUGHT to want?

Don't be guided entirely by the idea of something useful even when bestowing upon the needy. Sometimes a heart is starved for beauty as well as for necessities.

Try to please with your gifts.
